ALBERTA FLOOD WRECKS BIG DAM'S SPILLWAY

EDMONTON (CP)—Rampaging waters of the Battle River Sunday washed away the concrete and steel spillway of an unfinished $7,000,000 power dam 10 miles south of Forestburg, Alta., and raised a threat to several bridges. Many acres of farmland were inundated.

The spillway gave way as the river rose to its highest level since 1948.

Damage to the Forestburg dam, 130 miles south-east of Edmonton, was estimated at more than $250,000. The power dam was due to open Sept. 4.

AERIAL VIEW OF FLOODS

Portage Lies In 30 Miles of Lake

(See Also Page 3)

By BOB METCALFE, Winnipeg Tribune Staff Writer
WINNIPEG (CP)—From 1,000 feet, the 30 miles between Headingley and Portage la Prairie appeared today as a huge lake studded with black fields, farm buildings and ribbons of roads and rails.

RUNOFF PICTURE

MANITOBA

Ice jam on Assiniboine River breaks dike near Portage la Prairie, increased flood threat to town of Oakville. Army studies call for aerial bombing to break pile-up. At Winnipeg work speeded to strengthen dikes. Residents of low-lying areas begin evacuating homes. Preparations were made for evacuating 200 boys from St. John's-Ravenscourt school at Fort Garry. Traffic impeded in southern Manitoba where bridges are weakening under thrust of run-off water.

ALBERTA

Vermilion River swept over four bridges in the Mangyville area, 75 miles east of Edmonton. Some 250 children were ferried from district farms Sunday and billeted in Mannville. At Vegreville life was returning to normal as waters receded after cutting off the town's hospital.

SASKATCHEWAN

Flood-fighters at Lumsden appeared to be winning their four-day battle to keep the Qu'Appelle River from invading the town 25 miles north-west of Regina. At Tantallon residents were preparing to leave their homes. The river there rose three inches during the weekend.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Melting snow sparks torrents in Rockies, trigger slides and washouts. Eight CPR trains stalled 16 hours near Revelstoke until late Sunday. Trans-Canada Highway blocked by washout near Sicamous. Northern trans-provincial road under water 20 miles east of Burns Lake.

Catholics May Join Merged Labor

TORONTO (CP)—With a union-splitting political donnybrook apparently averted by the strategic backroom work of the Canadian Labor Congress today embarked on its founding convention aimed at uniting 1,000,000 workers.

The week-long sessions of the convention, the largest labor meeting of its kind in Canadian history, will wed the 600,000 members of the historic Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the 400,000 of the younger Canadian Congress of Labor.

And even before the merger became effective, there were weekend indications here that it could possibly be swelled by the 100,000 membership of Quebec's Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor.

TLC president Claude Jodoin—who will become first head of the enlarged congress this week—told a Sunday press conference preliminary discussions with leaders of the French-speaking group have been started with an eye to amalgamation.

I flew over the area for a bird's eye view of a situation the flood experts call "critical." In most spots water lies may be a foot deep in fields where it can do little damage. In others it creeps away from the swollen Assiniboine rivers at depths of one to 2½ feet with trouble in its wake.

FARMS CUT OFF

Farms are isolated, villages and bridges threatened, roads cut. Some stretches of the river can not be distinguished because of overflowing lakes.

And all because the most flood-prone area in Manitoba fell prey this year to an unpredictable combination—spring run-off along with ice jams.

Without the ice, the overflow would be nowhere near as great. Ice is not even concentrated for easy blasting; it is spread out in long packs of mushy snow fused together.

CLOGGED FOR 600 FEET

East of Portage a 600-foot whopper forced the river to spill over among farms and toward nearby villages, road and rail lines.

Further east the same story, though not so serious. Water is over the banks to join run-offs in fields and creeks.

Warmer weather may need some man-made help to free the ice and start the river flowing smoothly, but water in the fields will have to find its way back by another way.

The major trouble spot is between Portage and Poplar Road, where the overflow has endangered a Trans-Canada Highway bridge.

South of the river, villages along No. 2 Highway are mainly dry except for surrounding fields and right-of-way ditches.

MAY SWAMP AREA

Portage residents fear the area around Oakville will be swamped unless the Assiniboine ice jam is cleared. Last year a record ice jam at the same spot sent water tumbling into Elie, 20 miles east.

The Assiniboine's banks along this 30-mile stretch are higher than the land on either side. Once the water is over the top, it's away.

Southeast of Portage, the flood water from the Assiniboine flows south into the La Salle, which joins the Red River at St. Norbert via Elie and Starbuck.

Flood waters over the north bank find their way back to the Assiniboine through creeks and drainage ditches—but only after the river level drops.

This drainage process may take a month, or six weeks, and not before the crest of the Assiniboine reaches Portage.

3 Drug Offenders Get 37 Years' Jail

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two men and a woman were sentenced today to a total of 37 years in prison after being found guilty by Magistrate Oscar Orr of possessing narcotics for the purpose of trafficking.

Victor Hansen, 25, was sentenced to 14 years. David Orne, 25, was given 13 years and 23-year-old Mrs. Carol Talbot was sentenced to 10 years.

AFFABLE KHRUSHCHEV CHEERED, JEERED

mand, Nicolai Bulganin. Boos were mixed with cheers on several occasions during the pair's visit to Britain, now in its sixth day. Russian visitors met Queen Elizabeth Sunday. (London Daily Mirror Photo.)

Metchosin Girl Badly Bitten By Raccoon

A three-year-old girl was attacked and severely bitten by an enraged raccoon in the Latoria Road, Metchosin area, this morning.

Donna Klatt, Latoria Road, was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital shortly after noon for severe bites to her left hand and ear.

It was the second attack by a raccoon in that area since last Wednesday when three members of one family were bitten by a "pet" raccoon.

The raccoon had been a pet of Mrs. Flewin, Glen Lake. It went on a rampage last Wednesday, sending Mrs. Flewin, a son, James, 9, and daughter, Sherry, 3, to hospital.

It was reported the attacking raccoon this morning was beaten off by an unidentified man when he saw the little girl on the ground, and the raccoon, chewing on her hand and ear.

It is believed to be the same animal.

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain will spend nearly £1,000,000 in the next 10 years on reconstructing her coal industry, the national coal board announced today.

'AVERAGE, NORMAL, HEALTHY BOY'

Boy, 11, Resented Spankings, Murders Dad, Mother, Brother

MANSFIELD, Conn. (UP)—An 11-year-old boy told psychiatrists today how he killed his mother, his father and his brother with a single-shot rifle in revenge for spankings.

Robert A. Curgenvin, who wears glasses because of defective vision in his right eye, wiped out the entire farm family Saturday with seven shots from a single-action .22 calibre rifle.

He ate a meal of frankfurters and beans and slept the night soundly before he confessed the slayings Sunday to a neighboring farmer.

"I planned this deal for a week," the boy told police. "My parents had spanked me. I planned to kill them."

He had told two schoolmates they could have his 25 pet chickens if he didn't come to school today.

His fishing kit, his bow and his knapsack were found labelled with the names of playmates he wanted to give

Closer Ties for NATO Dulles' Recipe for Unity

NEW YORK (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the United States is ready to join western European democracies in "exploring the possibilities" of converting the North Atlantic Treaty Organization into a closer union of free nations.

In a major policy address, Dulles said "the time has come to advance NATO" from its initial phase as a mutual defense pact "into the totality of its meaning."

Dulles did not spell out in detail his ideas on a closer union. But he indicated that he was thinking in terms of greater economic and political co-operation.

Implementation of Article Two of the NATO charter, calling for closer economic, political and cultural co-operation, has been asked repeatedly by Canada's External Affairs Minister, L. B. Pearson.

He made clear, however, that the United States does not envision complete federation of the NATO powers, but rather a system in which each nation would preserve a considerable measure of independence in foreign affairs as well as in its domestic affairs.

"The historic weakness of the West has been its disunity," Dul-

WIRE BRIEFS

Eden Bid to Moscow

LONDON (AP)—Premier Nikolai Bulganin has invited Prime Minister Eden to pay a return visit to Russia as soon as he can find the time, a diplomatic official reported tonight.

Holocaust in Japan

FUKUI, Japan (AP)—Some 4,000 persons lost their homes today in a fire which destroyed 600 of 2,700 houses in the town of Awaramachi, 11 miles north of here. One person was killed.

Roper Quits

EDMONTON (CP)—Elmer E. Roper, 63-year-old provincial leader of the CCF party for the last 13 years, announced today he is withdrawing from that post and will not accept nomination when the provincial convention is held here June 22-23.

Ban Jim Crow Buses

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Supreme Court today banned racial segregation on buses operating within states. The supreme court's action was unanimous.

Lost His Job, Too

CHICAGO (AP)—A bus driver who police said pistol-whipped and shot at a passenger who didn't have the exact fare has been charged with intent to kill.

(The Chicago Transit Authority also fired the driver, Herman Lewis, 35.)

Greeks Kill 2 Turks in Cyprus Riot

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Two Turkish Cypriots were killed today as this capital city of troubled Cyprus burst out in a wave of shooting and violence between Greeks and Turks.

A band of young club-wielding Turks marched through the narrow streets smashing Greek store windows and hurling stones at a Greek crowd.

One of the shooting victims was a Turkish police constable, slain as he chased a fleeing gunman.

The other was shot to death in a tobacco factory two hours later after British troops cordoned off the heart of the city.

Soon Will Have Nuclear Missiles To Hit All World

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (AP)—Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev boasted today Russia soon will have guided missiles with H-bomb warheads which could "hit every point in the world." Khrushchev made this statement in warning those who jeered: "Never shake your fist at a Russian."

Khrushchev disclosed, too, that the Russians have already exploded an H-bomb from a plane. He claimed the Soviet Union was first to do this.

Speaking in Russian without notes at a luncheon, he showed he was nettled by boisterous crowds who met him and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin here on the sixth day of their 10-day visit to Britain.

The full impact of Khrushchev's words seemed lost in the bustle of the luncheon, but an official translation by the Soviet news agency Tass underlined his implied threat:

"We shall have in the near future a guided missile with an H-bomb warhead which can hit every point in the world."

Premier Bulganin indicated last December the Russian's already have guided missiles capable of intercontinental flights.

Khrushchev said he had seen people shaking fists at him and Bulganin since their arrival in Britain. Then he launched into a vivid account of Soviet strength.

"In spite of all that, you do not want to trade with us," he added. "... The point I want to make is that these restrictions on trade do not prevent us in any way making advances in armaments. Therefore it is quite unreasonable."

The Communist party leader said that "only the development of widespread trade can smooth the road to really strong friendship" between Britain and Russia.

With a grin, he said Anglo-Soviet trade could hardly flourish when it is based on Russian crab exports in exchange for British herring "although your herrings are wonderful—particularly with a drop of vodka."

Russia had been forced to build up its machine-tool industry, although it preferred to buy machine tools from Britain.

"They say there should be no trade in strategic goods because of the possibility of conflict," Khrushchev said. "But what are strategic goods? Butter can also be considered as strategic."

Earlier, jeering demonstrators carrying anti-Communist banners heckled Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin during a whirlwind tour of Birmingham.

Obviously excited, Khrushchev referred to the demonstrators and warned: "Never shake your fist at a Russian."

"He told the luncheon that he and Bulganin, now on a 10-day visit to Britain and for high level talks, had seen placards 'attacking us and Russia, and we have heard the cries of many people.'"

"We have seen fists shaken at us."

"I would remind the man with the fist that attempts have been made previously to speak to us in that manner. Never shake your fist at a Russian."

"Hitler tried to attack us with a clenched fist and now he is in his grave."

"It is not time that we became more intelligent and no shake our fists at each other? We have come here not to create hostility. We have come on a friendly visit at Sir Anthony's Eden's invitation, and we are most grateful to him for that invitation."

The Russians' departure this morning from their headquarters at London's swank Claridge's Hotel was delayed for two hours at their request. After four days of intensive talks with British government leaders and numerous public appearances, aides said they were "feeling the strain of their work and are very tired."

After spending Saturday night at Chequers, the prime minister's country home, Khrushchev and Bulganin had tea Sunday with the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh at Windsor castle. While the Russians balanced their cups, young Prince Charles and Princess Anne were brought in to meet them.

The visitors lavished gifts on the Royal Family. There was a Russian sable wrap for the Queen and two sleek Russian horses for the Duke and Prince Charles. Princess Anne received a little brown bear, which was sent to the London Zoo.

A crowd of visitors gathered to watch as the Soviet leaders were whisked through the great gates of Windsor. Many cheered, and the Russians waved happily.

They missed one greeting their official hosts hadn't counted on. Police at daybreak discovered this foot-high sign in yellow paint on the castle walls: "Keep the murderers out!—Don't entertain murderers!" A coat of grey paint was hurriedly applied.

No details of the conversation between the Royal Family and the Communist visitors were revealed. After tea, the visitors made a quick tour of the ancient castle, which commands the head of the Thames River valley.

While the visitors devoted today to public appearances, diplomats of the two countries delved further into the Middle East situation and other East-West problems. Sir Gromyko is reported to have hinted that Russia will back proposals for strengthening the Arab-Israeli armistice advanced by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld of the United Nations during his current Middle East mission.

In Moscow, meanwhile, Pravda asserts that the cause of current unrest in the Middle East is not Soviet intrigue but a British-American struggle for the area's oil.

Bookmaking Network Said Centered Here

Police in Everett, Wash., said today Victoria is the hub for an international bookmaking network.

Chief Deputy Bill Williamson said a direct telephone line to Victoria was uncovered following a raid Saturday on a back room of the El Rancho night club.

E. A. Peterson, 67, was charged with illegal possession of gambling equipment.

The deputy told the Times today: "I'm still working on an angle here, but when I questioned Peterson, he told me Victoria was the hub of a huge bookmaking network."

He was in touch by telephone at noon today with Police Chief John Blackstock. Chief Blackstock said a fuller report will be made when all the facts in the case have been assembled in Everett.

District commercial manager of the B.C. Telephone Co., J. A. MacKintosh, said: "I don't know of any leased lines we have with the United States. We have none to my knowledge."

Police chiefs in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt were emphatic no organized bookmaking existed in their municipalities.

Two years ago there were similar reports about racing information from here going to the U.S. but nothing was ever discovered.

monopolies are suffering defeat," the Soviet Communist party organ declares in an editorial. "The weakening of her economic position was bound to tell on Britain's political influence in this area."

"We recall these facts not in order to drive a wedge between the United States and Britain but merely to show how groundless is the talk of some British papers about Soviet intrigues in the Near and Middle East."

INVITES TRIPS TO RUSSIA

Also involved in the Russian-British discussions are East-West differences on how to achieve disarmament and ways to remove trade, cultural and tourist barriers between Britain and the Soviet Union.

Bulgaria told a reception at the London County Council Sunday night that Russia will "welcome visits to Moscow and other parts of our country by people from London or any other part of Britain." Many parts of the Soviet Union now are closed to foreigners, and Moscow generally has chosen carefully when issuing entry visas.

Members of Bulgaria's audience, including aldermen, sheriffs and borough mayors, suggested there might be more visits if a more realistic ruble exchange rate were adopted.

"We are looking into this matter and hope to do something about it," Bulgaria said.

Russia arbitrarily pegs the ruble at four to the dollar and slightly under a dozen to the pound sterling ($2.80). Its purchasing rate for visitors at these rates is so low that the cost of touring Russia reaches fantastic heights. On free money markets in the West, the ruble sells at about 10 to the dollar, but import of these "black market" rubles into Russia is forbidden.

JEERED BY 300

At Birmingham jeering demonstrators with "Down with Moscow" banners heckled Bulganin and Krushchev during their whirlwind tour of the Midlands industrial centre.

The derisive greeting for the Kremlin leaders came as Prime Minister Eden's chief lieutenant indicated cautious optimism that their talks in London will prove valuable.

"If we can judge from the talks up to date, and if deeds follow words, then we can say already that the visit has been well worthwhile," R. A. Butler, leader of the House of Commons, said in opening the British Industries Fair in London.

A crowd of about 300 hostile Russian leaders a gaudy reception outside Birmingham's city hall where they were received after a flight from London.

Big banners in Russian and English urged Bulganin and Krushchev to "Go Back to Moscow." One group carried a large pennant "Keep Communism Out." Others read: "We Ask Freedom for Latvia." "Down with Moscow Imperialism." A giant banner in Ukrainian proclaimed "For an Independent Ukraine."

MOST HOSTILE RECEPTION

There were jeers and catcalls for the Russian leaders all along the nine-mile drive from the airport to the city centre.

It was the most hostile reception the Kremlin chiefs have received since they arrived in Britain six days ago for a 10-day visit. Thousands of exiled East Europeans live in the Birmingham area.

The Russians' itinerary for the rest of the day included a visit to the Midlands section of the industrial fair, a flight to the East Anglia RAF base at Marham, and finally a flight back to London for dinner at the House of Commons.

Before their takeoff from London, Bulganin and Krushchev paused briefly at London airport to look over Britain's new Bristol Britannia, a four-engine turbo-prop plane designed to carry 120 passengers.

Famed Writer Shapiro Says More Canadian Reporters Needed Abroad

TORONTO (CP)—Author-reporter Lionel Shapiro of Montreal said Saturday that Canadian newspaper publishers ought to maintain more Canadian reporters abroad.

Writer of the best-selling The Sixth of June, soon to appear as a motion picture, and himself a veteran war and foreign correspondent, Mr. Shapiro addressed the Toronto Men's Press Club's annual dinner.

Mr. Shapiro said Canada has become the "wonder nation of the mid-20th century." Her accomplishments during the Second World War were the foundation for the "most vividly spectacular growth in modern economic history."

Canadians Proved Best of the Crop

Ross Munro, now editor of the Vancouver Province, "became the war correspondent's war correspondent."

"Then of The Canadian Press, he was by common consent the best war correspondent in the business."

Among radio reporters the CBC's Matt Halton "was right at the top of the heap."

"The war produced no more eloquent copy than the dispatches of Ralph Allen, then of the Globe and Mail (now editor of Maclean's Magazine) and of Fred Griffin and Greg Clark of the Toronto Star."

Mr. Griffin died shortly after the war, while Mr. Clark now is associate editor of Weekend magazine.

"And in the field of press facilities we produced two men recognized in every press camp, British, American or Canadian, as the best in the war—Dick Malone and Eric Gibbs."

Eric Malone now is publisher of the Winnipeg Free Press, while Col. Gibbs, who died at Geheva in

3 Boys Face Hanging as Appeal Lost

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba Court of Appeal today unanimously dismissed the appeal of three Quebec youths against a conviction of murder in the pistol-slashing of a Roman Catholic priest near Brandon in January, 1955. The three are scheduled to be hanged May 29.

They are Guy Ferragne, 19, of Riviere des Prairies, Gerard Yvon de Tonnancourt, 18, and Claude Paquin, 18, both of Montreal.

They were found guilty of murdering Rev. Alfred Quirion 43-year-old priest of St. Edouard, Alta., in his automobile on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Evidence at the trial showed the three got a ride with the priest while hitch-hiking. The priest's bullet-punctured body was found on his ditched automobile east of Brandon.

The three were arrested several hours later in a Brandon railway station.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Singer Perry Como plays a song written by Irwin Luck (right), during a meeting at Como's New York office. Luck, an 18-year-old student from Miami, Fla., paid $850 to rent a huge billboard sign in the heart of Times Square to call Como's attention to his song-writing abilities. The advertising paid off and Luck was given a chance to show his wares to the famous entertainer.

Poland to Release 30,000 by Amnesty

LONDON (Reuters)—Communist Poland will release 30,000 prisoners immediately by amnesty under a new draft law and will reduce the sentences on 70,000 others, Warsaw radio said Sunday.

The radio said the draft was discussed by legal and administrative committees of the Polish parliament Sunday.

For the first time since the Second World War political crimes will be pardoned altogether or in some cases the terms of punishment mitigated, the radio said.

Spies and terrorists will have their sentences reduced while people who indulged in subversive propaganda, crossed illegally the state frontier or did not fulfill the duty of denouncing a criminal will be pardoned and reference to their punishment will be eliminated from their files.

Five-year sentences will be quashed, 10-year sentences reduced by half, and higher sentences reduced by a third.

Life imprisonment will be reduced to 12 years while a death sentence will be commuted to 15 years' imprisonment.

Under the chapter of common crimes, the draft law provides for pardon of offences punishable by two years' imprisonment such as infringements of Labor Discipline Laws. Women guilty of such offences will have sentences up to three years' imprisonment quashed.

Crimes committed by an emigre will be pardoned if he returns to Poland before July 22, Polish National Day. Under this chapter crimes of "helping the fascisation of political life in pre-war Poland are included."

how to keep your business in the family

If you are the owner of, or have an interest in a privately-owned business, there will be many problems which your executors will be called upon to face when it comes to settling your estate. Perhaps you plan to perpetuate your business in the family—you may be training your sons to take over your responsibilities.

Have you considered the amount of succession duties payable on your estate? The duties will depend on the "value" placed upon the business by Succession Duty Authorities.

Montreal Trust Company is convinced that intelligent estate planning accomplishes more for the owner of a private business than for anyone else. The prudent owner of a family business will take steps during his lifetime to meet his particular problem.

We have published a booklet, suggesting "HOW TO KEEP YOUR BUSINESS IN THE FAMILY" and will be pleased to send you a copy upon request.

Island VIPs Promise to Attend 'Bury-the-Hatchet' Ceremony

DUNCAN—A special committee of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce has completed details of "hatchet burying" to be held here Wednesday.

The ceremony will symbolize the end of "strife" between Victoria and Nanaimo, and the spirit of co-operation to be observed by all Island centres.

Mayor Dobson will officiate at the rites and the local chamber will provide the hatchet which will be buried by Mayor Perry Scourrah of Victoria and Nanaimo's Mayor Earl Westwood.

The city of Duncan will also provide the tombstone under which the emblematic hatchet will be entombed on the grounds adjoining the chamber's tourist information office on the Trans-Canada highway at Coronation Avenue.

Invited to the ceremony are Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Chetwynd, all Vancouver Island MPs and MLAs, the mayors of all Island cities, reeves of municipalities and chairmen of village commissions, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, Magistrate A. C. Sutton, Sgt. T. D. Brunton of Duncan's RCMP, deputy ministers of trade and commerce and municipal affairs, and presidents of all Island chambers of commerce.

LUNCHEON

This company will attend a "no-host" luncheon in the Emerald Room of the Tzouhalem Hotel at 12.30, with Maj. Gen. C. A. P. Munson, reeve of North Cowichan municipality and president of the Vancouver Island Municipal Association, presiding.

Speakers at the luncheon are to be Mayor Dobson, Mayor Scourrah and Mayor Westwood, who are expected to outline their plans for furthering promotional co-operation among Vancouver Island cities and communities.

Full press, radio and television coverage is assured.

After the luncheon the guests will be transported to the "cemetery" by V.I. Coach Lines buses donated for the occasion. Leaving the hotel at 2.15 p.m., the entourage will be escorted by RCMP.

The Queen's Own Rifles, Victoria, is providing a bugle band and a guard of honor for the ceremony, while Indians in costume will present dances and songs during the afternoon's program at the burial site.

Mayor Dobson will introduce the visiting mayors. Short addresses are scheduled by the Victoria and Nanaimo mayors and by Premier Bennett and Mr. Gagliardi.

Abel Joe has been asked to present the ceremonial hatchet on a velvet cushion to Miss Sjoberg, "Miss PNE," who will, in turn, present it to Mayor Dobson, who will officiate at the rites.

The hatchet will be entombed

in concrete and covered by a tombstone measuring 28 by 26 inches and 26 inches at its highest point.

After the participants return to the platform, the program will conclude with "The Queen."

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!

Soak your plates in Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath"

Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth—and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules:

1. Never use a brush on dental plates. Brushing wears down natural teeth. Brushing wears down natural teeth. Brushing wears down natural teeth. Brushing wears down natural teeth. Brushing wears down natural teeth.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only. . . . Polident! Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. # Floods Worsened By Ice Jam

Winnipeggers Quit Low-Lying Homes

WINNIPEG (CP)—Piling ice on the Assiniboine river threatened further flooding today as dikes weakened and crumbled under the pressure of a floodtide of muddy water sweeping over southern Manitoba farmlands.

As the situation in the Portage la Prairie area, 55 miles west of here, grew worse, work crews Sunday night began building up the dikes protecting this city of 400,000. The Red river continued its slow rise in the city and residents of low-lying areas began moving out of their homes.

Latest trouble spot on the Assiniboine developed at the "Hoop 'n' Holler," a twisting bend in the river four miles east of Portage la Prairie. A six-foot thick ice jam piled up in the bend and Joseph Omichinsky, a member of the Portage rural council, said if it was not cleaned out, trapped floodwaters would sweep into the nearby town of Oakville.

40-FOOT SPLIT

An army officer from Winnipeg was to make an aerial survey of the jam today.

Mr. Omichinsky, himself marooned on a farm while conducting a survey of the area, said in a telephone interview water was pouring through a 40-foot break in a dike, submerging the Portage-Oakville highway. Water also was sweeping over a dike near West Curtis, a small settlement east of Portage la Prairie.

He urged that an airplane or helicopter be sent into the area to bomb the ice jam. Mayor H. L. Henderson of Portage la Prairie was considering the proposal.

A bridge spanning a drainage ditch on the trans-Canada highway near Portage still was standing early today despite the severe pounding it was taking from the flooding river. Only essential traffic was being allowed over the bridge.

While most farmers evacuated their homes in the Portage district during the weekend, several preferred to remain with their livestock.

CAN'T STAND STRAIN

Agriculture Minister R. D. Robertson said Saturday night the government did not see how it was possible to stop flooding at many places along the Assiniboine. Many dikes now protecting farm land are not capable of being raised because they would not stand the strain.

In Winnipeg residents on the river side of Wellington Crescent, the street of the city's wealthy, watched anxiously as the Assiniboine began creeping up their back yards, swamping docks and boat houses.

But the swollen Red posed the biggest threat to the city. At midnight Sunday the river had risen to 18.8 feet, eight-tenths of a foot above the initial flood stage.

Two hundred students at St. John's-Ravenscourt boys' school in suburban Fort Garry made plans to evacuate the school, situated between the river and a dike. The school was swamped in the 1950 flood.

PREPARE TO MOVE

Downstream, residents of suburban Elm Park, a narrow peninsula in a hairpin bend of the river, began moving out household belongings. Premier Campbell said the area, containing about 200 homes, can expect "major flooding" along with 60 other homes which were left outside the new dikes.

Spring floods still plagued Saskatchewan and Alberta. At Lumsden, Sask., flood fighters appeared to have won a four-day battle to keep the Qu'Appelle river from pouring into the town 25 miles northwest of Regina. The level of the river was holding steady.

In Alberta, the concrete spillway of a $7,000,000 unfinished power dam on the Battle River washed out Sunday.

Man Injures Ankle In Nanaimo Crash

NANAIMO—A two-car crash Sunday afternoon at the intersection of Drake Street and Brechin Road sent Owen Spittal, 24 Moyse Street, to hospital with a possible broken ankle.

Driver of the second car, Joseph Klest, 1709 Brechin Road, was badly shaken but suffered no serious injuries. The cars were damaged extensively.

Bricks came into use as building material for churches in Denmark about 1160.

SOGGY MAIN STREET—The main street of MacGregor, Man., 20 miles west of Portage la Prairie, is under a foot of water flowing into the town from the rampaging Beaver Creek. MacGregor was one of a number of western towns and villages flooded by the spring run-off. An estimated 200 farmers fled their homes in the Portage la Prairie area. In the MacGregor area schools were closed. All stores were surrounded with sandbags and closed.

SEVEN BRIDGES WASHED OUT — Ice jams against a bridge at Jarvie, Alta., on the Pembina River, 90 miles north of Edmonton, during the spring run-off. Seven bridges in areas north and northwest of Edmonton were washed out by spring floods and four schools near Edmonton were closed. A road west of Jarvie was cut as water swept around the end of this bridge.

RAIN WORTH MILLIONS

PENTICTON — Rain-making operations in Washington, Oregon and California could be worth $20,000,000 to $50,000,000 in economic benefits, a researcher said here Saturday.

J. S. Barrows of Missoula, Mont., chief of Montana's fire research division, said that in December, 1955, results of seeding 5,000 storms with silver iodide showed increases of 9 to 17 per cent in precipitation in the three Pacific coast states.

Slide Stalls 8 CPR Trains

(From The Canadian Press)

SALMON ARM — Eight CPR trains, five of them passenger-carriers containing about 500 persons, were delayed up to 16 hours Sunday following a rock and dirt slide across the main line 13 miles east of here. Three of the trains were trans-continental.

CPR officials said the slide occurred when water from fast-melting snow piled up behind the Trans-Canada highway, knocking out a section of road about 40 feet wide and 40 feet deep. The rock and earth rolled 125 feet to cover the tracks.

Two coaches on the westbound Canadian—a dining car and a sleeping car—were derailed in another mishap. No one was injured. The incident occurred when the train was moving at three miles an hour in an area where two short slides had occurred earlier. The rail bed ballast gave way.

Work crews had to build a new culvert to drain off water before train operations could resume late Sunday afternoon.

40 FIGHT FIRE

GIBSONS — Forty men, who flocked to the scene in small boats, Sunday prevented the spread of a $2,500 blaze which destroyed a six-room cottage on Keat's island in Howe sound.

The men noticed the flames from Gibsons, half a mile away, and responded in all kinds of boats.

THREE SAVED FROM SEA

VANCOUVER — The Miss Lynne, a cabin cruiser, was launched Sunday just in time to rescue three men and a dog, tossed into the Fraser river when their speedboat capsized. Rescued were Cliff Hewson, Mike Pruden and Butch Uno, all of Vancouver. The speedboat was recovered.

13th TRAFFIC VICTIM

VANCOUVER — Cecil H. Anderson, 74, Sunday became the city's 13th traffic victim this year when he died from injuries suffered in an accident last Wednesday.

Police said he was hurled over the hood of a car and through the windshield while crossing a west end street.

Canada Insures Itself

THE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES tell the Gordon Commission that Canadians are the world's most highly insured people. We buy more life insurance per capita than even our richer American neighbors.

By the end of 1955 Canadian insurance in force reached the astounding figure of $26,532,000,000. This is an increase of nearly 11 per cent over the total for 1954 and it represents 128 per cent of the nation's entire income for one year. No other nation equals that record proportionately.

American life insurance, for example, represents 111 per cent of national income. In Britain the figure is 49 per cent.

Indirectly everybody has a stake in it. For the life insurance companies are huge holders and investors of capital. The savings collected by them are used to finance investments of many sorts. A man borrowing to build a house may not know it, but the money may have come from the premiums paid by policy holders.

The modern Canadian economy, indeed—not to mention the financial security of the Canadian family—would be unimaginable without life insurance. As the insurance companies tell the Gordon Commission, the market is by no means saturated. By 1980 insurance in force will be four times today's total.

It is typical of our thrifty national character that we should choose the safest sort of investment for the protection of our dependents or for the security of old age. We know that insurance benefits will be paid without fail when they are due.

We do not know, however, what those benefits will be worth when they are paid. This is a question beyond the control of the insurance companies because they do not fix the value of money. It is no fault of theirs that an insurance policy for $1,000 written before the last war is worth about $500 today, though paid in full. The policy holder has lost heavily simply because the dollar is not worth what it once was.

Unwise policies in government, in business management and in labor unions could easily reduce the value of the dollar still more and along with it the value of life insurance, like all other fixed investments, including the Government's own bonds.

When Canadians buy more life insurance than any other people in the world they have a special interest in the value of money. The citizen who owns an insurance policy should be the last man to favor public policies bound to end in inflation.

Wheat Moves Again

LAST AUTUMN MR. C. D. HOWE was confronted on one side by an avalanche of unsold wheat and, on the other, by almost irresistible pressure to sell the wheat at any price, or to give it away. Mr. Howe kept his head. His judgment, as often before, has been confirmed by a rapid increase in wheat sales for hard cash. If the surplus is still with us, the crisis of six months ago has passed.

The Winnipeg Free Press, published in the heart of the wheat country, has long attacked Mr. Howe on a wide variety of issues including wheat. It is the first to acknowledge that he has handled the surplus problem with skill and courage.

Three factors have combined to start our wheat moving massively into the world market. Hard weather destroyed much wheat in Europe and increased the demand for imports. The United States' give-away program has been moderated, perhaps as a result of Canadian protests. Finally, the Wheat Board, which sells all export wheat, sharply reduced its price on lower grades and importing countries were encouraged to buy again in volume.

As a result, Mr. Howe is no longer under pressure to dump wheat at the cost of the farmer, the taxpayer or both. If his policy of patience has been vindicated, it is by no means certain that we shall not face a continued surplus a year from now. The crop soon to be planted may exceed our annual sales, depending of course on the weather here and in other wheat-producing countries. We have a wheat problem but no longer a crisis.

At the moment the future of our huge prairie farm industry is clouded by the uncertain future of the International Wheat Agreement, still under negotiation at Geneva. It seems unlikely that the agreement can survive on the terms demanded by Mr. Howe.

He says that it will be useless for Canada to continue the existing arrangements unless they cover some two-thirds of the world's wheat trade. This will be impossible unless Britain, the world's largest wheat importer, rejoins the agreement, and so far Britain has refused to do so. As an importer it is interested in securing the lowest possible price and evidently believes that it will soon be able to buy wheat at prices below those fixed by the agreement.

If the present system collapses Mr. Howe apparently thinks that he can still sell wheat satisfactorily but he may have to sell at a lower price. The law of supply and demand is still in operation. So, fortunately is Mr. Howe.

All Areas Are Affected

ALDERMAN AUSTIN CURTIS is right in suggesting that surrounding municipalities should match City Council contributions to the Community Chest of Greater Victoria. But it is to be hoped that the city's donation this year will not be made dependent on municipal participation. It will be better for the city to set an example of generous treatment of the Chest, rather than withhold needed aid on the grounds that other areas are not pulling their weight.

Victoria's civic donation was drastically cut last year. The effects were felt throughout the list of 17 Chest agencies. To the city's $2,000, Saanich added $450. Oak Bay and Esquimalt gave nothing, yet the agencies represented in the united appeal of the Community Chest cover all parts of Greater Victoria and Sidney; they are in no way restricted to Victoria. The work benefits the whole community.

There has been considerable comment on the local increase in juvenile delinquency and illegitimate births. This is a problem that comes under the jurisdiction of the Family and Children's Service—a Chest agency to which more than one-third of Chest collections go. Surely aid to such a group—to mention only one—is an important concern of elected civic and municipal bodies. It is "good business," economically as well as morally.

troit Free Press, Los Angeles Times, St. Louis Post-Dispatch and Washington Post how they handled social news on Negroes. Society editors on the papers told him that the New York Times had printed the picture of one Negro bride, the Herald-Tribune four or five, and the remaining papers none at all.

The Montgomery editor found from the Milwaukee Journal's editorial staff that "Negroes moving into previously white areas are resented by white residents who fear that the influx will destroy their property values."

Further surveys revealed other instances of discrimination against colored people.

Mr. Hall may not have proved a great deal in relation to the differences toward desegregation in the northern and southern states. But he has made one point: people who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones, and the number of glass houses seems to be well distributed.

Glass Houses and Desegregation

WHILE THE SEGREGATION controversy rages throughout the United States, the editor of the Montgomery Advertiser, Mr. Grover C. Hall, Jr., has conducted an interesting and illuminating experiment.

Montgomery is the site of the original Negro bus boycott. As such it has been widely publicized.

Appreciating that fact and the heavy censure imposed upon it by many northerners, Mr. Hall has been making spot checks on racial issues in northern and western points.

He quotes the president of the South Deering Improvement Association in Chicago on the question of racial friction in that area. The association's protest against the residential influx of Negroes led to the allocation of 150 Chicago police officers to the locality to prevent feared outbreaks of violence.

Mr. Hall asked the New York Times, Herald Tribune and Journal American, the Chicago Tribune, De-

BY DAVID BROCK

IT was suggested to me by a youngster that my youth must have been pretty bleak and monochromatic, with no two-tone cars to furnish me with a steady supply of pure beauty. Well... yes and no. It is true that in parts of my youth, we honestly thought that the greatest sign of wealth was to own a big BLACK car. In cheap fiction and the movies, and often in real life too, successful men (whether honest or gangsters) drove round in a thing which was invariably referred to as a Big Black Cadillac Sedan. As for bank robberies (which were a bit less frequent on this coast in those colorless days), even if the robbers drove away in a green Ford, the witnesses were apt to remember that they drove away in a Big Black Cadillac Sedan. It sounded more exciting.

Brock

THIS probably indicates that black cars were fairly rare in at least one patch of my youth. Rare, and to be dreamt about. Therefore we probably had enough color, and to spare. No two-tone stuff, though? Sure we had two-tone stuff. In the 1930's (I think it was) there was still a car called the Marmon and it brought out a big line of two-toned cars. And very lovely some of them were, too.

Each brace of colors was based on two colors occurring naturally together in a gem stone and its matrix. I remember one lovely car in green and grey, representing emeralds and some grey mother-stone. I forget the rest, but there was a big choice. So that whether this innovation was popular or not, it did exist, and the two-colored car of today is not a completely new thing. The only thing new about it is that it is practically compulsory... or was, last year. The bubble-gum pink wasn't and isn't compulsory, though.

AND in one period of my youth, most cars carried their spare wheel at the back, with a metal jacket around it, and nobody said "Wow, wheel, look at that, wouldja, it's a Continental Kit." It was just a spare wheel in an obvious place. "Kit", by the way, was a word that didn't get half the airing it does today. It mostly meant what a soldier packed up in his Old Kit Bag, along with his troubles, though it could mean other collections as well.

I dare say we were just as childish, thrilled about wheels (spare and otherwise) as the children of today, though. I can remember our thinking nobody ever thought of wire wheels before our own time, and for a while we went round saying "Wow, wheel, look at that, wouldja? Wire wheels!" And then the fashion would change, and we would say "wow" and "wheel" about disc wheels instead, thinking them brand new also. Perhaps it was the other way round, disc first and then wire... it doesn't seem very important now, somehow.

MAYBE before and maybe after the two-tone Marmons, a movie was made from Robert Graves' novels about the Roman emperor Claudius. The film company found it impossible to give the ladies of the Roman court an authentic hair-do. Because the hair-do of the time of Claudius was also the hair-do of the year the film was made and everyone in the audience would snort. No audience could believe that its own hair-do had ever existed before.

So when I make a period movie in glorious Hacknicolor about the mad bad sad days of pre-war North America, I shall take jolly good care not to have any two-toned Marmons in it. This would play havoc with what is called the suspension of disbelief.

DISBELIEF

AND talking of belief and disbelief of what happened in the past, you are all familiar with the types who imagine that nothing in the past was ever any good. Nothing in the past was worth keeping or restoring. Nothing good was ever made or done or thought until the speaker himself was born... his birth, in fact, was the world's first good deed. Such types are commonest in the arts, but they are common enough in every field.

Well, I was fascinated to find Dr. Jung referring to the more fanatical of these types as mental invalids. Yes, sir. He called them psychopathic pseudo-moderns. They have no real convictions but are merely anxious to be in the swim. But he did not mean that all pseudo-moderns are psychopathic... just some... quite a few.

BUT it gives us a useful lead. Next time anyone dismisses me as a living fossil because I have ten years more experience than he has, plus a different concept of those three little tragedies called the Past, the Present and the Future, I shall say to him: "Listen to me, you psychopathic pseudo-modern, your Mental Health is no good. You're off your hinge, boy. Why not voluntarily submit to treatment? I will take you to the nearest radio station, where they know all about Mental Health. Come with me, my poor little invalid."

He may not come quietly. But at least I will have tried the right approach. And I can tell you this, he will not begin to depend on me and make claims on me, which is one of the usual dangers of psychic treatment. He will positively avoid old Doc Brock. Suits me fine.

As Our Readers See It

Comparative Religions

At the recent course on comparative religions in Victoria College obviously the crowd didn't come to criticize—look for differences between leading religions but rather to find out what those beliefs had in common. The listeners themselves already had a common objective in attending the course—enlightenment.

Appropriately, that term and kindred ones, were used time and again by lecturers. To paraphrase Dante's legend over the door might well have read "abandon prejudice, all ye who enter here!"

As the course proceeded it was felt there would be general agreement with Krishna of the ancient East that "God was in all religions as the thread through a string of pearls," with some reservations as to the lustre and intrinsic worth of the respective pearls.

Observable in all religions, the principle of the oneness of mankind, fatherhood of God, brotherhood of man. Not so clearly indicated in some, the principle of social justice. Now looking in that direction, past tendencies have been to stress, more or less, the hereafter at the expense of the here.

To some present it was news to learn how, especially in the more Eastern religions, the spirit of tolerance, appreciation of the good in other religions, prevailed, as expressed in "deeds not creeds."

Only one religion, it appeared in answer to frequent questions, had copy-right claims on Original Sin—others preferring a more acquired or introduced version, giving old Adam a clean bill of health in that respect. Punishment for sin varies all the way from eternal torment to the negatively agreeable 'disappearance of the unfit.' Some religions share the belief that "we are punished, not for our sins but by our sins."

Of course, other big differences occur, notably on the why and how of human conduct here—the where and what of the hereafter. It's a long way from Nirvana, merging into the infinite, to the positive delights of paradise or even the more sober ecstasies of the west, even heaven. But coming down to earth, many there must have felt that after all, the best religion is the one that best serves man's needs here below—best aids "human development in all its richest diversity."

Christianity and Britain

There are things I have met with in my reading lately that I think should interest many. I hope you will be able to give them a corner in your correspondence column.

Robert Parsons, the Jesuit, admits that "the Christian religion began in Britain within five years of Jesus Christ's ascension" (via St. Joseph of Arimathea).

Cardinal Pole, addressing parliament in 1555 AD, affirmed that "Britain was the first of all countries to receive the Christian faith."

Cardinal Baronius says that Joseph of Arimathea and others left Palestine due to the persecution which took effect at the martyrdom of St. Stephen.

Thus Christianity came to Britain directly from Jerusalem—and she was declared a Christian nation before Rome became a Christian city.

True there were Christians in Rome—the Pudens family and other friends of St. Paul, but when they were martyred, Christianity for nearly 200 years lived in the catacombs. Their first church was the Palatium Britannicum, or as it was sometimes called, the Titulus.

According to Clement, the third Bishop of Rome, his two predecessors in that See were Linus, son of Caradoc, the British prince, who was consecrated by St. Paul, and secondly, Cletus. St. Paul was the Apostle to the heathen and St. Peter to the Jews (partly in Babylon). See Galatians II.9 and Romans xv.16.

The Venerable Bede, one of the canonized saints in the Roman Calendar, expressly states that "the remains of the bodies of the Apostles Paul and Peter, St. Lawrence, St. John, St. Gregory and St. Pancras, were at the solicitation of King Qswy, to Pope Vitalian, removed from Rome to England, and deposited at Canterbury in AD 656. Pope Vitalian's letter of Qswy being extant."—Bede's Hist. lib. II. c.29. Their remains, if any, repose in British soil.

FROM CAIRO

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Col. Nasser Faces a Choice

THE new leader of Egypt, the embodied symbol and acknowledged leader of the new surge of Arab nationalism, Gamal Abdel Nasser, is not an easy man to read. Certain of Nasser's qualities are obvious enough. He has the warm, natural charm that often goes with inextinguishable vitality.

Alsop

With all the charm he also has iron nerves, great boldness and solid strength of character. Furthermore, he is a dedicated patriot, a strict Mohammedan, and a man immune to all the ordinary temptations, who lives just about as simply as the virtual dictator of Egypt as he lived when he was an obscure colonel in the Egyptian army.

But although I have been lucky enough to see Col. Nasser twice since I have been in Cairo, and although he has talked at length and with apparent freedom on both occasions, I cannot even dimly guess what his intentions really are.

The best guess I can hazard is that Col. Nasser himself is at a crucial turning point, considering different alternatives with all their fateful implications, and waiting to decide which course he will choose.

No Exclusive Alliance

One alternative he has already resoundingly rejected. He will not enter any exclusive alliance with the West, such as he would have been forced to enter if he had accepted the invitation to join the Baghdad Pact.

The defence of the Arab lands, he said to me as he has said so many times before, should be "independently organized by the Arab peoples themselves."

That means, of course, that the defence of the Arab lands should be organized under Egyptian leadership. Although Col. Nasser stoutly denies any ambition to be the pan-Arab leader, it is hard to believe that he would reject the role. Yet I do not think that this is the real cause of his passionate opposition to the Baghdad Pact.

The real cause, I believe, is the conviction of Col. Nasser and almost every other Egyptian that an exclusive alliance with the West would once more reduce Egypt to a semi-colonial status of a new kind. On this point, his suspicion is constant, his fears are ineradicable.

"Britain," he says, "is always going out the door and then coming in the window."

There is a curious ambivalence in Col. Nasser's attitude towards the British, who are being sharply distinguished from the Americans in the present phase in Cairo. On the one hand, he is obviously alarmed as well as angered by the attacks on him and his regime that have recently been heard in London.

Honest Conviction

On the other hand, Col. Nasser is clearly voicing his honest conviction when he predicts (with great probable accuracy) that the semi-colonial positions Britain still holds in the Middle East are doomed in the long run.

"In the long run," he told me, "they cannot stand against the power of Arab nationalism. Today there is only one important Arab government supported by the British, the government of Iraq. Already in Jordan, nationalism has proved stronger than Britain. In Iraq it will happen, too, not today, but tomorrow. They say Egyptians conspire to make the nationalists succeed, but I tell you Arab nationalism succeeds because it is strong in itself."

And to this he adds (again with great probable accuracy) that: "You in the West should remember that the real alternative to true nationalism in the Arab lands is almost sure to be Communism. Here in Egypt, until we of the army rose and took control, the Communists were gaining strength each year because the people thought they represented the national spirit. That is the choice for you in the West, between the Arab nationalism, and Communism disguised as nationalism. You must make the choice soon."

All these themes Col. Nasser developed at great length during my first call on him. I asked to see him a second time because I wished to ask him what the Western allies would have to do in order to come to terms with, in order to make friends with, the new Arab nationalism.

Minimum Requirement

Part of the answer was of course obvious. The minimum requirement is for the United States to persuade Britain to liquidate the semi-colonial positions Britain still holds out here.

The minimum requirement for persuading Britain is for the United States to guarantee Britain, to reimburse Britain, as it were, against the losses that the British fear will result from concessions to Arab nationalism. This cannot be escaped.

But if nationalist aspirations were satisfied, would Col. Nasser guarantee the West the precious oil that the West needs for survival? Could the West be sure that triumphant Arab nationalists would not soon launch a revenge attack upon Israel?

And if the West insisted on these two vital conditions, would Col. Nasser then incline towards an exclusive alliance with the Kremlin, which might open the door to a new form of colonialism even more rapidly than an exclusive alliance with the West?

To the first question, about oil, the Egyptian leader answered that he recognized the West's vital interest and that "good relations were the best guarantee of the oil." Yet his press and some of his subordinates have sometimes talked a rather different language.

Different Language

To the second question, about Israel, the Egyptian leader replied that "Egypt would never attack Israel unless Egypt were first attacked; in fact until Egypt was attacked on Feb. 28, 1955, we were neglecting our army and spending all our money on internal development. It was only after that that we began to look for arms and we bought them from the Russians because you would sell us none."

Yet on this subject too, Col. Nasser's press and some of his subordinates often talk a very different language; and Col. Nasser himself would not seriously discuss any positive settlement with Israel.

Finally, to the last question, accepting further aid from the Soviets, the Egyptian leader replied that the Soviets had always been "perfectly correct" with Egypt, and that "no Middle Easterner had any experience of Soviet imperialism."

Those answers quite obviously define the hard choice that lies ahead of Col. Nasser. Any Westerner is a fool who does not see why Nasser and Egypt are today in doubt about which road to take. And Western statesmanship will surely miss another last chance if Nasser and Egypt are not aided, by all means possible, to make the choice that best serves the long-run interests of Egypt and the West alike.

CURED

There are plenty of cases of reprieved murderers who, after serving a "life" sentence, have become honored members of society. In fact, it is quite possible that the husband of your neighbors who have just moved in, and of whose antecedents your wife is very curious, is the man whose crime filled the newspapers ten or fifteen years ago. But you have no cause for alarm. Reprieved murderers, when released, rarely, if ever, commit another crime.

The Dream

THE other day, in a hurry, I dashed into a cash-and-carry grocery store and bought a TV Dinner.

Curiosity made me do it. And curiosity almost killed the cat, because that night I had a fearful dream.

I dreamed that I was in a North American city, a city that looked much like any other city. It had few, if any, historic landmarks. It was dedicated to speed and progress and getting bigger and bigger and bigger.

In my dream, I watched a procession of bright, oversized cars parking outside the chain store that looked exactly like the chain stores you find in any North American city.

Ruth

I watched a host of young women, whose hairdos and clothes all looked very much alike, buying the same bright, standardized, pre-cooked, ready-to-serve foods in the same bright standardized packages.

I watched them staggering out through a magic door that opened of its own accord. I watched a young couple racing home in their bright, not-yet-paid-for car, and rushing into the tiny kitchen of their bright, not-yet-paid-for house.

I saw the mother thrust the dinners, still wrapped in tinfoil, into the oven of her huge, expensive, not-yet-paid-for electric stove.

I saw the children standing around and nagging at her to hurry or they'd be late for their favorite television show.

I saw her thrust the tinfoil platters at them.

I saw them all rush into the living room where the bloated-spider body of the television set stood on its spindly, spayed-out legs.

I saw them squatting on their crouching stools, and absent-mindedly stuffing food into their mouths as they gazed, entranced, at the enormous Polyphemus eye.

And then I woke up in a cold sweat and realized that the whole thing was just an awful dream.

Because North Americans aren't driving in cars that are too ostentatious, too powerful, too vulgar and too bright.

They aren't driving cars they haven't paid for.

They aren't living in houses of which, actually, they barely own the basement.

They aren't really buying television sets with money that should, more sensibly, be spent on food healthy, home-cooked food.

They aren't all really watching the same programs from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Arctic to the Gulf of Mexico.

They don't really have living rooms in which the television set is the focal point, and all the chairs face towards it like Moslems turning to Mecca at a given hour.

Women haven't really grown so lazy and so primitive that they serve pre-cooked food on tin dishes that can be thrown away after eating.

Human beings aren't really snarling when a friend drops in and drags them away from their worship of the new one-eyed god, the television set.

They aren't really sitting watching television major operations so that they can dwell on all the grisly details afterwards and wonder whether they, too, have the same disease.

In this day of universal education and enlightened progress, North Americans aren't doing any of these things.

Or ARE they?

Polyps in the Intestine

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine Mayo Foundation

Many elderly persons are much worried when a roentgenologic study of the colon or large bowel shows the presence of polyps. These are little tumors often as big as the end of a finger and looking much like a blackish mushroom with a top and a stem. Most of them are potentially malignant, which means that eventually cancer can arise in them. Fortunately, it arises in the top and not around the stem of the polyp. This peculiarity is reassuring when, for one reason or another, it is inadvisable to operate immediately. It means that there is more time in which an X-ray man can watch the polyp to see if it is going to grow.

Usually, these polyps produce no symptoms. They are discovered accidentally when the large bowel happens to be X-rayed. Very rarely a big polyp will be on the end of a long thin neck, and then the bowel will pull on it and try to pass it as it would pass a little lump of feces. Then there may be cramps and a feeling as if the bowel wanted to move; then there may be a little blood in the feces. Once in my medical life a patient sent me a polyp as big as a banana which his bowel had pulled off and passed.

I have reason to believe that usually these little black polyps grow very slowly, if at all. In many cases they never become cancerous. I know this because I have seen so many at autopsy on persons who died of something else. I was much interested once on seeing a polyp in the large bowel of a healthy boy of 14 who had been killed in an auto accident. Since I have very rarely seen a case of cancer of the colon in a person under the age of 28, I strongly suspected that if this boy had lived, his polyp would have lain dormant for at least 14 years.

OPERATION POSTPONED

I remember, also, an elderly woman in whose colon there had been found three large polyps. Because at the time she was mentally disturbed, I did not want her operated on, and so I just had the polyps looked at every six months. The woman lived several years, during which time the polyps did not show any tendency to grow. Eventually she died of some other illness.

Fortunately, polyps in the rectum and sometimes even in the sigmoid flexure just above the rectum can be destroyed by a proctologist. Working through an electrically-lighted tube he can desiccate (burn up or dry up) the polyps with the help of very hot electric sparks.

Certainly, polyps, when discovered, should not be forgotten and neglected. They should often be removed surgically, but when the patient is old or feeble or in poor shape for an operation, his physician will be justified in watching with the X-rays for months or years to see if the little tumors show any tendency to grow.

PREMATURE INFANTS

Recently, Dr. Ethel C. Dunham got out a second edition of her 459-page book on Premature Infants (Hoebner Harper). The subject is tremendously important because in the United States, about half of the total deaths that come in the first month of life and more than a third of all deaths that occur in the first year of life, are due to the premature birth of the child. Premature birth is one of the 10 leading causes of death among the whole population.

Naturally, the first problem is, what to do to help the mother to carry her infant to term, and the second is, what to do to keep a two or three-pound baby alive after he or she is born.

Today, the city health department would like to lower its infant death-rate must grapple with these problems of premature birth. There are some mothers, many of them frail and underprivileged who keep losing one premature child after another. Unfortunately, too little is known about the causes of premature birth, and too little is known about what can be done to help a mother to carry her child to term. Oftentimes, the infant is born with a number of physical imperfections that make it impossible for it to live. The older the mother is, between the ages of 43 and 50, the more likely she is to bear a child who cannot live.

One great difficulty with the premature infant is that its tissues are so delicate. They cannot stand up to the strains of life. Many premature children, also, have lungs which are defective, and cannot aerate the blood. For a while, it was thought that the answer to many of the problems was to keep the premature infant in an atmosphere rich in oxygen, but soon it was found that this can cause hopeless blindness. Fortunately, today, health officers, obstetricians and pediatricians are grappling with the problems of premature birth.

RADAR SPEED CHECKING UPHELD IN TEST CASE

First court trial involving radar speed checking equipment on Vancouver Island brought a conviction Saturday in Sidney RCMP court.

Leslie V. Dawkins, 1544 Richmond, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of exceeding a 50 m.p.h. speed limit and argued the possibility of an error in the radar unit, was fined $10 and $10 costs.

Physicist Dr. Andrew Hill, called as a prosecution witness, said he had examined the radar unit and in his opinion sufficient allowance for error would be two miles per hour.

Dawkins was clocked at 60 m.p.h., RCMP officers testified.

Tiny Organist Awes Big City Audience

By LANCE H. WHITTAKER

Claire Coci is an organist... and Victoria's considerable group of excellent exponents of that instrument sat entranced for two hours in Metropolitan United Church Saturday night.

The remainder of the large audience, the generally uninitiated, was by turns awed, startled, stirred and stunned as the great collection of pipes alternately whispered and hammered at them as it seldom, if ever, whispered and hammered before.

The diminutive organist of the New York Philharmonic served ample notice of her virtuosity. Her first number was Bach's celebrated Passacaglia and Fugue in C Minor, a monumental work of typical Bach complexity. The range and power of the Passacaglia is a test of instrument and artist. Both came through with flying colors.

SHOWS EQUALITY

In many other instrumental fields it is frequently argued that feminine artists, no matter how sensitive their interpretation, lack the force of a masculine performance simply because no woman has the physical frame to do full justice to forte passages. Whatever the merits of that argument, Miss Coci demonstrated the equality of women at the organ, where power is a matter of mechanics. The great organ literally jumped to her bidding and she obviously loved every minute of it.

The program was a heavy one, holding close to the standard of the first Bach number, and included a Brahms chorale, Fantasia and Fugue by Mozart, and Sonata on the 94th Psalm, a work by Julius Reubke, whose death at 24 cut short a career of genius.

In lighter vein, although requiring consummate finger dexterity, was August Mackelburghe's Flandria, still in manuscript form and dedicated to Miss Coci.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

Prices were irregular at the close to day on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Oats and barley held to a narrow range. Barley attracted active trade, with shippers, United States houses and exporters on the buying side. Oats were mostly domestic.

Flax showed considerable irregularity as offerings were increased and commercial demand thin. Offerings included U.S. selling and hedging pressure. Rye was steady in quiet trade.

Export business included parcels of barley to the United Kingdom and further small quantities of rye to the Continent.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP) — Most grains declined on the board of trade today.

A combination of profit-taking after last week's sustained rise and prospects for additional moisture in scattered areas of both the Southwest and Midwest was behind the sell-off.

Oats and rye were firm early but retreated later in sympathy with wheat and corn.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Western Oils Draw Buyers

TORONTO (CP) — Western oils attracted the most consistent buying in afternoon dealings on the stock exchange today.

A few sharp gains were recorded in speculative mines and in issues nearing the producer stage.

Most of the more active industrialists lost ground, but Trans Mountain, which last week reported a jump in earnings, climbed $2.25 to $57.25 on more than 3,000 shares.

Canadian Western Lumber was up $2 at $17 on light sales. McIntyre advanced $2 to $90 and Gaspe $1 to $55 among the mines. Steep Rock gained 1/4.

Great Plains gained $1 in western oils and Bailey-Selburn added 87 cents.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP) — Profit-taking in early afternoon today cut back early firmness in the stock market.

Prices were well under their best in most areas of the list, and there were few decisively higher divisions.

Canadian stocks were higher. Aluminum Ltd. gained 1 1/2. McIntyre 1 1/2. Walker-Goodman 1/2.

Hudson Bay Mining 1/2. Distillers Seagrams 1/2. Granby Mining 1/2. International Nickel dropped 1/4.

LONDON

LONDON (Reuters) — A strong advance in gold following reports of a rich strike at Free State Geduld featured the London Stock market today.

Gold-edged securities eased at first on consideration of the new treasury stock coming on the market but recovered.

Industrials were generally firm although the best levels were not always held. Bowaters eased after early firmness.

Stock closings: Babcock and Wilcox, 82s 6d; Bowater Paper Corp., 59s 6d; British-American Tobacco, 52s 1 1/2d; Canadian Pacific, 62 1/2; General Electric, 59s 3d; Gt. Univ. ## VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER — A quiet market with slight change in prices. Bethlehem Copper sold 19,500 shares ranging from $1.49 to $1.57. Futurity moved 7,000 at $6. Van-Tor sold 19,000 between $1.08 and $1.12. Canam Copper moved 2,900 at $1.47. Cowichan Copper traded 6,800 at $2.71. Premier Border sold 20,000 at 20. Silbac traded 8,000 at 20. Utica moved 20,000 at 9. Inland Gas sold 8,000 at $5.30. Lucky Lager sold 500 at $4.65. B.C. Forest Service sold 400 at $18 1/2.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL (CP) — After some firmness at the opening, industrial issues turned mixed today in moderate trading on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

In a mixed paper group, Powell River added 1/4 and Fraser 1/4. Algoma, Stelco and Canada Iron were fractional losers in a softer steel section.

Trans Mountain climbed 1 1/2 in pipelines while Imperial eased 1/4 in refining oils. Banks were mixed, carriers and beverages were generally steady.

J. A. A. GEORGE SAYS:

Canada Needs U.S. Capital

By NORMAN CRIBBENS, Times Business Editor

James A. A. George, Victoria investment dealer who has often taken a leading part in Conservative politics, today volunteered some comments on the recent controversy over U.S. investments in Canada.

Mr. George is in sympathy with U.S. Ambassador R. Douglas Stuart, who in a recent speech in Vancouver, denied charges of U.S. "domination" of Canadian industries.

Mr. Stuart's speech was criticized in Ottawa by Progressive Conservative party leader George Drew as "inaccurate" and "unfortunate."

Mr. George does not agree. "Whatever we do," he said, "we should not attack the chivalrous ambassador of one of the best friends Canada ever had or ever will have—a friend whose greatest fault seems to be a willingness to provide us with capital which we cannot obtain elsewhere."

Mr. George declared much of Canada's present prosperity is based on the willingness of U.S. financial institutions to invest in Canada.

"The Great Labrador Mining and Exploration Company, which has proved and opened up vast ore deposits of incalculable value to Canada and the free world, was mainly financed by U.S. risk capital after repeated attempts to raise the necessary development money in Canada had failed."

Mr. George points out that vitally important uranium and oil fields have become accessible to Canada with the aid of outside capital.

"Here in B.C. the beneficial results of our rapidly expanding economy are obvious to everyone. The greater part of the risk capital which helped to develop the natural resources of the U.S. was supplied by the possibility of a new and larger Woodward Stores being constructed here is remote before 1958, local store manager Courtney Haddock said today.

He pointed out that although his firm has moved construction planning ahead a year, a new shopping centre planned in Vancouver will have to be completed first. It will be started in 1957 and construction will take at least a year, he said.

"Victoria is next," he said his board chairman told him. In the meantime, two or three sites in Victoria are being considered. The firm had made an offer to the city earlier for Burnside Park but the city accepted a higher bid by Dominion Stores Ltd.

Last week the store offered property on Pandora to the city for a store site. It had 69,000 square feet of space. Modern construction is required to provide ample parking within 1,000 feet, however, and that fact contributed to the decision to cancel plans for the downtown location.

NEW ZEALANDERS WANT NEW CPA AIR SERVICE

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — Businessmen here are pressing for a Canadian Pacific Airlines trans-polar air service from Britain to New Zealand, via Canada, to speed up air mail now carried over a Middle East route.

Importers said packages sent airmail via the Canadian route reach New Zealand from Britain two or three days ahead of letters sent by way of the normal route.

Postal officials report that the present route gives a regular and frequent service while a Canadian Pacific service would be operated only once a week.

They believe, however, that service over the trans-polar route would be an advantageous one some day.

Social Credit Regime's Integrity Major Issue in Next Vote---Laing

Integrity of the Social Credit government will be the major issue in the next provincial election, Liberal Leader Arthur Laing said in a mainland speech at the weekend.

"If a government is without integrity, all its good works go for naught," said Mr. Laing.

He said the Social Credit government is "under the heaviest cloud of suspicion ever to fall on a provincial administration." "In the most remarkable wire in history transmitted by a chief law officer, Attorney-General Bonner openly acknowledged that charges of the most serious nature had been placed before him involving a minister of the Crown and seven companies in the province."

"He dismissed them with the words 'far-fetched' and said he was 'filled with skepticism.'"

NO COMMENT

"Now," said Mr. Laing, "when the premier is questioned, the answer is a curt 'no comment.'"

(Mr. Bonner's wife was his reply to charges placed before him by Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy, and his client C. W. Eversfield.)

"Thus confronted, this government tells the people 'it is none of your business if we are honest—get your minds off that and look at the roads and bridges we are promising you,'" said Mr. Laing.

Mr. Laing cited the counter-charges laid by former Social Credit minister of lands and forests in his speech of resignation.

"He said a conspiracy existed, financed by certain timber firms to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars, and participated in by the Liberal party and certain sections of the press."

"Does Bonner believe this?" asked Mr. Laing. "If he does, he must act or get out. If he doesn't, he must repudiate it. He chooses to do neither."

The Liberal leader said Premier Bennett "can't go to the people with this cloud over his head so long as there remains a free press and 10 men of courage left in the province."

"The premier is on the horns of a dilemma," said Mr. Laing.

"There is a second thing he can't do—he can't meet us in the House in another session. So he is going about the province preaching boom and the fast dollar."

"The people of B.C. should be ready for a political explosion—it could come at any minute," he said.

Washington Judge to Speak On U.S.-Canada Goodwill

An American jurist with seven years' unbroken attendance at Olympia, Wash., Kiwanis Club will be featured speaker at Victoria Kiwanis Club luncheon Tuesday in observance of Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week.

Washington State Supreme Court Judge Matthew W. Hill was born in Bowsman, Man., in 1894, but he has lived many years in the U.S.

His subject will be "Two Nations, Great and Free." The club meets at 12.10 p.m. in Empress Hotel ballroom.

Victoria Daily Times MONDAY, APRIL 23, 1956 7

Judge Hill will be officially representing his Olympia, Kiwanis Club, of which he is vice-president.

Mayor Percy Scurrell will attend on behalf of the city of Victoria, and George Addison, Nanaimo, will be there as lieutenant-governor of Div. 1, Pacific Northwest Kiwanis District.

Goodwill Week started today and will be observed, Saturday in most of the service club's 4,200 communities in North America.

Kiwanis International set the week 35 years ago to mark the 138-year-old Rush-Bagot Treaty which demilitarized the Canada-U.S. boundary. Twenty-five plaques symbolizing the accord between the two countries are set up at points along the 3,000-mile international boundary.

Royals 'Peg In Final

Warriors Rally
To Oust Canucks

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Warriors, fledglings in the Western Hockey League, will meet Montreal Royals for the Edinburgh Trophy.

The best-of-nine series for the trophy, awarded to the champion of Canada's minor professional teams, opens in Calgary Wednesday. The Winnipeg Arena won't be available for the opening games.

Other games will be played at Edmonton, April 27; Calgary, April 28; Winnipeg, April 30, May 1 and May 3; Brandon, May 5.

Warriors advanced into the final Saturday night by defeating Vancouver Canucks 6-3 to take the best-of-seven WHL championships series 4-2.

Montreal defeated Shawinigan 2-1 to win the QHL final four games to two.

A record WHL crowd of 9,854 cheered loudly as Warriors overcame a 2-0 first-period deficit to win.

FOUR IN FOUR MINUTES

Ray Cyr opened the Vancouver scoring when he sent a screened drive past goalie Ed Chadwick. Warriors were a man short when Phil Maloney made it 2-0.

Winnipeg overpowered Canucks in the second period with four goals within four minutes.

Bill Mosienko scored the first when his flip shot hit netminder Ray Mikulan's pads and went in. Gary Aldcorn tied the count one minute and 23 seconds later.

Eddie Mazur sent Warriors ahead when he raced in alone on Mikulan and Chuck Lumden increased the lead to 4-2.

Later in the period Barry Cullen notched Winnipeg's fifth goal before Tom McCarthy grabbed a loose puck and beat Chadwick.

Mazur fired his second goal of the night early in the third period to round out the scoring.

Heaneys, of division five, in the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association, defeated Ladysmith 1-0, Sunday at Heywood Avenue Park in an exhibition soccer game.

After a scoreless first half, Heaneys pressed their attack in the second half, and Alan Dand scored the only goal of the game on a bullet drive.

In another exhibition game Sunday, Canadian Scottish of division three tuned up for their "Tournament of Champions" appearance in Vancouver with a 3-0 win over HMCS Venture Juniors. Gerry Booth, Don West and Ricky Blake scored the goals.

Cowichan Club Wins Exhibition Cricket

The cricket season opened on an unofficial basis Saturday with Cowichan Cricket Club scoring an 18-run victory over University School in a friendly match.

Clark accounted for 28 Cowichan runs, while Getz of University School was the top bowler, taking five wickets for 21 runs.

Althea on the Move In World Net Rating

GENOA, Italy (UP)—Althea Gibson of New York was in a challenging position today in the women's amateur tennis ranks with six championships in the past two weeks, the latest in the Genoa international tournament.

Miss Gibson gained the women's title Sunday by defeating Mrs. Thelma Long of Australia, 6-3, 6-4.

In the men's competition, youth Luis Ayala of Chile scored a major upset when he won the championship with a 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 triumph over the veteran Jaroslav Drobný of Egypt.

Ayala finished off Drobný in less than an hour, displaying a powerful service that the former Wimbledon champion could not cope with. He also excelled in fast exchanges at the net, and in general dominated the match.

Jimmy Champ of Champs In Optimist Mitt Meet

Sharpshooting Jimmy Walters, 139-pound Canadian champion from Vancouver, clubbed his way past Dale Nicely, Portland, Saturday night at Central Junior High School gym, and into the "Champion of Champions" niche of the second annual Optimist Club Tournament of Champions.

Walters showed all the class of his championship status in the 147-pound final, flooring Nicely with a looping right at the end of the second round, and taking the decision easily after a bruising third.

The welterweight final was just one of the many thrillers as 12 bouts wound up the two-day show before a near-capacity house.

The evening started off with a bang, with Wilbur Young, Seattle, flooring Gary Oakden, South Burnaby, three times in the first round of the opener before winning on a KO at 1:42.

Ending just as abruptly was the 132-pound final between Bobby Hicks, Seattle, and Dave Peters, Portland. Hicks, displaying the form that earned him the "Champion of Champions" title last year, exploded with a lightning-fast combination of lefts and rights to batter Peters into submission at 1:25 of the first round. It was Hicks' 40th straight victory.

Biggest hand of the evening went to heavyweights Bruce Olson, Portland, and Bob Stratman, Seattle, in the final bout. The crowd rose to its feet as Olson and Stratman, arm-wreath and panting, stood toe-to-toe and slugged it out in the third round. The 240-pound Olson took the decision.

BROKEN HAND

Only one injury marred the proceedings. Kurt Max of Vancouver, broke his hand in gaining a decision over Harold Mann of Vancouver in the 139-pound class. Mann went into the final against Willie Azzi, Vancouver, and won a popular decision.

Other special awards went to Harvey Burke, 165-pound champion, as Optimist Boy runner-up; Gary Oakden, guest loser, and Johnny Phillips, best B.C. prospect.

Other results were as follows:

112-pound final—Richard Murcham, Bell Spring Island, and Tommy Takao, Kent, engaged in a blood-spattered slugfest before Takao took the split decision.

119-pound final—Promising Johnny Phillips, South Burnaby, bounced way to split decision over Brian O'Hare, Victoria.

WINDSOR, Ont.—Edward Charles, 184, Cincinnati, stopped Don Jasper, 191, Duluth, Minn., 10.

Pressure Birdie Gives Maxwell Hot Springs Open

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., fired a birdie on the 72nd hole Sunday to win the Hot Springs open golf tournament championship by one stroke. He had a 16-under-par 272.

Maxwell was standing in the middle of No. 18 fairway, about 180 yards from the green, when he learned that both Ernie Vossler of Fort Worth, Tex., and George Bayer of Cincinnati, Ohio, had eagled the 18th hole, and he needed a birdie to win.

Maxwell's second shot on the par five, 310-yard hole hit just in front of the green.

"I didn't even see the ball," Maxwell said. "I was sure happy when I walked up there and found it 15 feet from the pin."

Maxwell's putt stopped within a foot of the hole, and he then tapped it in to complete a birdie four and a three-under-par 69.

Vossler came in with a 66 to tie for second with Bayer at 273.

Bayer had a 69 after three straight 68s.

U.S. Runner Sets New Mark

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Thane Baker, 24-year-old airman, beat one world track record and tied another at the Ohio State University relays Saturday.

He ran the 300-yard dash in 29.4 seconds—four-tenths better than the record set by Herb McKenley of Jamaica in 1946.

Baker ran the 100-yard dash in 9.3 seconds but officials said this won't be officially entered as tying the world record because the trailing wind was in excess of eight miles an hour. Wind velocity must be under four mph for recognition.

Everything's Brand New For Times Island Final

Kerr, Clarkson Gain Match Play Championship

By BILL WALKER

The old order changeth, in golf; make way for the new.

The Times Vancouver Island match play open golf championship will have a brand new champion—so new that neither finalist has ever won a major tournament of this nature before.

The finalists are Laurie Kerr and Vince Clarkson, both of Royal Colwood.

They will meet over 36 holes at Gorge Vale Golf Club next Sunday for the Times trophy, won last year by Bill McColl.

Kerr, whose one previous claim to fame is the city championship of last year, defeated McColl 8 and 7.

Clarkson, who has never won "even a club trophy," defeated former Open champion Ted Colgate, 4 and 3. Both matches were over a scheduled 36 holes at Colwood, Sunday.

Always rated with the best, but seldom around when the prizes were being handed out, Kerr gave McColl one of the worst beatings of his career.

"I guess you can call me a bridesmaid," Kerr said. "I was a little nervous at first, but after I got the lead I didn't worry. I was hitting my shots well, better than I have in the past while."

The 26-year-old former Colwood assistant professional went over par on the first two holes, but so did McColl, and when McColl took a bogey five on the third and picked up on the fourth, Kerr took a lead he was never to relinquish.

He lost a hole to McColl's par three at the seventh; regained his margin with a birdie three at the eighth, and then saw McColl return the favor with a birdie at the ninth.

Kerr birdied the 10th and McColl won the 11th in par. But that was the last time McColl was close.

Laurie on His Way in the Morning

Kerr won three straight holes, the 13th through the 15th, to go four up at the luncheon interval.

He had an approximate 73, three over par, for the morning 18.

McColl made a brief bid to get back in the fight by winning the 20th in par when Kerr was over the green with his second, but Kerr came right back to win the 21st in par, the 22nd when McColl chipped wide from the edge of the green, and the 24th in par when McColl again was short with his approach.

Now six up, Kerr lost the 25th when McColl put his tee shot 30 inches from the pin for a birdie two.

The end was in sight when McColl drove his tee shot out of bounds on the 27th, then picked up when he put his next in a bunker. Kerr made it certain by chipping in for a birdie three on the 28th. McColl conceded on the 29th after catching a bunker with his tee shot and taking two to get out.

It was ironic in a way the match ended on the 29th, as last year when McColl won the championship, he ended his match with Hugh Morrison on that same green and by the same score as he was beaten Sunday.

The Clarkson-Colgate tussle was a see-saw affair with the lead changing hands five times before Clarkson pulled away.

A city basketball star, Clarkson said of his triumph, "I went into this thing with nothing to lose, and I've still got nothing to lose."

And that's the way Clarkson played the match—three times coming from behind, the pressure telling on the afternoon round after Colgate had taken a two-hole lead at the 22nd.

ALL IN A DAY'S WORK

Victoria Times' reporter Ron Coulter is back at his desk today after winning the B.C. tenpin singles championship in Vancouver over the weekend. He holds the Totem Tenpin Trophy as proof of victory.

Coulter Takes B.C. Pin Title

Exploding for a powerful 643 total in his final three games, Victoria's Ron Coulter Sunday won the right to represent B.C. at the Canadian tenpin finals in Winnipeg, May 5-6.

Coulter, Times bowling writer and police reporter, hit for a grand 24-game total of 4,482 at Vancouver to take the championship over seven other finalists.

His average for the two-day series was 186.7.

Other Victoria entry, Len Murrant, ran into a rash of splits and wound up seventh with a total of 4,028.

Coulter, in third place after Saturday's play, moved into first at the 18-game mark by 46 pins over Kamloops' Gordie Beecroft.

He then fell behind sizzling George Ornst, Vancouver, second place finisher, by 14 pins at the 21-game mark, to set the stage for his final big triple.

Coulter rolled final singles of 224, 233 and 186 for his 4,482 total, while Ornst ended up with 215, 143, 175, for 4,393.

Third was Mickey Duina, Vancouver, with 4,318.

EARLY LEADER FALTERS

Earl Conley of New Westminster, who led at the halfway mark, wound up fourth with 4,291; Gordie Beecroft was fifth with 4,280; Charlie Stephens of Courtenay came sixth with 4,241; Len Murrant was seventh with 4,028, and Jack Muzzin of Nanaimo was eighth with 4,026.

Coulter, at 23 the youngest bowler to win top honors in B.C., had a 182 season's average in Gibson's senior league and a 179 in the Strathcona commercial. Rolling for Victoria Press in the Gibson's commercial league, he took the high average title with 176.

It was the second straight year that the championship was won by a Victorian. Andy Palmer took top honors in 1955.

Should Ron continue his torrid pace in the Canadian finals at Winnipeg, he will advance to the Masters tournament May 14-17 in Rochester, N.Y.

Robin on His Way; Yanks Chill Bosox

Braves Hold NL Lead

Robin Roberts to win 20 games is as close to a sure thing as you get in baseball. After one week of the 1956 season Mr. Roberts has a head start toward a seventh straight year in the select circle.

The ace of the Philadelphia Phillies needed a tight effort to beat Johnny Antonelli's three-hitter in Sunday's first game at Philadelphia. Roberts gave New York Giants five hits and Antoneilli three one hit-pitch-a-three-run homer by Ted Kazanski-and the Phil won 3-1. It left Robin with a clean 2-0 slate so far this season.

The Giants climbed on Curt Simmons, making his first start, and batted out a 9-7 edge in the second game. It was a disappointing effort by Simmons, who is trying to make a comeback after a season of arm trouble. Willie Mays hit a three-run homer off reliever Bob Miller in the ninth.

NEWCOMBE'S 3-HITTER

Don Newcombe got on the beam with a three-hitter as Brooklyn downed Pittsburgh 4-1 in a game halted by rain in the seventh. Milwaukee remained in the National League lead by slugging St. Louis 13-5 in the second game after St. Louis took the first 10-4 on an eight-run sixth-inning.

Homers by Ernie Banks, Monte Irvin and Solly Drake gave Chicago Cubs a 5-4 decision over Cincinnati. Their second game was called by darkness, a 1-1 tie after seven innings.

New York Yankees cooled off Boston Red Sox, taking three in a row at Yankee Stadium to tighten their grip on the American League lead. Five Red Sox errors and homers by Don Larsen, Yogi Berra and Joe Collins added up to a 13-6 Yankee victory.

Billy Pierce of Chicago White Sox shut out Kansas City with three hits, 3-0.

Two homers by Detroit's Al Kaline helped account for a first game victory over Cleveland 6-4, but Bob Lemon won the route for the first time since last May 30 to give the Tribe an even break with a 5-2 verdict in the nightcap. Rookie Fred Besana topped Washington in Baltimore's 7-3 opening victory, but Camilo Pascual earned a split for Washington with a 4-1 four-hitter in the second.

Head Man's Victory on Foul Gives Whitney One-Two Punch

NEW YORK (AP)—Head Man, his perfect three-year-old record still intact thanks to a successful foul claim, entrains for Louisville today where he'll join Carver to give C. V. Whitney a powerful one-two punch in the May 5 running of the $125,000 Kentucky Derby.

The stretch-running roan, son of Eight Thirty, was beaten 2 1/2 lengths by Golf Ace, a non-Derby eligible, in the 1 1/4-mile $61,000 Wood Memorial at Jamaica Saturday.

But almost before the last of the field of eight three-year-olds had finished the race, Eddie Arcaro lodged a claim of foul against Tony Despritto, who was up on Golf Ace from the Winding Way farm. He claimed Golf

Ace carried Head Man wide as the Whitney colt made his bid for the lead an eighth of a mile from home.

After looking at the picture and deliberating for 10 minutes, the stewards agreed with Eddie. So Arcaro will go after his sixth Kentucky Derby triumph aboard a colt who has won all three starts this year and seems to be improving with each outing. The time for the Wood was 1:50 1/5, only one-fifth of a second slower than Correlation's stake record.

Head Man was the only eligible horse who showed enough in either the Wood or Laurel's Chesapeake stakes—a mile and one-sixteenth race for three-year-olds—to rate a trip to Derby town.

Frosty Mr., not eligible for any of the triple crown races unless he is made a supplementary entry for the Preakness and Belmont stakes, turned in a real surprise in the Chesapeake. He beat Kingmaker, eligible only for the Preakness, by a length and paid a whopping $200.80 for $2.

Two other possible west coast candidates for the Derby ran one-two at Tanforan where W. E. Britts' No Regrets, ridden by Johnny Longden, scored by a nose over Lucky G. L. in the $35,000 added California Derby. His time for the mile and an eighth was 1:59 3/5.

Strathcona lost the services of hustling Ernie Eastlake when he suffered an ankle injury in the second half.

NANCY DOES IT AGAIN; RETAINS PADDLE CROWN

Nancy Craig of Victoria won her eighth consecutive western Canada women's table tennis championship Saturday night when she defeated Betty Nicholl, 17-21, 21-15, 21-11, 21-16.

In the men's final, Carl Cole of Portland defeated former Victorian Ed Ngai, 20-22, 21-15, 21-9, 21-15 to annex the western championship.

Cole teamed up with Bob Hage of Portland to defeat Ed and Art Ngai, 13-21, 21-19, 21-10, 17-21, 21-16 and capture the men's doubles championship.

MEET HALECOS SATURDAY

Straths Topple Pils To Gain Cup Final

Victoria Strathconas used Vancouver Pilseners as a stepping stone to stride into the Province Cup final Saturday night, winning their semifinal match, 4-2, at Athletic Park.

Willie Hamilton's hustling club pleased a crowd of 800 fans with the merited victory and will meet Vancouver Halecos for the B.C. title.

Halecos scored a 2-1 victory over Firefighters on the main Saturday to gain the other final berth and the two clubs will meet in Vancouver next Saturday for the Province Cup.

Straths vaulted into a 2-1 lead at halftime Saturday, wavered momentarily in the second half when Pils rallied to tie the score, but came out on top with two unanswered goals.

Butlers finished first in the Victoria and District Football Association's second division, thus winning the right to contest the franchise of Wests, who finished last in the first division. Butlers win the series, they will replace Wests in the first division.

Wests held a 1-0 lead at the end of the first half on a goal by Kurt Lampert after 10 minutes from close in.

Tom Ewing tied it with Butlers first goal, first-timeing a hard drive at the 10-minute mark of the second half and Saghit Singh scored the winner with 15 minutes left in the game.

HAVANA—Victor Talo Mendez, 134, Cuba, outpointed Jose Arguelles, 137, Mexico (10).

Suds Lead; Mounties Lose Pair

By The Associated Press

Seattle held first place in the Pacific Coast League today, thanks to home runs by Bob Balcona, Milt Smith and Art Schult.

Balcona and Smith each belted two over the fence as the Rainiers won a doubleheader with San Diego, 8-4 and 7-5. The beatings dropped San Diego from first to fourth place.

For San Diego, Dick Sisler, Floyd Robinson and Harry Elliott cleared the fence in vain.

Sacramento vaulted into second place by beating Vancouver 4-2 and 7-0. Earl Harriet limited the Mounties to seven blows in the opener and Roger Osenbaugh held them to four in the second. The Solons scored three times in the second game's first inning on a triple by Jerry Streeter, a walk and singles by Ferris Fain, Al Heist and Jerry Priddy. Vancouver is in the cellar.

Ben Wade pitched a one-hitter for Hollywood as the Stars won their second game from Portland, 1-0, after losing the first 5-0. Jim Baxes and Tommy Saffell hit homers for Portland in the first game.

The second game's only run came when Gair Allie singled and went around on a sacrifice and singles by Wade and Joe Duhem.

Tom Umphlett hit a single and three straight doubles as San Francisco beat Los Angeles, 9-1, after dropping the opener, 5-3. There were seven double plays in the first game, four by San Francisco.

YMCA Swimming Club Sweeps City Titles

Victoria YMCA swimmers almost turned the water to steam Saturday night as they scored an overwhelming victory in the city championships gala at Crystal Garden pool.

"Y" swimmers held complete control in all events and stacked up a 203-11 lead in the final point tabulations.

Four YMCA swimmers picked up victories in three events, Jamie Wheaton, Sally Holland, Stan Cameron and Bruce Warburton.

DISTRICT NOTES — The rehearsal for the Scoutrama was held on Sunday afternoon at the Memorial Arena, some 1,500 cubs, scouts and leaders taking part. A number of "bugs" were found and they will be corrected. Leaders will be notified as soon as possible about the change in the march past.

DUNSMUIR TROOP — Nine scouts and two leaders under the leadership of Scoutmaster Harold Harrison flew to Seattle over the weekend. From there they hiked to Snoqualmie Pass camp and took part in a scout pollack there with the Seattle scouts. The troop returned Sunday evening.

DEEP COVE TROOP is planning a trip to the Calgary Stampede this summer, camping out on the trip. Scoutmaster Jim Redwood will be in charge of the boys.

THIRD VICTORIA TROOP — At the last meeting the troop put in a good conservation stunt by rolling newspapers and tying them. They will be sold to help defray expenses for camping this summer.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books? Then ask Andy!

Andy, who is a prize, will answer two questions daily submitted by child readers of Canada and the U.S. Children who submit the questions will receive as prizes for the main question, either a 16-volume set of "The Children's Hour" or a 20-volume set of "The American People's Encyclopedia Year Book" or a year's subscription to "Treasure Trails" plus "Andy's Everyday Encyclopedia".

Address your questions to "Ask Andy" Victoria Daily Times, Victoria.

Andy sends a complete, 16-volume set of "The Children's Hour" to Kathie Klein, aged nine, of San Francisco, Calif., for her question:

What Are Polliwogs?

The polliwog got his name from two old English words. One meant head and the other meant wiggle. And a polliwog is just that—all head and wiggle. He is a sooty little tadpole, a junior frog.

Spring is the season for polliwogs and many sensible young people go out polliwog hunting. The hunting grounds are in the nearby streams and ponds. Take along rubbers to avoid wet feet. The only other thing you need is a glass jar.

The polliwogs are captured in the egg state. The eggs, of course, were laid by frogs or toads. Toads often lay their eggs in strings of jelly. Since toad polliwogs usually take a long time to grow up, we will search on for frog eggs. We shall find them in big blobs of floating jelly near the water's edge. The jelly is spotted with small round jet-black dots.

Scoop up the frog eggs into your jar and fill in some water from the pond or stream. Add a few bits of waterweed. You now own one of the most wonderful aquariums in the world. Great magic will happen there in the next few weeks. Have your magnifying glass ready to watch it.

In a few days, the little black dots are not so round. They seem to be uncolling into comma shapes. Actually, the baby polliwogs are forming in the jelly food. Eight days after they are laid the little polliwogs hatch. At first they are helpless, without eyes or mouth. All they can do is to hang onto the old jelly or a waterweed with tiny suckers.

The inkly fellows develop fast. Watch them grow and change through your magnifying glass. Those fringes around their necks are breathing gills. Eyes and mouth appear in a few days. The polliwogs begin to eat tiny bits of plants and what ever else they find in the water. They are now true polliwogs—all head and wiggly tail.

Soon the gill fringes disappear. New gills are growing inside. When this is done, watch for the back legs to appear. With their two new legs, the polliwogs become teen-agers.

Meantime the front legs are growing under the skin where you cannot see them. When ready, they pop out one at a time. The next changes are harder to see. The polliwogs are growing lungs. Every now and then they come up for a gulp of air. During these changes they may go off their food. Don't worry. They are living on the food stored in their tails. The tails waste away and disappear.

Now you have a batch of miniature frogs. The time has come when they need a larger home. They need to enjoy life on land and in the water. Chances are, you will want to return all or most of them to their native pond or stream and set them free.

These were lucky polliwogs. Without your help, only one or two of them would have grown up. Some would have been devoured as they clung helplessly after hatching. Others would have been gobbled up by their enemies as they started polliwogging in the water. The polliwogs you helped to live, however, will grow up to help keep down the pesky fly population.

Andy sends an American People's Encyclopedia Yearbook to Dolores Jean Bucca, 12, of Loudonville, N.Y., for her question:

What is pig iron?

Pig iron is the metal that runs out from a smelting furnace. Iron ore is shoveled into this furnace along with quantities of limestone and coke. The mixture is heated to a very high temperature. It melts and the molten substances react upon each other. Waste materials float to the top of the brew. Molten iron sinks to the bottom.

At the proper time, the molten iron is run off from the bottom of the furnace. In the early method of smelting this iron was run into a row of small troughs. Lined up, waiting for their fill, these troughs reminded the iron workers of a row of little pigs. They looked for all the world like a family of piglets lined up alongside Mama Pig waiting for lunch.

Princess Grace Radiant Again ---Her Boat's on Even Keel

POLLENSA, Mallorca (UP)—Princess Grace Kelly appeared today to have recovered fully from the seasickness that almost ruined her honeymoon.

She was radiant when she stepped ashore Sunday evening to attend a gala supper at the swank Formentor hotel and drew gasps of admiration from a waiting crowd.

The visit ashore was her first since she and Prince Rainier sailed from Monaco last week on the royal yacht Deo Juvante for a lazy Mediterranean cruise. Reports from the yacht said she had been miserably seasick almost from the time the Deo Juvante sailed.

She began recovering when the yacht entered this peaceful harbor, free from the choppy waves of the Mediterranean and the sickening ground swells near the coast.

For 36 hours she lazed in her cabin and fished nonchalantly from the open deck of the yacht while hundreds of persons stared from shore and others gathered around the yacht in small boats like respectful waterbugs.

Rest and relaxation restored her vivacity and she was beautiful when she entered the lobby of the Formentor hotel with Rainier.

Another report of Grace's illness came from Waldo de Mier, Mallorca correspondent for the Madrid newspaper Arriba.

"The only thing that one has been able to find out," he reported, "is that Grace was very seasick and that she wanted with all her heart and soul that the boat stay on a level keel—something it had not done until it entered the calm waters of the bay."

IF I LOVED YOU

Capitol Theatre To Close For Renovation

One of Victoria's largest motion picture houses, the Capitol Theatre, will close May 5 for extensive renovations.

When completed the Yates Street theatre is expected to boast a new marquee outside and a new sound system inside.

Plans, still incomplete, are expected to be known within the next ten days. Officials of Famous Players Ltd., Vancouver, intimated that cost and extent of the work to be done could not be determined at this time. The renovations, however, had been on the planning board "for some time."

Stock Market Whiz, 10, Wins $100,000

NEW YORK (UP)—A 10-year-old schoolboy expert on the stock market won $100,000 Saturday on a television quiz program.

Leonard Ross of Tujunga, Calif., answered a difficult five-part question about the New York stock exchange to become the fourth person to win the top prize on the NBC program, "The Big Surprise."

Leonard is the son of William Ross, a Los Angeles, Calif., accountant. His mother, Pauline, is a court stenographer.

The boy will have about $33,000 left after paying taxes on his prize. He said he would give quite a bit of it to charity. He also said he would give his father high fidelity phonograph equipment, his mother a tape recorder, and would buy a subscription to the Wall Street Journal for himself.

He said appearing on the show was "the most wonderful experience in my life." He also said he had been invited by a publisher to write a book on the stock market and had two standing offers to join Wall Street organizations.

The dark-haired, serious-looking youngster said he was interested in stocks "as a way of people owning a share of American industry."

NEW BUREAU TO OPEN JUNE 5

New Nanaimo tourist and publicity bureau under construction near CPR terminal will cost $16,000 when completed, will serve whole of central Island area. Chamber of Commerce, erecting building, has planned boardroom and public accommodation in part of 1,200 square feet of floor space.

B.C. Loggers Oppose 48-Hour Work Week

ANN HIERS BEST ACTRESS IN FESTIVAL

LADYSMITH (CP)—Duncan actress Ann Hiers was chosen best actress of the Central Vancouver Island Drama Festival here for portrayal of the Queen with presentation of "Dark Lady of the Sonnets."

Cecil R. West won best director award for the same play, presented by the Duncan Little Theatre Guild.

Tom Kerr won best actor award as Lachie in the Nanaimo CYO presentation "The Hasty Heart," which he also directed.

Adjudicator was Phoebe Smith.

Retailers Should Advertise More Says National Head

NANAIMO—The average retailer is not advertising enough, according to D. A. Gilbert, national president of the Retail Merchants' Association, who spoke here to a representative group from central Vancouver Island.

About 50 merchants from Nanaimo, Ladysmith and Port Alberni heard Mr. Gilbert say they should have greater use of the facilities and specialized knowledge of their daily newspapers' advertising departments.

The meeting here was held as a part of a national campaign to increase membership from its present 40,000 to 100,000 before the end of 1956.

Accompanying the speaker were Ray Simms of Vancouver, provincial president, and Ed Mallek of Victoria and Vancouver, of the provincial board of directors.

INDIAN SUGAR

India's production of sugar reached 1,500,000 tons in 1955, up from 1,000,000 tons in 1954.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A union spokesman said here there is "no justification" for a return to the 48-hour week in the B.C. logging industry for a six-month period this summer.

The board of industrial relations gave operators permission to work a six-day week and build up a supply of logs to meet a threatened labor shortage.

The request for the extension came from the B.C. Loggers' Association and the B.C. Truck Loggers' Association.

Under the present agreement, loggers work a 44-hour week. Members of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) put in the hours in five straight days.

IWA spokesmen said there were 570,000,000 board feet of logs—two months supply—in the water now.

SHUT DOWN FEARED

"The operators are attempting to work through the most favorable weather with only one day off a week," said Fred Fleber, local secretary. "When they get their quota, they'll shut down, even if some good weather remains."

A union spokesman said the five-day week, fought in 1947, was one of the hottest issues ever contested in forest industry negotiations.

Symphony Finale Thrills Nanaimo

'Music of the Nations' Pop Concert Wins Amateur Musicians Big Ovation

By GEORGE MOLEY

NANAIMO—A capacity crowd of music lovers from all Island points and many from the mainland thrilled to the final spring performance of Nanaimo's Symphony Orchestra Sunday afternoon.

Conductor Maurice L. Kushner, R.L.M., swept his 65 amateur musicians to a new finish in talent in a "Music of the Nations" pop concert.

Mr. Kushner's own recent composition, "Bobo the Bad Bassoon," with narrator Vic Fergie and Dexter Wallbank doing the bassoon part, won prolonged applause.

ONE OF BEST

"Valse Trieste", "Country Garden", "Blue Danube", and "Sabre Dance" from the Gayne

Ballet completed one of the best concerts of its kind ever heard in Nanaimo. The musicians and their conductor were guests of the Chamber of Commerce and City of Nanaimo at a wind-up dinner at Legion Hall. Chamber president E. L. Hodson and John Cook, acting mayor, were co-hosts. Mr. Hodson made a presentation of chinaware to Mr. and Mrs. Kushner in appreciation of the conducting of a most successful season.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

At this time of year, the constituents are accustomed to receiving Our Very Own explanation of Daylight Saving Time.

However, as I have explained daylight saving time so often, I am sure all constituents must understand it by now. It is really very simple.

At 12:01 a.m. (or is it p.m.?) on April 29 (that's either Saturday night or Sunday morning, or possibly Monday has something to do with it) you set your clock 60 minutes back (I think) and voila! It is then either 1:01 a.m. or p.m. or 11:01 a.m. or p.m., as the case may be.

As you can plainly see, there is nothing confusing about daylight saving, and you should be able to adapt yourself to it easily, unless you are a transcontinental train or a cow.

If you are a transcontinental train, you'd better continue to run four and one half minutes late on Atlantic, Eastern, Central, Mountain, and Pacific time, which are enough times to be late on. Or even on time on.

If you are a cow wishing to be milked, you will not bother trying to understand Daylight Saving Time.

You will know dang well what time it is.

Therefore, I will not bother to explain Daylight Saving Time this year.

Instead, I shall open up a new field of time saving for your consideration.

It is all very well to save day time (which, I presume, is what Daylight Saving Time does).

But does anyone give a thought to saving night time?

No. On the contrary, we go about squandering our night time, with never a thought for the future.

If all we save is day time, will we have any night time put by for when we really need it?

Obviously not.

Mark my words, this present course of concentration on saving day time is sheer improvidence.

There will come a time when we will have something to do which we wish to do at night (such as sleep) and we will find we have let all our night time trickle through our fingers, and we will have no night time left.

The only solution is a dual system: In the summer, let us save day time; in winter, let us save night time.

Or (and this might be even simpler) we could institute Standard Saving Time.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Royal Roads Canadian Services College commandant Capt. John A. Charles will be featured speaker at University of British Columbia extension department adult education conference May 24.

The fourth annual conference, to be held at Royal Roads, will be chaired by Cmdr. C. H. Little. Panel discussions will be held on adult education in the armed forces and improvement of communication among adult education agencies.

Victoria Cross winner Col. C. C. I. Merritt, Vancouver, will be inspecting officer at University School Army Cadet Corps annual inspection May 2.

The corps, which has been called the smartest on Vancouver Island, will parade with its bugle band on the school green at 2 p.m.

Fourteen thousand rifle shots will crackle the air in Nanaimo next Saturday and Sunday when about 300 troops of 25th Militia Group fire annual range classification practice at the army camp.

Princess Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) is expected to send the most men, representing Victoria, Sidney, Duncan, Nanaimo, Courtenay and Port Alberni.

The impressive total of 14,000 rounds of ammunition awaits arrival of the troops.

Hundreds of Victoria ship-lovers watched Sunday afternoon as the Orient Lines' RMS Orion steamed through Juan de Fuca Strait, inbound for Vancouver from Australia.

The distinctive, corn-colored hull which is favored by the owners for most of their luxury liners, attracted attention.

The ship was at William Head for two hours before proceeding to Vancouver. More than 1,000 passengers were aboard.

Mrs. E. Warren and L. Stewart won the finals of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce bridge tournament held at the Dominion hotel.

They defeated Mr. and Mrs. C. Martin. Other finalists were Mrs. Emma Forbes, W. Allen, J. MacMillan, H. Parry, J. Duprau, E. Goodwin, P. Smith, W. Smith, G. Roger and T. Waddington.

All proceeds from the tournament go to help fight cerebral palsy.

YWCA program committee meets at 7:30 tonight in the dining room, with Mrs. R. E. Foster in the chair.

She will discuss selection of plants for various locations, dividing, planting, improvement of blooms, and selecting plants for their perfume.

An horticultural film will be shown and the audience will be given book references available in the library pertaining to points discussed.

The talk will be open to the public free of charge.

AIR INDUSTRY LEADERS IN CITY

land, Toronto; B. W. Pitfield, vice-president, Northwest Industries Ltd., Edmonton, and K. E. Hibbert, managing director, Fairey Aviation, Victoria and Halifax.

Home for Aged Site Decision In Two Weeks

A decision will be made May 3 whether the Vancouver Island Presbytery of the United Church of Canada locates a senior citizens' home here or at Shawnigan lake.

Under consideration are sites on lower Washington avenue in the city and at the village of Shawnigan lake.

The decision will follow an inspection of both parties by B. C. Bracewell, Graham McCall and W. T. Straith, QC, who represent the housing committee of the presbytery.

Mrs. F. H. Parsons, president of the survey committee, said the home will not be restricted to United Church members. Date of the decision was announced at the annual conference in Nanaimo of the Victoria Presbytery Women's Association.

The fall meeting of the presbytery will be held at Port Alberni Oct. 5.

NEW OFFICERS

New officers of the association are Mrs. C. W. Davies of Victoria, president; Mrs. R. Marshall of Shawnigan Lake, Mrs. J. E. Hess of Chemainus and Mrs. B. R. G. Radford of Comox, vice-presidents; Mrs. J. E. Gregory of Duncan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ray Macnam of Chemainus, recording secretary; Mrs. W. G. Clarke of Lantzville, treasurer; Mrs. L. Flett of Duncan, sick visiting; Mrs. C. D. Gorrie of Port Alberni, parsonage and emcee; and Mrs. A. McArthur of Wellington, devotionals.

100 Infantrymen To Represent Island in Tattoo

A hundred Infantrymen with color guard and pipes, all in full scarlet dress, will represent Vancouver Island militia at B.C. Area army week "Tattoo" in Vancouver May 11.

The soldiers will be members of Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) and will be taken from Victoria, Duncan and Nanaimo units of the battalion.

Permanent force troops will be riflemen of Second Battalion Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, who will form a contingent of about 200 men, with Battalion Bugles, wearing dress uniforms. Besides formal drill, they will give demonstrations of certain weapons.

Two Fines, Suspension Follow Downtown Mishap

Licence suspensions were imposed on two of three men who pleaded guilty in city police court today to careless driving charges.

Walter Hitchcox Jr., 24, 613 Superior, was fined $50 or seven days in jail and suspended from driving as the result of a charge arising from an accident at Cook and Johnson on April 11.

Hitchcox was driving north on Cook when he collided with a pedestrian. Police said the pedestrian suffered a fractured ankle, and another person had to jump back to avoid being struck.

Hitchcox was also fined $25 or an additional five days in jail on a charge of driving without wearing eyeglasses, contrary to a licence restriction.

Earl C. Stewart, 4209 Douglas, was fined $35 and restricted to driving for business purposes only for one month. He was involved in a two-car accident April 14 at Government and Pandora.

Also fined $35 was Louis M. Carey, 3238 Shelley, when convicted on a charge which arose from a car-bus accident March 28 at Menzies and Superior. His licence was suspended.

Court heard that Carey was driving south on Menzies and the bus was traveling on Superior when the crash occurred.

Two witnesses testified that the accused didn't stop for a red flashing signal light.

Carey and a passenger in his auto were taken to hospital following the collision, and damages were $1,550.

FUTURE BOUNDLESS

Aviation Picture 'Never Brighter'

Aviation may become Canada's largest industry within 25 years, E. H. Moncrieff, president of the Air Industries and Transport Association of Canada, said here today.

Mr. Moncrieff, president of Standard Aero Engines Ltd., Winnipeg, was addressing the AITA semi-annual convention here at the Empress hotel.

He termed Canada's aviation future "boundless" and said the civil aviation picture of today "has never been brighter."

In reviewing the aircraft industry he reported that between 1946 and 1954 the number of licensed aircraft rose from 911 to 2,800, and total mileage increased from 28 to 61 million. Passengers carried rose from 36,000 to 2,865,547 and freight and expression from 25 to 115 million tons.

He predicted tonnages for 1955 would be double those of 1954. Preliminary operating revenues in 1955 indicate an increase of nearly 50 per cent, from $108,864,289 to $154,412,450.

Mr. Moncrieff told representatives of the 201 member companies of the association that at present "manufacturers are almost entirely dependent on military work for their existence," denying that the aviation industry could readily convert to civilian production in the case of extensive cut-backs in military requirements.

NO SLACKENING There is no indication, he said, of any slackening in defence preparedness.

The speaker called for a policy which would eliminate "the uneven production schedules" experienced by secondary manufacturers in Canada's aviation industry.

He said more realistic planning on a longer range basis than in the past was needed, and that greater preference should be given Canadian sources of supply.

Constant representation should be maintained in Ottawa, he went on, especially with the department of defence production, to ensure aviation industry interests were continually before the federal government.

Aerial survey work will be doubled in Canada within the next two years, he said. Since 1952 approximately 3,000,000 square miles of Canada have been surveyed in this manner.

COPTERS IN DEMAND Demand for helicopter services is steadily increasing. Today there are 60 civil registrations and about the same number in use by the military services.

Recent amalgamations of air transport companies, acquisition such as that of Associated Airways by Pacific Western Air Lines, "has considerably strengthened the position of a number of regional carriers."

This is the fifth consecutive year AITA members have met in Victoria.

Delegates were scheduled to hear an address at noon today by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross, a director of Trans-Canada Airlines.

The AITA meeting ends Tuesday night. Sessions will deal with transport and industrial matters pertaining to the industry.

Guest speaker at the dinner Tuesday will be Walter R. McLachlan, vice-president and general manager, Orenda Engines Ltd., Toronto.

Flood Threat Eased by Sun

Government officials said today the current weather spell is easing the danger of floods in B.C.

"If it keeps up, we will be in the clear, and should get by with little difficulty," a government official said.

He explained that hot days and cool nights now being experienced are clearing away lower level snow largely by evaporation, and that the cool nights hold down the rate of run-off.

"So far, we have had ideal run-off and melting conditions," he said.

"If it keeps up like it has the past two weeks, we will possibly get by with not too much trouble."

Honorary Centennial Posts For Prominent B.C. Men

Nine prominent British Columbians have been named to honorary positions with the B.C. Centennial Committee.

Honorary chairmen of the committee, which is formulating plans for B.C.'s 100th birthday celebration in 1958, are Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross, Premier W. A. C. Bennett, and Chief Justice Gordon Sloan.

Named honorary vice-chairmen were all living former lieutenant-governors, and premiers.

They are: Hon. C. A. Banks, Hon. E. W. Hamber, Hon. Clarence Wallace, Hon. W. C. Woodward, and former premiers John Hart and Byron I. Johnson.

Meanwhile, committee officials said an executive secretary, chosen from over 90 applicants, will be announced at the end of the week.

Grant to Allow Park Road Work

Mayor Expects $75,000 From B.C. Government

Victoria likely will receive a grant of $75,000 from the province for beautification this year, Mayor Percy Scurrah said today.

The grant will be administered by the capital improvement district commission as successor to the capital city grant committee.

No funds are expected to be allotted to other municipalities in Greater Victoria this year but a master plan for district beautification will be devised for implementation in 1957.

Tentative plans for use of the 1956 grant, discussed by the city council public works committee today, indicate about $72,000 will be spent for widening, curbing and paving of Douglas street where it adjoins Beacon Hill park. Viewpoint parking bays are planned overlooking the park. Government approval must be obtained.

The mayor said he was told by Premier Bennett a letter would arrive at city hall today or Tuesday asking the city to name delegates to the soon-to-be-formed capital improvement district commission.

The commission was born in the last session of the B.C. Legislature. It will have 11 persons, six appointed by the cabinet, two by the city, and one each by Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Saanich.

Cabinet-appointed members will sit for five years and the others for three. No mention was made of specific amounts of money the commission will have for beautification projects throughout Greater Victoria.

The mayor said it is expected the commission will spend this year compiling plans for projects which will then be submitted to the cabinet with detailed estimates, for approval.

Last year only Victoria received a grant for local beautification, under a six-man Capital City Grant Committee. In 1955 the grant of $50,000 was expended for construction of a model yacht pool (about $18,000) and the balance on road repairs, parking bay construction and other beautification projects along the Dallas Road waterfront.

Largest single project, which the city has planned and referred to the commission, is construction of a $200,000 lower promenade to front the Causeway. This will serve to reinforce the present structure and permit dredging of the inner harbor.

It is hoped in some quarters construction of a civic auditorium for Greater Victoria also will gain approval of the new commission.

These are both matters which may be expected to be presented in estimate form to the beautification authority this year for implementation possibly in 1957.

SWIM TRY WEDNESDAY Bert Thomas Route Selected by Muir

Saanich swimmer Bill Muir's Wednesday morning strait try will be along a course followed by Juan de Fuca conqueror Bert Thomas on one of his earlier attempts.

Muir will take off from Macaulay Point about 8 a.m. and proceed directly south, outside Race Rocks.

The course then curves southeast toward Ediz Hook at Port Angeles.

Muir wants winds less than 10 miles an hour before he starts. If winds are too strong, the attempt will be postponed to Thursday morning.

Crews and vessels for the swim have been selected. Accompanying the swimmer will be George Polson in a 27-foot gillnetter, and Ray Sawyer's 16-foot launch Sharon Marie under navigation of Bud Phillips.

SIXTH TRY Muir, who made five tries at swimming the strait last summer, said he has been training extensively.

"Last year I was a greenhorn," he said. "There were a lot of things I didn't know out there in the strait."

"I feel better now than I did last fall. My muscles are stretched and I've had no cramps this year."

He will eat soda crackers and drink a cup of hot-oxo before setting out. During the swim he will drink orange juice mixed with syrup and dextrose.

Practice swims, one slated for Saturday between Race Rocks and Port Angeles, the other Sunday from Macaulay to Race Rocks, were called off because of wind and waves.

Big Ben Laughren hopes for his second try at the north-south crossing sometime this week.

This afternoon he was to have a training swim under the eye of former Bert Thomas navigator, Capt. Hugh Evans, of Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

Capt. Evans and yachtsman Bill Teller will plot Laughren's course together, arranging details following today's swim.

Centennial Group Given $25,000

A $25,000 grant was made today by the cabinet to further the initial work undertaken by the B.C. Centennial Committee.

The grant is expected to be added to from time to time as the committee steps up its work, leading to the province-wide 100th birthday celebration slated for 1958.

Cabinet Gives $1,000 To B.C. Drama Entry

B.C.'s entry in the Dominion Drama Festival at Sherbrooke, Quebec, May 14 to May 19, today received a $1,000 gift from the provincial cabinet.

The cabinet approved the grant to assist the Vancouver Little Theatre Association's presentation of "Darkness at Noon," following a request from the association and the B.C. regional committee of the Dominion Drama Festival.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Will you kindly inform me who the music critic was who was struck by a truck and instantly killed in Toronto? I sat beside him and his wife the night Percy Grainger played in the Varsity Stadium, M.A.S.

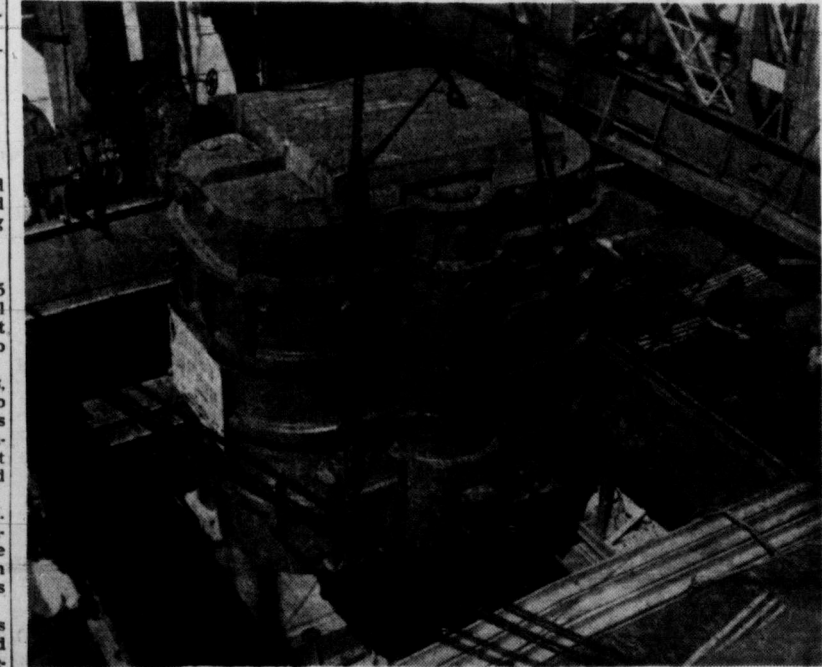

A.—It is impossible for this column, even with all the resources of the Victoria Daily Times, to track down the information you seek unless you can be more specific. You have not mentioned even the year, much less the month, of the fatal accident.

Q.—Has there ever been a two-time winner of the Grand National steeplechase? D.L.W.

A.—Yes, Reynoldstown, owned by Noel Furlong, won it in 1935 and 1936. There have been other dual winners.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Bright Foam Cut-Out Mats Will Amuse the Children

By PENNY SAVER

It's a picture, a puzzle, a sponge! Especially for the small fry are the 12 by 18-inch foam mats that have puzzle cut-outs of ducks, dogs, butterflies, circles and squares. Leave it as it is, wrapped in cellophane, and hang it in the children's room as a picture, or let them have fun piecing it together as a puzzle. When bathtime comes around, they'll love using the colorful sponge animals in the tub. An array of colors, brown, yellow, pink, blue, green and white, is used in each set. The price? It's $1.

Is it time to rebind your fluffy eiderdown? The satin binding can become frayed and old without our noticing it, it seems. For an even more attractive touch, there's now a satin binding that's double the usual width. It comes in a fitted box, complete with a spool of matching thread. Since it is double width, you'd expect it to be double price, too, but it's not. Regular width, with two spools of thread is $1, while the double width is just $1.69. You can buy it in green, gold, white, rose, blue and mauve.

There are numerous types of ironing board covers for the housewife to buy, and there are more being added all the time. The latest I've found is of resilient polyester foam. It fits regulation sized 54-inch boards and comes packaged complete with white felt cover for board. The pad stays dry, for the moisture passes through the foam. The pad and cover will not slide, and are flame resistant. The foam comes in bright colors, and, with the cover, costs $2.49.

As I walked by a downtown delicatessen, I was fascinated by all the types of sausages and cold meats. What really took my eye was a little cellophane package. In it were two sticks of pepperoni, and at just 10 cents.

If you'd like to know where to find any of the items mentioned in the column, call me at 2-3131 and I'll give you the regulation sized 54-inch boards names of the stores.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Parties for Joan Cross

The office staff of Evans, Coleman and Johnson gathered at the home of Mrs. J. Bailey, Fort Street, to honor bride-elect, Miss Joan Cross with a grocery shower. A large pink and green parasol concealed the gifts. Pink carnations with green ribbons and small white bells were in Miss Cross' corsage, while her mother, Mrs. F. S. Cross, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. P. B. Herberston, received white hyacinths with pink and green bows, respectively. Buffet refreshments were served. Invited were Mrs. R. Orr, Mrs. S. Stout, Mrs. R. Lawrence, Mrs. C. Prior, Mrs. E. I. Robinson, Misses Margaret Bell, Carolyn Dawe, Carol Cross, Dorothy Herberston, Flo Pickering, Elizabeth McGillivray, May McArthur, Helen Sinclair, Helen Shewchuk and Veronica Chapman.

A co-hostess luncheon was held by Miss Helen Sinclair and Mrs. J. Bailey at the home of Miss Sinclair, Monterey Ave. A presentation of a standard ashray was made by the assembled guests. Pink rosebuds and a white gardenia were in Miss Cross' corsage, and white carnations in her mother's. Guests at the party were Mrs. M. Williams, Mrs. E. I. Robinson, Mrs. R. Sinclair, Misses Margery Ellis, Wendy Norris, Phyllis Rose, Sally Leary, Brenda Durrant, Maureen O'Shea, Elenore Straith, Mary Beckett, Heather Rogers, Lynn Williams and Vivien Sanguinetti.

Mrs. George Harris entertained at her home on Rose street with a miscellaneous shower to honor Miss Cross. Gifts were arranged in a wishing well and presented with an ice-box corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Frank Cross and Mrs. P. Herberston, mothers of the affianced couple, received rosebuds. Refreshments were served from a table centred with carnations and white lilies flanked by pale green candles in silver candelabra. Guests included Mrs. A. Cross, Mrs. D. Wilson, Mrs. A. Mercer, Mrs. W. Cross, Mrs. H. Coles, Mrs. A. Conway, Mrs. J. Fanthorpe, Mrs. G. Conway, Mrs. M. Alexander, Mrs. T. Hurly, Mrs. E. Robinson, Mrs. J. Bailey, Mrs. F. Browne, Mrs. W. Hickey, Mrs. M. Rowell, Gwen Der, Janet Pitchford, Lena Lee, Betty Morrison, Sylvia Aldridge, Margaret Cooper, Joyce Rudock, Fernie McDiarmid, Enid Lemon, Sylvia Gregson, Ethel Palmer, L. Garland, Kitty Cave, Helen Talbot and Marge Milne.

Miss Hall was also honored at a kitchen shower given by Mrs. J. K. Saunders, 365 Arnot Avenue, with Mrs. J. K. Saunders and Mrs. G. A. Smith as co-hostesses. Corsages of carnations were presented to the honor guest, her mother, Mrs. Hall, and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. R. N. Gooding. Gifts were concealed in a decorated clothes basket. Spring flowers centred the lace-covered refreshment table, at which Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Gooding presided. Guests included Mrs. J. K. Saunders, Mrs. C. Comerford, Mrs. S. Nelson, Mrs. E. Buckmaster, Mrs. O. Twamley, Mrs. A. Thomassen, Mrs. R. Iverson, Mrs. W. Blason, Mrs. A. Sheard, Mrs. R. Scoble, Mrs. J. Butler, Mrs. M. Waldren, Mrs. K. Nelson, Mrs. W. E. Smith, Mrs. G. A. ## WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Extra Pounds Add to Your Hot Weather Discomfort

It's time to get the anti-freeze out of your car and the extra pounds off of you! If warm weather is not already with you it is just around the corner.

Why not treat yourself as kindly as you do your car? Those extra pounds heat you up about as much as the anti-freeze would your car. Overweight is always uncomfortable but it is especially so in hot weather.

For one thing, your heart has to work harder in order to pump blood through the blood vessels in your extra pounds. Also, there are all sorts of summer discomforts such as prickly heat and chafing which harass the overweight woman.

In order to be comfortable in hot weather we wear lighter clothing; even less restricting lighter undergarments and foundations. It is sheer joy to wear the attractive play clothes and swim suits if you feel comfortable in them, and you won't if you do not think you look attractive in them. That's just the way we women are!

So your Aunt Josie is here with help. I always run my Nine-Day Reducing Diet about this time every year. You can lose from five to 10 pounds in nine days if you will stick with the diet which is appearing in this newspaper daily.

FIRST DAY MENU

Here are the menus for tomorrow so that you can shop for the essential items today:
Breakfast — Half grapefruit, one thin dry piece of whole wheat toast, black coffee.

Mid-morning — Glass of tomato juice.

Luncheon — Green salad with lemon or reducing dressing, one slice lamb roast (don't eat the fat), one glass skimmed milk, one thin dry piece of whole wheat toast.

Mid-afternoon — Glass of tomato juice.

Dinner — One piece of lean meat, steak or roast (five or six ounces), one-half cup squash (yellow preferable), one-half cup string beans, one glass skimmed milk, one apple.

Even five pounds will make your belts tighter and 10 pounds can make the difference between an average figure and a truly lovely one. Why not get in there and pitch and get it over with?

If you would like to have my complete Nine-Day Reducing Diet in a convenient booklet, send 10 cents and a stamped self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Crocker Married in Brentwood Chapel

In Brentwood Memorial Chapel Saturday evening, Rev. Norman Lowe heard the wedding vows of Miss Dorothy Joan Hamilton and Mr. Ronald E. Crocker. Spring blossoms were placed at the altar for the ceremony. Miss Doreen Aldridge was organist and played traditional wedding music.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hamilton, Beach Drive, Brentwood, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a short jacket of nylon lace. A fingertip length veil of misting net trimmed with seed pearls was held by a small headpiece. She carried a white prayer book topped with a cascade of red roses centred with a white gardenia.

Maid of honor, Miss Joan Butler, and bridesmatron, Mrs. Arnold Hamilton, wore taffeta dresses in ballerina length in dusty rose and blue, respectively. They carried colonial bouquets of carnations, roses and narcissi. Junior bridesmaid, Miss Sharon Doney, niece of the groom, wore a pale pink taffeta and blue net dress and carried a bouquet of iris and violets.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Crocker, Brookleigh Road, Elk Lake, had Ree Crocker, his brother, as best man. Ushers, Arnold Hamilton and Don Tregear, ushered guests to pews marked with white bows.

For travelling, the bride donned an avocado green ensemble with feather trimmed hat and avocado accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias. Mr. and Mrs. Crocker will live at Sproat Lake following a honeymoon trip up-island.

Ecu lace over pink covered the bride's table at the reception held in Brentwood Women's Institute Hall. The wedding cake was flanked by rose candles in silver holders and bowls of white stocks and snapdragons. Harold Andrew proposed the toast to the bride.

The honorary colonel of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's), Col. The Hon. R. W. Mayhew, and Mrs. Mayhew were special guests, Saturday evening, at the annual ladies' dinner in the officers' mess. Mrs. Mayhew was presented with a bouquet of red roses on the occasion of her birthday. Seated with them at the head table were Lt. Col. J. Fawcett, commanding officer, and Mrs. Fawcett, Brig. J. S. Adam, OBE, ED, and Mrs. Adam, Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. W. Johnson, Maj. and Mrs. S. E. Park and Maj. and Mrs. H. R. White.

Wedding Plans Announced

Saturday, June 2, is the date chosen by Miss Patricia Ruth Evelyn Sinnott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Sinnott, Dereen Place, for her marriage to Lieut. William Sibbald Wilson, The Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, Camp Gordon Head, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson of Toronto, Ont. Very Rev. Brian Whitlow, M.A., MEd, will perform the ceremony at 2.30 p.m. in Christ Church Cathedral. Miss Sinnott has named Mrs. Eric Leary matron of honor, and bridesmaids will be Miss Louise Hamilton of Vancouver and Miss Marilyn Selkirk. Miss Adele Sinnott, cousin of the bride-elect, will be her junior bridesmaid and Katherine MacFarlane of Vancouver the flower girl. Lieut. Wilson will have Lieut. W. A. C. Crew as best man and ushers will be Capt. P. G. Haagenen, Capt. T. W. MacDonald, MM; Lieut. T. E. Ball, Lieut. D. J. E. Bamford, Lieut. H. J. Traynor and Lieut. R. T. Werry.

At British Columbia House

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Heybroek of Victoria who have been traveling abroad for several months have visited British Columbia House in London, Eng., during the past ten days and signed the register there. Other Victorians adding their names to the register recently include Mrs. Marjorie Cross, Mr. John Shaw, Mr. David Rea, Major and Mrs. P. D. Crofton and Mr. A. C. Batchelor.

Baby Receives Names

Bruce Gray were the names given to the four-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Perry in a christening ceremony in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt, Sunday afternoon. Padre J. A. Roberts officiated and godparents are Miss Gladys Perry, Mr. John Perry and Mr. Harry Perry, aunt and uncle of the baby. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rigby, Vista Heights, and Mrs. S. Perry, Moss Street, are grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Rigby, Balfour Avenue, are great grandparents. The baby wore a christening dress which had been worn by his mother and grandmother. Tea was served following the ceremony, at the home of the maternal grandparents.

California Visit

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stepney have returned to their Beach Drive home after visiting for a month in southern California. Mr. and Mrs. Stepney sailed from Vancouver on the Holland-American liner Diemerdyk, disembarking at Los Angeles.

Vows Heard At Qualicum

Beverly Blanche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Goard, Chicago, Ill., formerly of Qualicum Beach, B.C., was united in marriage to James Alexander Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hill of Little Qualicum Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses. Roy Strand was officiating minister.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Stanley Goard, the bride was charming in her white strapless gown of lace over taffeta, fashioned in ballerina-length with long, lily point sleeves. Her bouquet was of red and white roses with lily of the valley.

Bridesmaid was Miss Anne Hamilton of Victoria, who chose a gown of pink brocade. Best man was Gerald Jenkins, Little Qualicum. At a small reception in the Little Qualicum hall, toast to the bride was proposed by the groom's uncle, M. Fisher.

Following a honeymoon in Chicago, the young couple will make their home at Qualicum Beach.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

TUESDAY, APRIL 24, 1956

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) - Others have the power of the planets with them today, so be sure you do nothing to take away from your advancement by raising ill-timed or tactless questions. Let others see you respect their rights in toto.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) - Use much care to get out from under some pet peeve that would keep your mind whirling, as in a squirrel cage. Later you will see that partners are pretty determined to have their way, postpone giving answer by being "absent."

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) - You have testy attitude early unless you make sure to keep in cheerful humor. Later work seems dreary and unending, don't go off on tangents, get good rest today, tonight.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21) - Avoid early battle at home. Then stick rest of day to proven practices of all kinds, simple and inexpensive pleasures. Thus you turn potential problems into real respect from others, pleasant time for yourself.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) - Snappy, snide communication early can get you in tizzy. Sideswipe one who is upset and would vent spleen on you. Be sure to let those beneath your roof know you appreciate their backing. Take some present home. Show devotion.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) - Stick to usual expenses, methods early, avoid making any heavy, unnecessary commitments. Then errands, shopping, calls but use more than average care on highway. Don't be snappy with clerk, etc. Guard your belongings.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) - You feel out of sorts this morning but that's no reason to take it out on those about you. Be sure you maintain pleasant attitude and you gain vast respect and more affection. Protect possessions, money later in day, p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) - You feel limited and as though you aren't making the progress you had anticipated. It's just a little divine discontent to prod you onward, upward. Be more considerate, co-operative with others and you turn problems to opportunities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) - Your personal appearance is not what you desire this a.m. You have chance to find some means for improving now. P.M. forget self in being of service and doing for others. Be impersonal, objective.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) - Take more care with those in power than usual or you find yourself in the doghouse. Some problems may arise with partners, etc. This gives you chance to know just where you stand so be thankful it came into the open. You can handle it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) - Don't go flying off to some appealing interest just because you are bored with long-time duties. Find some better, more up-to-date way for handling them and conditions improve to your advantage swiftly. But you must use care.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) - Now you have a day when your hunches are very inaccurate and you do not have your usually excellent judgment. Make sure you double-check whatever you do, or say, before you do it. Then you save yourself considerable inconvenience.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TUESDAY . . .

Tuesday's child is one of those interesting youngsters who has a considerable amount of action all of his, or her, life. However, there is a tendency to "sit" on whatever benefits or background may be his, or hers, and it's necessary that those who have this child's training in their charge teach that once a decision has been reached it must be carried out, else why is it of any use at all? Fine chart for work connected with the money, property, possessions, interest of others.

7,000 Yards of Soil Moved Daily for Mill

Pulp Plant Officials Promise Measures To Reduce Odor and Fly Ash Nuisance

CHEMAINUS—Excavation work at the construction site of the Crofton pulp mill is proceeding according to schedule, W. W. Holland, vice-president, pulp, at B.C. Forest Products Ltd., told a public meeting here.

Contractors are moving between 6,000 and 7,000 cubic yards of earth a day in preparation for construction. A total of 400,000 cubic yards will have been excavated by the time construction begins this summer, Mr. Holland said. The company owns 275 acres of land at Crofton, of which 80 will be developed as the mill site.

The pulp mill will incorporate all the new process and equipment improvements known at this time and the design will include means "to reduce odor and the fly ash nuisance." Regarding plant effluent, the company will follow recommendations of the fisheries department.

"Our effluent line will be expensive but it will keep us clear of the oyster beds in the area and because of the depth of discharge, provide sufficient dilution so as not to interfere with fish life."

FERRY SLIP

Raw materials for the pulp mill will be supplied in chip and whole log form, mainly from the company's sawmill and logging operations, Mr. Holland said. A ferry slip is expected to cost $36,000,000, of which $8,000,000 will be spent in this area in the next 12 months in engineering, preparing the site, buildings and equipment.

Mr. Holland introduced mill manager John R. Grieve and D. H. Baker, assistant manager.

PRIESTLEY STIRS STORM

Unrepentant Author Touring Island

J. B. Priestley, the famous Yorkshire author, found himself the centre of a transcontinental exchange of insults when he arrived in Victoria Sunday for a brief look around the Island.

He spent the day resting here after crossing Canada on a TV and lecture tour and found it delightful after the storm he had stirred up in the East.

It began with a faint whiff last Monday when the author, starting on his lecture tour, contradicted chief librarian Charles Sanderson of Toronto, who had just introduced him at a literary luncheon.

In a speech since described as "graceful," Dr. Sanderson said Mr. Priestley would autograph copies of his books.

Mr. Priestley said he would not. Dr. Sanderson also told the 600 guests at the luncheon inaugurating Canadian Book Week.

One of the books he would read and reread with relish on retirement was Priestley's "The Good Companions."

2. Mothers' Day, traditionally the second Sunday in May, should carry the slogan, "Say it with books" instead of "Say it with flowers."

When Mr. Priestley got up he said he'd written other books "just as good" since the "Companions" was written in 1929 and he wished people wouldn't associate an author with a particular work.

He was against promoting books on Mothers' Day. If any more items were touted for Mothers' Day someone would soon advocate selling Mom.

And there shouldn't be book weeks or book years. Books should be part of civilization.

The news columns in Toronto gave little notice to the event but some columnists commented Tuesday. Increasingly pungent afterthoughts appeared during the week.

By Friday the author was in Vancouver, whence he blasted his Toronto sponsors for having treated him with "unparalleled rudeness."

"I was invited to speak at a luncheon in connection with Canadian Book Week. But I found myself speaking at a luncheon for the glorification of W. H. Smith, who did very well out of it. I was speaking for nothing..."

"I never autograph books. It was an unparalleled piece of rudeness. It was not I who was rude. It was the people who JUST 'SPOILED'."

Saturday managing director George Renison of W. H. Smith and Son, bookseller sponsors of Monday's luncheon, said Mr. Priestley is not a good companion. "He is just a spoiled and bad-mannered man, for all that he's an excellent author."

FOR PRAIRIE JAUNT HOME GARDEN

Top Hats, Monacles Chamber Need

WANTED — Top hats and monacles.

These important adjuncts to good tailoring are needed urgently by Victoria Chamber of Commerce for its goodwill tour of the prairies May 6 to 13.

They will be worn as the occasion requires by some 36 Victorians during the chamber's tour of Edmonton, Saskatoon, Regina and Moose Jaw.

At present the chamber has only 12 top hats and monacles in its store.

"We could do with about 30 top hats and 30 monacles," Arnold Webb, assistant secretary of chamber, told The Times today.

"We are not unduly worried about the sizes of the toppers—heads will be found to fit them."

Characters symbolic of auld Victoria will be impersonated by members of the goodwill party, including Miss Lavender, Colonel Blimpsey, Mr. Knight Armour, Miss Tweedie and Mr. Bobby Hatt.

Mrs. Avis Walton has already accepted the role of Miss Lavender.

Relics of a Bronze Age cremation burial unearthed in Suffolk, England, are estimated to date from 1,800 B.C.

Each Hour of Day Has Own Perfumes

One of the reasons for having a garden is to enjoy the fragrance of the flowers at the various times of day.

The gardener who lives in his garden soon discovers that some plants give perfume only when warmed with the sun, others only at night, some during rain, others before or after rain.

There are many annuals to grow from seed or to be purchased later as bedding plants which will add pleasure to the garden by contributing fragrance as well as color.

The white alyssum smells like newly-mown hay in the sun, while the marigolds have a pungent odor not pleasing to everyone. Mignonette has an elusive quality after dark, as has Virginian stock. Nicotiana (flowering tobacco) has a spicy odor at night, and petunias contribute a pungent perfume reminiscent of incense.

Pansies are almost all quite heavily scented, and the smell of stocks (10-week, or the giant Californians) will pervade a large area to the delight of all visitors or passers. Sweet peas have a somewhat sickly sweet perfume which is quite acceptable in the garden, and is liked by nearly everyone.

The list of perennials which have perfume is even more extensive, so but a few can be mentioned. High on the list are the various dianthus, or pinks and carnations.

Some varieties of daffodils have a perfume, and some tulips, and it is worth while to compile a list as you find them.

Among the bearded (German) iris are many with a honey perfume, and the early flowering daylily, Hemerocallis flava, gives a fresh lemon odor.

Lily-of-the-valley is too well known to mention, but it is not so usual to find such perennials as peony, auricula and funkia (plantain-lily or hosta) being grown for their more subtle perfume.

Attlee Criticizes Truman's Memoirs

LONDON (Reuters) — Earl Attlee, who as Clement Attlee was formerly Labor prime minister of Britain, says former president Harry Truman gives "scanty" credit to others for certain adjustments in the post-war world in his second volume of memoirs.

In a review of the book published in The Sunday Times, Attlee cites Truman's account of the origin of the Berlin airlift as an outstanding example of a "lack of proportion" in Truman's book.

Funeral Friday For A. B. Morkill, Garden Expert

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p.m. in Christ Church Cathedral for Alan B. Morkill, 73, of 750 Pemberton road, well-known rock and alpine plant authority, who died suddenly Friday.

Born in Sherbrooke, Que., he came to B.C. as a youth, and managed various branches of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in this province.

At the outbreak of the First World War he enlisted with the 7th Battalion, and won the Military Cross and bar as a lieutenant.

Following the war, he returned to the bank, but in 1940 resigned managership of the Douglas and Cormorant branch here to enlist as a private. He later regained his commission and served overseas, retiring permanently following his discharge with the rank of major.

One of the founders of the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society 21 years ago, he served 18 years as president. He was a recognized authority on Canadian wild flowers and his collection was visited by garden experts from all parts of the world.

He also was a member of the Canadian Alpine Club and of the Canadian Scottish Regimental Association.

Surviving is his widow, the former Nellie Mara, who left here only last Tuesday to attend a Girl Guide conference in England. She is expected home on Tuesday night.

Appeal Opens Here On PUC Rights In Gas Dispute

The jurisdiction and power of the Public Utilities Commission is the subject of a legal argument in the B.C. Court of Appeal.

Three municipalities are appealing a decision of the PUC granting the B.C. Electric Co. permission to distribute natural gas in the Lower Fraser Valley without first obtaining their consent or approval.

The Corporation of Surrey, Township of Chilliwack and the City of Chilliwack through their counsel T. G. Norris claimed the PUC has not the authority to grant a certificate of conveyance unless the B.C. Electric first obtains the approval of the municipality.

The B.C. Electric Co., respondent, acknowledges that no consent was obtained from the municipalities for the distribution of the natural gas.

Senator J. W. deB. Farris, counsel for the B.C. Electric, claimed, however, that the Public Utilities Act and the Gas Act provided a complete code of procedure which enabled the PUC to grant a certificate of conveyance to the company.

His argument is that the company does not have to obtain permission from the municipalities for gas distribution rights. The case is continuing.

Weekend Crashes Injure Three

Two men and a 17-year-old youth were injured in weekend accidents.

Injured in a crash Saturday night when a motor scooter and a car collided at Douglas and Speed streets were George V. Frank and Jim Reid, both 25.

Reid suffered a possible fractured vertebra and Frank a broken leg and shoulder injury. Both are at HMCS Naden hospital.

Police said the scooter apparently was proceeding south on Douglas when in collision with a car driven north on Douglas and turning left on Speed by Robert B. Littlefair, 607 Speed. Accident occurred at about 7:35 p.m.

Garry Dahlgren, 17, 818 Douglas, received abrasions and an ankle injury when a car crashed into a hedge and tree at Ross Bay Cemetery.

Police said Dahlgren was driving east on Fairfield at about 12:10 a.m. Sunday when the car mounted a curb, tore out about 40 feet of hedge and knocked down a tree at the cemetery.

New Labor Group Free of Politics

Compromise Plan Devised; Direct Tie With Any Party Ruled Out

By JOHN LE BLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Militant CCF backers in the Canadian Congress of Labor Sunday agreed to a compromise plan of political action in the new Canadian Labor Congress, apparently averting a fight over politics at the CLC's founding convention here this week.

The plan was worked out by prospective leaders of the new congress last week as middle ground between supporters and opponents of aligning the 1,000,000-member CLC directly with the socialist party.

An announcement after a closed meeting of about 180 CCF supporters indicated national CCF leader M. J. Coldwell is willing to accept the middle-of-the-road position despite the strong support his organization has received from the CCL in the past.

Mr. Coldwell was quoted as saying at the meeting he has "every confidence in any decision the new organization might make with regard to political activity at its convention," which will merge the CCL and the politically neutral Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Members of the CCF will continue to support labor's position in Parliament regardless of what stand the CLC convention takes, Mr. Coldwell said.

COMPROMISE PLAN

The compromise scheme was drafted at closed-door meetings of the TLC-CLC groups in the last few days when it became evident the original idea of having the merged congress maintain strict neutrality for the first two years of its existence would run into stiff opposition at the convention.

Registration of delegates for the convention up to Sunday night is about 1,600. Of these, informants said, more than 900 are from the pro-CCF congress, leaving the neutral TLC's group in the minority.

While the saw-off plan has not been announced, it was learned it contains these main elements:

1. Activities of the new CLC's political education committee will be stepped up beyond the level originally contemplated by the CCL-TLC unity committee that drafted the merger agreement.
2. The committee will be empowered to encourage individual trade unions and other CLC affiliates to engage in the political actions of their choice.
3. The committee will be authorized to open consultations with any groups—with the CCF specifically mentioned—committed to supporting the legislative policies of the congress. It could do this with any other political parties.

At a press conference late Sunday in advance of today's opening of the merger convention, TLC president Claude Jodoin avoided questions on the political issue.

UP TO DELEGATES

"The convention delegates will decide the matter of political action," said Jodoin, who is scheduled to become the first president of the enlarged congress.

The compromise plan is aimed at avoiding a split in the congress for the first two years of its existence. At its second convention, in 1958, with the CLC presumably solidly on its feet, the way would be thrown open for any kind of political action.

Lloyd Fell, chairman of the national political action committee of the CCL, went along with this idea at Sunday's meeting of CCF adherents. The committee is the CCL's agency that works actively for the socialists.

Safety Organizer To Address Chemainus Meet

CHEMAINUS — Lawrence Beachamp, organizer and chairman of the community-wide safety program carried out in Camas, Washington, and known as "Safety Unlimited," will be guest speaker at a public safety meeting to be held in the Legion Hall on Tuesday, May 1.

Mr. Beachamp, fire chief at Camas, organized "Safety Unlimited" five years ago and has been instrumental in helping to set up similar community programs throughout the north west. He was recently presented with the Governor's Safety Award, given annually to the person in Washington who has done the most to promote the interests of safety.

The safety meeting is being sponsored by MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd., Chemainus Division, on behalf of the recently formed Chemainus Safety Council.

DOUBLED SIZE IN TEN YEARS?

TORONTO (CP)—Leaders of the new Canadian Labor Congress hope its membership will be doubled in 10 years, its president-to-be said Sunday.

Claude Jodoin, head of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and scheduled to become CLC president at its founding convention here this week, expressed the view at a pre-convention press conference.

The new congress, to be formed out of a merger of the TLC and the Canadian Congress of Labor, will start off with about 1,000,000 members. This is about one-fifth Canada's labor force.

President Jodoin said at his press conference that the question of political action will be the first item of business taken up by the CLC convention after it adopts its first constitution. It will probably come Wednesday morning.

Irish Wake for TLC Recalls Founder

TORONTO (CP)—It was an Irish wake at the passing of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada Saturday.

And it was one that would not have displeased Dan O'Donoghue, the hard-bitten Irish immigrant printer who laid the groundwork for the 83-year-old congress in this same city back in the 1870s.

The 550 delegates attending a two-hour special TLC convention unanimously voted the historic congress into the shadows of the labor movement with some backward looks but mainly with eyes on the future for the TLC's part in the new 1,000,000-member congress.

Saturday's special convention, on the eve of the founding convention of the merged congress, had to be called to clean up some legal points, including authorization for the transfer of the TLC's $253,000 in assets to the amalgamated body. This was done promptly.

The red-whiskered Irish Dan set up the beginnings of the Canadian Labor movement in a chilly Toronto hall with a few rough adherents huddling around a pot-bellied stove. His successor as the top leader in Canadian labor—TLC President Claude Jodoin—told Saturday's convention that there is no mystery about the decision of the TLC to amalgamate with the rival CCL.

"Capital and management," he said, "have been consolidating into stronger and stronger financial positions in order to meet the tremendous responsibilities of the immediate and longer future."

"We must unite our energies and efforts to meet this same challenge and to gain what is the rightful share of members."

ALBERTA FLOOD WRECKS BIG DAM'S SPILLWAY

EDMONTON (CP)—Rampaging waters of the Battle River Sunday washed away the concrete and steel spillway of an unfinished $7,000,000 power dam 10 miles south of Forestburg, Alta., and raised a threat to several bridges. Many acres of farmland were inundated.

The spillway gave way as the river rose to its highest level since 1948.

Damage to the Forestburg dam, 130 miles south-east of Edmonton, was estimated at more than $250,000. The power dam was due to open Sept. 4.

AERIAL VIEW OF FLOODS

By BOB METCALFE

WINNIPEG (CP)—From 1,000 feet, the 30 miles between Headingley and Portage la Prairie appeared today as a huge lake studded with black fields, farm buildings and ribbons of roads and rails.

MANITOBA

Ice jam on Assiniboine River breaks dike near Portage la Prairie, increased flood threat to town of Oakville. Army studies call for aerial bombing to break pile-up. At Winnipeg work speeded to strengthen dikes. Residents of low-lying areas begin evacuating homes. Preparations were made for evacuating 200 boys from St. John's-Ravenscourt school at Fort Garry. Traffic impeded in southern Manitoba where bridges are weakening under thrust of run-off water.

ALBERTA

Vermilion River swept over four bridges in the Mannville area, 75 miles east of Edmonton. Some 250 children were ferried from district farms Sunday and billeted in Mannville. At Vegreville life was returning to normal as waters receded after cutting off the town's hospital.

SASKATCHEWAN

Flood-fighters at Lumsden appeared to be winning their four-day battle to keep the Qu'Appelle River from invading the town 25 miles north-west of Regina. At Tantallon residents were preparing to leave their homes. The river there rose three inches during the weekend.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Melting snow sparks torrents in Rockies, trigger slides and washouts. Eight CPR trains stalled 16 hours near Revelstoke until late Sunday. Trans-Canada Highway blocked by washout near Sicamous. Northern trans-provincial road under water 20 miles east of Burns Lake.

Catholics May Join Merged Labor

TORONTO (CP)—With a union-splitting political donnybrook apparently averted by the strategic back-room work, the Canadian Labor Congress today embarked on its founding convention aimed at uniting 1,000,000 workers.

The week-long sessions of the convention, the largest labor meeting of its kind in Canadian history, will wed the 600,000 members of the historic Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the 400,000 of the younger Canadian Congress of Labor.

And even before the merger became effective, there were weekend indications here that it could possibly be swelled by the 100,000 membership of Quebec's Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor.

TLC president Claude Jodoin—who will become first head of the enlarged congress this week—told a Sunday press conference preliminary discussions with leaders of the French-speaking group have been started with an eye to amalgamation.

Reds Test Air H-Bomb Irate Khrushchev Warns

Soon Will Have Nuclear Missiles To Hit All World

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (AP)—Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev boasted today Russia soon will have guided missiles with H-bomb warheads which could "hit every point in the world." Khrushchev made this statement in warning those who jeered: "Never shake your fist at a Russian."

Khrushchev disclosed, too, that the Russians have already exploded an H-bomb from a plane. He claimed the Soviet Union was first to do this.

Speaking in Russian without notes at a luncheon, he showed he was nettled by booing crowds who met him and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin here on the sixth day of their 10-day visit to Britain.

The full impact of Khrushchev's people shaking fists at him and words seemed lost in the bustle of the luncheon, but an official translation by the Soviet news vivid account of Soviet strength.

Claims U.S. Falls Behind Soviet

Referring to the H-bomb explosion from a plane, he said: "The Americans are only intending to do that. Their previous explosion was not a hydrogen bomb but only a hydrogen installation."

Khrushchev made the statement during an attack on the Western embargo of strategic goods to Russia.

"In spite of all that, you do not want to trade with us," he added. "The point I want to make is that these restrictions on trade do not prevent us in any way making advances in armaments. Therefore it is quite unreasonable."

The Communist party leader said that "only the development of wide-scale trade can smooth the road to really strong friendship" between Britain and Russia.

With a grin, he said Anglo-Soviet trade could hardly flourish when it is based on Russian crab exports in exchange for British herring "although your herrings are wonder-

'Never Shake Fist at Russian'

"I would remind the man with the fist that attempts have been made previously to speak to us in that manner. Never shake your fist at a Russian."

"Hitler tried to attack us with a clenched fist and now he is in his grave."

"Is it not time that we became more intelligent and not shake our fists at each other? We have come here not to create hostility. We have come on a friendly visit to Sir Anthony's Eden's invitation, and we are most grateful to him for that invitation."

The Russians' departure this morning from their headquarters at London's swank Claridge's Hotel was delayed for two hours at their request. After four days of intensive talks with British government leaders and numerous public appearances, aides said they were "feeling the strain of their work and are very tired."

Foot-High Insult Smeared Over

They missed one greeting their official hosts hadn't counted on. Police at daybreak discovered this foot-high sign in yellow paint on the castle walls: "Keep the murderers out!—Don't entertain murderers!" A coat of grey paint was hurriedly applied.

No details of the conversation between the Royal Family and the Communist visitors were revealed. After tea, the visitors made a quick tour of the ancient castle, which commands the head of the Thames River valley.

While the visitors devoted today to public appearances, diplomats of the two countries delved further into the Middle East situation and other East-West problems. Sir

RUSSIAN LEADERS WAVE TO JEERS, CHEERS

Waving his hand in a gesture of friendship, Nikita Khrushchev, Communist Party chief, is pictured here through the window of an automobile on the streets of London. Seated beside him is Russian premier, Nikolai Bulganin. Boos were mixed with cheers on several occasions during the pair's visit to Britain, now in its sixth day. ## Metchosin Girl Badly Bitten By Raccoon

A three-year-old girl was attacked and severely bitten by an enraged raccoon in the Latoria Road, Metchosin area, this morning.

Donna Klatt, Latoria Road, was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital shortly after noon for severe bites to her left hand and ear.

It was the second attack by a raccoon in that area since last Wednesday when three members of one family were bitten by a "pet" raccoon.

The raccoon had been a pet of Mrs. Flewin, Glen Lake. It went on a rampage last Wednesday, sending Mrs. Flewin, a son, James, 9, and daughter, Sherry, 3, to hospital.

It was reported the attacking raccoon this morning was beaten off by an unidentified man when he saw the little girl on the ground, and the raccoon chewing on her hand and ear.

It is believed to be the same animal.

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain will spend nearly £1,000,000,000 in the next 10 years on reconstructing her coal industry, the national coal board announced today.

MANSFIELD, Conn. (UP)—An 11-year-old boy told psychiatrists today how he killed his mother, his father and his brother with a single-shot rifle in revenge for spankings.

Robert A. Curgenven, who wears glasses because of defective vision in his right eye, wiped out the entire farm family Saturday with seven shots from a single-action .22 calibre rifle.

He ate a meal of frankfurters and beans and slept the night soundly before he confessed the slayings Sunday to a neighboring farmer.

"I planned this deal for a week," the boy told police. "My parents had spanked me. I planned to kill them."

He had told two schoolmates they could have his 25 pet chickens if he didn't come to school today.

Closer Ties for NATO Dulles' Recipe for Unity

NEW YORK (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the United States is ready to join western European democracies in "exploring the possibilities" of converting the North Atlantic Treaty Organization into a closer union of free nations.

In a major policy address, Dulles said "the time has come to advance NATO" from its initial phase as a mutual defence pact "into the totality of its meaning."

Dulles did not spell out in detail his ideas on a closer union. But he indicated that he was thinking in terms of greater economic and political co-operation.

Implementation of Article Two of the NATO charter, calling for closer economic, political and cultural co-operation, has been asked repeatedly by Canada's External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson.

Dulles made clear, however, that the United States does not envision complete federation of the NATO powers, but rather a system in which each nation would preserve a considerable measure of independence in foreign affairs as well as in its domestic affairs.

"The historic weakness of the West has been its disunity," Dulles asserted in his speech before the annual Associated Press luncheon held in connection with the American Newspaper Publishers Association meeting.

"A major task of postwar statesmanship was to find ways whereby the West can maintain its solidarity. Much has been done. But more can still be done."

"The peoples who make up the Atlantic community ought, in increased unity, to resume their greatness."

"The North Atlantic Treaty already serves as an indispensable and vital instrument of the Atlantic community. But the time has come to consider whether its organization does not need to be further developed, if it is adequately to serve the needs of this and coming generations."

"If that be the common desire of the NATO member nations, the United States will join eagerly in exploring the possibilities which now beckon us forward."

parts of the farm, "so they wouldn't gang up on me." He said he fired the shots from the rifle, reloading each time with a supply of bullets he carried in his teeth.

At the Storrs Grammar school where Robert was in the Fifth Grade, he was described as a bright pupil who received mostly "A" and "B" grades.

Police said after questioning Robert that he appeared to be "an average, normal, healthy boy."

WIRE BRIEFS

Eden Bid to Moscow

LONDON (AP)—Premier Nikolai Bulganin has invited Prime Minister Eden to pay a return visit to Russia as soon as he can find the time, a diplomatic official reported tonight.

Holocaust in Japan

FUKUOKA, Japan (AP)—Some 4,000 persons lost their homes today in a fire which destroyed 600 of 2,700 houses in the town of Awaramachi, 11 miles north of here. One person was killed.

Roper Quits

EDMONTON (CP)—Elmer E. Roper, 63-year-old provincial leader of the CCF party for the last 13 years, announced today he is withdrawing from that post and will not accept nomination when the provincial convention is held here June 22-23.

Ban Jim Crow Buses

Lost His Job, Too

CHICAGO (AP)—A bus driver who police said pistol-whipped and shot at a passenger who didn't have the exact fare has been charged with intent to kill.

(The Chicago Transit Authority also fired the driver, Herman Lewis, 35.)

Greeks Kill 2 Turks in Cyprus Riot

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Two Turkish Cypriots were killed today as this capital city of troubled Cyprus burst out in a wave of shooting and violence between Greeks and Turks.

A band of young club-wielding Turks marched through the narrow streets smashing Greek store windows and hurling stones at a Greek crowd.

One of the shooting victims was a Turkish police constable, slain as he chased a fleeing gunman.

The other was shot to death in a tobacco factory two hours later after British troops cordoned off the heart of the city.

Bookmaking Network Said Centered Here

Police in Everett, Wash., said today Victoria is the hub for an international bookmaking network.

Chief Deputy Bill Williamson said a direct telephone line to Victoria was uncovered following a raid Saturday on a back room of the El Rancho night club.

E. A. Peterson, 67, was charged with illegal possession of gambling equipment.

The deputy told the Times today: "I'm still working on an angle here, but when I questioned Peterson, he told me Victoria was the hub of a huge bookmaking network."

He was in touch by telephone at noon today with Police Chief John Blackstock. Chief Blackstock said a fuller report will be made when all the facts in the case have been assembled in Everett.

District commercial manager of the B.C. Telephone Co., J. A. Mackintosh, said: "I don't know of any leased lines we have with the United States. We have none to my knowledge."

Police chiefs in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt were emphatic no organized bookmaking existed in their municipalities.

Two years ago there were similar reports about racing information from here going to the U.S. but nothing was ever discovered.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O LORD help us to use good temper, courage and kindness today that others will find it easier to believe in Thee; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

monopolies are suffering defeat," the Soviet Communist party organ declares in an editorial. "The weakening of her economic position was bound to tell on Britain's political influence in this area."

"We recall these facts not in order to drive a wedge between the United States and Britain but merely to show how groundless is the talk of some British papers about Soviet intrigues in the Near and Middle East."

INVITES TRIPS TO RUSSIA

Also involved in the Russian-British discussions are East-West differences on how to achieve disarmament and ways to remove trade, cultural and tourist barriers between Britain and the Soviet Union.

Bulgarian told a reception at the London County Council Sunday night that Russia will "welcome visits to Moscow and other parts of our country by people from London or any other part of Britain." Many parts of the Soviet Union now are closed to foreigners, and Moscow generally has chosen carefully when issuing entry visas.

Members of Bulgarian's audience, including aldermen, sheriffs and borough mayors, suggested there might be more visits if a more realistic ruble exchange rate were adopted.

"We are looking into this matter and hope to do something about it," Bulgarian said.

Russia arbitrarily pegs the ruble at four to the dollar and slightly under a dozen to the pound sterling ($2.80). Its purchasing rate for visitors at these rates is so low that the cost of touring Russia reaches fantastic heights. On free money markets in the West, the ruble sells at about 10 to the dollar, but import of these "black market" rubles into Russia is forbidden.

JEERED BY 300

At Birmingham jeering demonstrators with "Down with Moscow" banners heckled Bulgarian and Kruschev during their whirlwind tour of the Midlands industrial centre.

The derisive greeting for the Kremlin leaders came as Prime Minister Eden's chief lieutenant said their talks in London will prove valuable.

"If we can judge from the talks up to date, and if deeds follow words, then we can say already that the visit has been well worthwhile," R. A. Butler, leader of the House of Commons, said in opening the British Industries Fair in London.

A crowd of about 300 gave the Russian leaders a hostile reception outside Birmingham's city hall where they were received after a flight from London.

Big banners in Russian and English urged Bulgarian and Khrushchev to "Go Back to Moscow."

One group carried a large pennant "Keep Communism Out." Others read: "We Ask Freedom for Latvia." "Down with Moscow Imperialism." A giant banner in Ukrainian proclaimed "For an independent Ukraine."

MOST HOSTILE RECEPTION

There were jeers and catcalls for the Russian leaders all along the nine-mile drive from the airport to the city centre.

It was the most hostile reception the Kremlin chieftains have received since they arrived in Britain six days ago for a 10-day visit. Thousands of exiled East Europeans live in the Birmingham area.

The Russians' itinerary for the rest of the day included a visit to the Midlands section of the industrial fair, a flight to the East Anglia RAF base at Marham, and finally a flight back to London for dinner at the House of Commons. Before their takeoff from London, Bulgarian and Khrushchev paused briefly at London airport to look over Britain's new Bristol Britannia, a four-engine turbo-prop plane designed to carry 120 passengers.

Famed Writer Shapiro Says More Canadian Reporters Needed Abroad

TORONTO (CP)—Author-reporter Lionel Shapiro of Montreal said Saturday that Canadian newspaper publishers ought to maintain more Canadian reporters abroad.

Writer of the best-selling The Sixth of June, soon to appear as a motion picture, and himself a veteran war and foreign correspondent, Mr. Shapiro addressed the Toronto Men's Press Club's annual dinner.

Mr. Shapiro said Canada has become the "wonder nation of the mid-20th century." Her accomplishments during the Second World War were the foundation for the "most vividly spectacular growth in modern economic history."

Mr. Shapiro said Canada has become the "wonder nation of the mid-20th century." Her accomplishments during the Second World War were the foundation for the "most vividly spectacular growth in modern economic history."

Among radio reporters the CBC's Matt Halton "was right at the top of the heap."

"The war produced no more eloquent copy than the dispatches of Ralph Allen, then of the Globe and Mail, now editor of Maclean's Magazine and of Fred Griffin and Greg Clark of the Toronto Star."

Mr. Griffin died shortly after the war, while Mr. Clark now is associate editor of Weekend Magazine.

"And in the field of press facilities we produced two men recognized in every press camp, British, American or Canadian, as the best in the war—Dick Malone and Eric Gibbs."

Brig. Malone now is publisher of the Winnipeg Free Press, while Col. Gibbs, who died at Geneva in

May, 1954, headed several Time and Life magazine bureaus after the war.

As urgent a situation confronted publishers today.

The Western world was bleeding and handicapped by "second-class leadership."

President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles of the United States, Prime Minister Eden and Foreign Secretary Lloyd of Great Britain, and Premier Guy Mollet and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau of France, Mr. Shapiro said, are "men who lack the backbone and the vision to lead our world."

"With the world striking fire in the Far East, in Southeast Asia, the Middle East, in North Africa and Western Europe itself, these men represent the Big Three which, alas, is turning out to be the Very Small Three."

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Singer Perry Como plays a song written by Irwin Luck (right), during a meeting at Como's New York office. Luck, an 18-year-old student from Miami, Fla., paid $850 to rent a huge billboard sign in the heart of Times Square to call Como's attention to his song-writing abilities. The advertising paid off and Luck was given a chance to show his wares to the famous entertainer.

Poland to Release 30,000 by Amnesty

LONDON (Reuters) — Communist Poland will release 30,000 prisoners immediately by amnesty under a new draft law and will reduce the sentences on 70,000 others, Warsaw radio said Sunday.

The radio said the draft was discussed by legal and administrative committees of the Polish parliament Sunday.

For the first time since the Second World War political crimes will be pardoned altogether or in some cases the terms of punishment mitigated, the radio said.

Spies and terrorists will have their sentences reduced while people who indulged in subversive propaganda, crossed illegally the state frontier or did not fulfill the duty of denouncing a criminal will be pardoned and reference to their punishment will be eliminated from their files.

SENTENCES QUASHED
Five-year sentences will be quashed, 10-year sentences reduced by half, and higher sentences reduced by a third.

Life imprisonment will be reduced to 12 years while a death sentence will be commuted to 15 years' imprisonment.

Under the chapter of common crimes, the draft law provides for pardon of offences punishable by two years' imprisonment such as infringements of Labor Discipline Laws, Women guilty of such offences will have sentences up to three years' imprisonment quashed.

Crimes committed by an emigre will be pardoned if he returns to Poland before July 22, Polish National Day. Under this chapter crimes of "helping the fasciation of political life in pre-war Poland are included."

How to keep your business in the family

If you are the owner of, or have an interest in a privately-owned business, there will be many problems which your executors will be called upon to face when it comes to settling your estate. Perhaps you plan to perpetuate your business in the family—you may be training your sons to take over your responsibilities.

Have you considered the amount of succession duties payable on your estate? The duties will depend on the "value" placed upon the business by Succession Duty Authorities.

Montreal Trust Company is convinced that intelligent estate planning accomplishes more for the owner of a private business than for anyone else. The prudent owner of a family business will take steps during his lifetime to meet his particular problem.

We have published a booklet, suggesting "HOW TO KEEP YOUR BUSINESS IN THE FAMILY" and will be pleased to send you a copy upon request.

Island VIPs Promise to Attend 'Bury-the-Hatchet' Ceremony

DUNCAN—A special committee of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce has completed details of "hatchet burying" to be held here Wednesday.

The ceremony will symbolize the end of "strife" between Victoria and Nanaimo, and the spirit of co-operation to be observed by all Island centres.

Mayor Dobson will officiate at the rites and the local chamber will provide the hatchet which will be buried by Mayor Percy Scourah of Victoria and Nanaimo's Mayor Earl Westwood.

The city of Duncan will also provide the tombstone under which the emblematic hatchet will be entombed on the grounds adjoining the chamber's tourist information office on the Trans-Canada highway at Coronation Avenue.

Invited to the ceremony are Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Chetwynd, all Vancouver Island MPs and MLAs, the mayors of all Island cities, mayors of municipalities and chairmen of village commissions, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, Magistrate A. C. Sutton, Sgt. T. D. Brunton of Duncan's RCMP, deputy ministers of trade and commerce and municipal affairs, and presidents of all Island chambers of commerce.

LUNCHEON
This company will attend a "no-host" luncheon in the Emerald Room of the Tzouhalem Hotel at 12.30, with Maj. Gen. C. A. P. Murison, reeve of North Cowichan municipality and president of the Vancouver Island Municipal Association, presiding.

Speakers at the luncheon are to be Mayor Dobson, Mayor Scourah and Mayor Westwood, who are expected to outline

The Dream

THE other day, in a hurry, I dashed into a cash-and-carry grocery store and bought a TV Dinner.

Curiosity made me do it. And curiosity almost killed the cat, because that night I had a fearful dream.

I dreamed that I was in a North American city, a city that looked much like any other city. It had few, if any, historic landmarks. It was dedicated to speed and progress and getting bigger and bigger.

In my dream, I watched a procession of bright, oversized cars parking outside the chain store that looked exactly like the chain stores you find in any North American city.

Ruth

I watched them staggering out through a magic door that opened of its own accord. I watched a young couple racing home in their bright, not-yet-paid-for car, and rushing into the tiny kitchen of their bright, not-yet-paid-for house.

I saw the mother thrust the dinners, still wrapped in tinfoil, into the oven of her huge, expensive, not-yet-paid-for electric stove.

I saw the children standing around and nagging at her to hurry or they'd be late for their favorite television show.

I saw her thrust the tinfoil platters at them.

I saw them all rush into the living room where the bloated-spider body of the television set stood on its spindly, splayed-out legs.

I saw them squatting on their crouching stools, and absent-mindedly stuffing food into their mouths as they gazed, entranced, at the enormous Polyphemus eye.

And then I woke up in a cold sweat and realized that the whole thing was just an awful dream.

Because North Americans aren't driving in cars that are too ostentatious, too powerful, too vulgar and too bright.

They aren't driving cars they haven't paid for.

They aren't living in houses of which, actually, they barely own the basement.

They aren't really buying television sets with money that should, more sensibly, be spent on food healthy, home-cooked food.

They aren't all really watching the same programs from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Arctic to the Gulf of Mexico.

They don't really have living rooms in which the television set is the focal point, and all the chairs face towards it like Moslems turning to Mecca at a given hour.

Women haven't really grown so lazy and so primitive that they serve pre-cooked food on tin dishes that can be thrown away after eating.

Human beings aren't really snarling when a friend drops in and drags them away from their worship of the new one-eyed god, the television set.

They aren't really sitting watching television major operations so that they can dwell on all the grisly details afterwards and wonder whether they, too, have the same disease.

In this day of universal education and enlightened progress, North Americans aren't doing any of these things.

YOUR HEALTH

Polyps in the Intestine

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine Mayo Foundation.

Many elderly persons are much worried when a roentgenologic study of the colon or large bowel shows the presence of polyps. These are little tumors often as big as the end of a finger and looking much like a blackish mushroom with a top and a stem. Most of them are potentially malignant, which means that eventually cancer can arise in them. Fortunately, it arises in the top and not around the stem of the polyp. This peculiarity is reassuring when, for one reason or another, it is inadvisable to operate immediately. It means that there is more time in which an X-ray man can watch the polyp to see if it is going to grow.

Dr. Alvarez

Usually, these polyps produce no symptoms. They are discovered accidentally when the large bowel happens to be X-rayed. Very rarely a big polyp will be on the end of a long thin neck, and then the bowel will pull on it and try to pass it as it would pass a little lump of feces. Then there may be cramps and a feeling as if the bowel wanted to move; then there may be a little blood in the feces. Once in my medical life a patient sent me a polyp as big as a banana which his bowel had pulled off and passed.

I have reason to believe that usually these little black polyps grow very slowly, if at all. In many cases they never become cancerous. I know this because I have seen so many at autopsy on persons who died of something else. I was much interested once on seeing a polyp in the large bowel of a healthy boy of 14 who had been killed in an auto accident. Since I have very rarely seen a case of cancer of the colon in a person under the age of 28, I strongly suspected that if this boy had lived, his polyp would have lain dormant for at least 14 years.

OPERATION POSTPONED

I remember, also, an elderly woman in whose colon there had been found three large polyps. Because at the time she was mentally disturbed, I did not want her operated on, and so I just had the polyps looked at every six months. The woman lived several years, during which time the polyps did not show any tendency to grow. Eventually she died of some other illness.

Fortunately, polyps in the rectum and sometimes even in the sigmoid flexure just above the rectum can be destroyed by a proctologist. Working through an electrically-lighted tube he can cauterize (burn up or dry up) the polyps with the help of very hot electric sparks.

Certainly, polyps, when discovered, should not be forgotten and neglected. They should often be removed surgically, but when the patient is old or feeble or in poor shape for an operation, his physician will be justified in watching with the X-rays for months or years to see if the little tumors show any tendency to grow.

PREMATURE INFANTS

Recently, Dr. Ethel C. Dunham got out a second edition of her 450-page book on Premature Infants (Hoebner Harper). The subject is tremendously important because in the United States, about half of the total deaths that come in the first month of life and more than a third of all deaths that occur in the first year of life, are due to the premature birth of the child. Premature birth is one of the 10 leading causes of death among the whole population.

Naturally, the first problem is, what to do to help the mother to carry her infant to term, and the second is, what to do to keep a two or three-pound baby alive after he or she is born.

Today, the city health department that would like to lower its infant death-rate must grapple with these problems of premature birth. There are some mothers, many of them frail and underprivileged who keep losing one premature child after another. Unfortunately, too little is known about the causes of premature birth, and too little is known about what can be done to help a mother to carry her child to term. Oftentimes, the infant is born with a number of physical imperfections that make it impossible for it to live. The older the mother is, between the ages of 43 and 50, the more likely she is to bear a child who cannot live.

One great difficulty with the premature infant is that its tissues are so delicate. They cannot stand up to the strains of life. Many premature children, also, have lungs which are defective, and cannot aerate the blood. For a while, it was thought that the answer to many of the problems was to keep the premature infant in an atmosphere rich in oxygen, but soon it was found that this can cause hopeless blindness. Fortunately, today, health officers, obstetricians and pediatricians are grappling with the problems of premature birth.

RADAR SPEED CHECKING UPHELD IN TEST CASE

First court trial involving radar speed checking equipment on Vancouver Island brought a conviction Saturday in Sidney RCMP court.

Leslie V. Dawkins, 1544 Richmond, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of exceeding a 50 m.p.h. speed limit and argued the possibility of an error in the radar unit, was fined $10 and $10 costs.

Physicist Dr. Andrew Hill, called as a prosecution witness, said he had examined the radar unit and in his opinion sufficient allowance for error would be two miles per hour.

Dawkins was clocked at 60 m.p.h., RCMP officers testified.

Tiny Organist Awes Big City Audience

By LANCE H. WHITTAKER

The final group of numbers, Claire Coci is an organist... and Victoria's considerable group of excellent exponents of that instrument sat enraptured for two hours in Metropolitan United Church Saturday night.

The remainder of the large audience, the generally uninitiated, was by turns awed, startled, stirred and stunned as the great collection of pipes alternately whispered and hammered at them as it seldom, if ever, whispered and hammered before.

The diminutive organist of the New York Philharmonic served ample notice of her virtuosity. Her first number was Bach's celebrated Passacaglia and Fugue in C Minor, a monumental work of typical Bach complexity. The range and power of the Passacaglia is a test of instrument and artist. Both came through with flying colors.

SHOWS EQUALITY

In many other instrumental fields it is frequently argued that feminine artists, no matter how sensitive their interpretation, lack the force of a masculine performance simply because no woman has the physical frame to do full justice to forte passages. Whatever the merits of that argument, Miss Coci demonstrated the equality of women at the organ, where power is a matter of mechanics. The great organ literally jumped to her bidding and she obviously loved every minute of it.

The program was a heavy one, holding close to the standard of the first Bach number, and included a Brahms chorale, Fantasie and Fugue by Mozart, and Sonata on the 94th Psalm, a work by Julius Reubke, whose death at 24 cut short a career of genius.

In lighter vein, although requiring consummate finger dexterity, was August Mackelburghe's Flandria, still in manuscript form and dedicated to Miss Coci.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

DISTRICT NOTES — The rehearsal for the Scouterama was held on Sunday afternoon at the Memorial Arena, some 1,500 scouts, scouts and leaders taking over the weekend. From there they hiked to Snowmass Pass camp and took part in a scout potluck there with the Seattle scouts. The troop returned Sunday evening.

DEEP COVE TROOP is planning a trip to the Calgary Stampede this summer, camping out on the trip. Scouters Jim Redwood and Jim Redwood will be in charge of the boys.

THIRD VICTORIA TROOP — At the last meeting the troop put in a good conservation stunt by rolling newspapers and tying them. They will be sold to help defray expenses for camping this summer.

The pleasant easy chewing helps you stop when you're ready to blow your top!

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books? Then ask Andy!

Andy, who is a nice, old person, will answer two questions daily submitted by child readers of Canada and the U.S. Children who submit the questions to Andy will receive as prize, for the main question, either a 16-volume set of "The Children's Hour" or a 20-volume set of "The American People's Encyclopedia." Prizes for the secondary question will be an "American People's Encyclopedia Year Book" or a year's subscription to "Treasure Trail" plus "Andy's Everyday Encyclopedia."

Address your questions to "Ask Andy" Victoria Daily Times, Victoria.

Andy sends a complete, 16-volume set of "The Children's Hour" to Kathie Klein, aged nine, of San Francisco, Calif., for her question:

What Are Polliwogs?

Meantime the front legs are growing under the skin where you cannot see them. When ready, they pop out one at a time. The next changes are harder to see. The polliwogs are growing lungs. Every now and then they come up for a gulp of air. During these changes they may go off their food. Don't worry. They are living on the food stored in their tails. The tails waste away and disappear.

Now you have a batch of miniature frogs. The time has come when they need a larger home. They need to enjoy life on land and in the water. Chances are, you will want to return all or most of them to their native pond or stream and set them free.

These were lucky polliwogs. Without your help, only one or two of them would have grown up. Some would have been devoured as they clung helplessly after hatching. Others would have been gobbled up by their enemies as they started polliwogging in the water. The polliwogs you helped to live, however, will grow up to help keep down the pesky fly population.

Andy sends an American People's Encyclopedia Yearbook to Dolores Jean Bucca, 12, of Loudonville, N.Y., for her question:

What is pig iron?

Pig iron is the metal that runs out from a smelting furnace. Iron ore is shoveled into this furnace along with quantities of limestone and coke. The mixture is heated to a very high temperature. It melts and the molten substances react upon each other. Waste materials float to the top of the brew. Molten iron sinks to the bottom.

At the proper time, the molten iron is run off from the bottom of the furnace. In the early method of smelting this iron was run into a row of small troughs. Lined up, waiting for their fill, these troughs reminded the iron workers of a row of little pigs. They looked for all the world like a family of piglets lined up alongside polliwogs become teen-agers. Mama Pig waiting for lunch.

Robin on His Way; Yanks Chill Bosox

Braves Hold NL Lead

Robin Roberts to win 20 games is as close to a sure thing as you get in baseball. After one week of the 1956 season Mr. Roberts has a head start toward a seventh straight year in the select circle.

The ace of the Philadelphia Phillies needed a tight effort to beat Johnny Antonelli's three-hitter in Sunday's first game at Philadelphia. Roberts gave New York Giants five hits but Antonelli threw one bad pitch—a three-run homer by Ted Kazanski—and the Phils won 3-1. It left Robin with a clean 2-0 slate so far this season.

The Giants climbed on Curt Simmons, making his first start, and batted out a 9-7 edge in the second game. It was a disappointing effort by Simmons, who is trying to make a comeback after a season of arm trouble. Willie Mays hit a three-run homer off reliever Bob Miller in the ninth.

NEWCOMBE'S 3-HITTER

Don Newcombe got on the beam with a three-hitter as Brooklyn downed Pittsburgh 4-1 in a game halted by rain in the seventh. Milwaukee remained in the National League lead by slugging St. Louis 13-5 in the second game after St. Louis took the first 10-4 on an eight-run sixth-inning.

Homers by Ernie Banks, Monte Irvin and Solly Drake gave Chicago Cubs a 5-4 decision over Cincinnati. Their second game was called by darkness, a 1-1 tie after seven innings.

New York Yankees cooled off Boston Red Sox, taking three in a row at Yankee Stadium to tighten their grip on the American League lead. Five Red Sox errors and homers by Don Larsen, Yogi Berra and Joe Collins added up to a 13-6 Yankee victory.

Billy Pierce of Chicago White Sox shut out Kansas City with three hits, 3-0.

Two homers by Detroit's Al Kaline helped account for a first game victory over Cleveland 6-4, but Bob Lemon went the route for the first time since last May 30 to give the Tribe an even break with a 5-2 verdict in the nightcap. Rookie Fred Besana topped Washington in Baltimore's 7-3 opening victory, but Camilo Pascual earned a split for Washington with a 4-1 four-hitter in the second.

Head Man's Victory on Foul Gives Whitney One-Two Punch

NEW YORK (AP)—Head Man, his perfect three-year-old record still intact thanks to a successful foul claim, entrains for Louisville today where he'll join Career Boy to give C. V. Whitney a powerful one-two punch in the May 5 running of the $125,000 Kentucky Derby.

The stretch-running roan, son of Eight Thirty, was beaten 2½ lengths by Golf Ace, a non-Derby eligible, in the 1½-mile $61,000 Wood Memorial at Jamaica Saturday.

But almost before the last of the field of eight three-year-olds had finished the race, Eddie Arcaro lodged a claim of foul against Tony Desprito, who was up on Golf Ace from the Winding Way farm. He claimed Golf

Ace carried Head Man wide as the Whitney colt made his bid for the lead an eighth of a mile from home.

After looking at the pictures and deliberating for 10 minutes, the stewards agreed with Eddie. So Arcaro will go after his sixth Kentucky Derby triumph aboard a colt who has won all three starts this year and seems to be improving with each outing. The time for the Wood was 1:50.15, only one-fifth of a second slower than Correlation's stake record.

Head Man was the only eligible horse who showed enough in either the Wood or Laurel's Chesapeake stakes—a mile and one-sixteenth race for three-year-olds—to rate a trip to Derbytown.

In the 1956 Mobilgas 1,468-mile Economy Run CHEVROLET secured more miles per gallon than many of the other 8-cylinder cars that finished the test.

NANCY DOES IT AGAIN; RETAINS PADDLE CROWN

Nancy Craig of Victoria won her eighth consecutive western Canada women's table tennis championship Saturday night when she defeated Betty Nicholl, 17-21, 21-15, 21-11, 21-16.

In the men's final, Carl Cole of Portland defeated former Victorian Ed Ngai, 20-22, 21-15, 21-9, 21-15 to annex the western championship.

Cole teamed up with Bob Hage of Portland to defeat Ed and Art Ngai, 13-21, 21-19, 21-10, 17-21, 21-16 and capture the men's doubles championship.

MEET HALECOS SATURDAY

Straths Topple Pils To Gain Cup Final

Victoria Strathconas used Vancouver Pilseners as a stepping stone to stride into the Province Cup final Saturday, winning their semifinal match, 4-2, at Athletic Park.

Willie Hamilton's hustling club pleased a crowd of 800 fans with the merited victory and will meet Vancouver Halecos for the B.C. title.

Halecos scored a 2-1 victory over Firefighters on the mainland Saturday to gain the other final berth and the two clubs will meet in Vancouver next Saturday for the Province Cup.

Straths vaulted into a 2-1 lead at halftime Saturday, wavered momentarily in the second half when Pils rallied to tie the score, but came out on top with two unanswered goals.

DEFENCE STRONG
The Victoria halfback triumvirate of Willie Hamilton, Harold Holroyd and Joe Robbins anchored the solid defensive work of the Victoria club as they held Pilsener attacks in hand and provided goalie Pete Winter with a steady screen of ball-interception.

Strathconas wasted little time against Pils, taking a 1-0 lead in the first two minutes when George Wright moved in quickly and headed home a corner kick from Cedric Robb.

Dangerous Fred Whittaker, Pilsener playing-coach, tied the score five minutes later by turning in his own rebound on a persistent individual effort.

Tommy Druce scored the first of his two goals to provide Strathconas' 2-1 half-time lead, converting a pass from Ken Hibbert.

Pilseners took command long enough to tie the score after 13 minutes of second-half play. Bob Swinton banging in a Whitaker pass to lock the score at 2-2.

But over-anxiousness got Pilseners in trouble and when a Vancouver back was called for deliberate rough play, Hamilton parlayed the opportunity by scoring the tie-breaking goal on the penalty kick.

Again, Pilseners hurt themselves, Strathconas being awarded an indirect free kick for obstruction on the part of Pils and Druce drilled in Hamilton's pass for his second goal and the last of the match.

Strathconas lost the services of hustling Ernie Eastlake when he suffered an ankle injury in the second half.

Suds Lead; Mounties Lose Pair

By The Associated Press

Seattle held first place in the Pacific Coast League today, thanks to home runs by Bob Balceena, Milt Smith and Art Schult.

Balceena and Smith each belted two over the fence as the Rainiers won a doubleheader with San Diego, 8-4 and 7-5. The beatings dropped San Diego from first to fourth place.

For San Diego, Dick Sisler, Floyd Robinson and Harry Elliott cleared the fence in vain.

Sacramento vaulted into second place by beating Vancouver, 4-2 and 7-0. Earl Harritt limited the Mounties to seven blows in the opener and Roger Osenbaugh held them to four in the second. The Solons scored three times in the second game's first inning on a triple by Jerry Streeter, a walk and singles by Ferris Fain, Al Heist and Jerry Priddy. Vancouver is in the cellar.

Ben Wade pitched a one-hitter for Hollywood as the Stars won their second game from Portland, 1-0, after losing the first 5-0. Jim Baxes and Tommy Saffell hit homers for Portland in the first game.

The second game's only run came when Gair Allie singled and went around on a sacrifice and singles by Wade and Joe Duham.

Tom Umphlett hit a single and three straight doubles as San Francisco beat Los Angeles, 9-1, after dropping the opener, 5-3. There were seven double plays in the first game, four by San Francisco.

Y.M.C.A. Swimming Club Sweeps City Titles

Victoria Y.M.C.A. swimmers almost turned the water to steam Saturday night as they scored an overwhelming victory in the city championships gala at Crystal Garden pool.

"Y" swimmers held complete control in all events and stacked up a 203-11 lead in the final point tabulations.

Four Y.M.C.A. swimmers picked up victories in three events, Janie Wheaton, Sally Holland, Stan Cameron and Bruce Warburton.

LINDLEY, MRS. FRASER EMPRESS CHAMPS

Seattle Swingers Win

Coming through like old pros when the occasion demanded, Seattle golfers Ken Lindley and Mrs. Ethel Fraser took men's and women's championship honors Saturday at Victoria Golf Club in the 26th annual Empress Golf Tournament.

Lindley, betrayed by the magic putter that kept him in the tournament all week, and scrambled from the tee, chose the 18th hole to play his best golf of the day and defeat Dave Coons, Vancouver, Wash., 1 up. He hit a 225-yard drive off the tee on the 375-yard 18th, used a seven-iron to put his approach to within four feet of the pin, and rapped the putt home for a birdie three and the match. Coons, whose putting was erratic all day, could do no better than four.

Mrs. Fraser chose the 16th to dispose of Mrs. H. G. MacKenzie of Victoria, 3 and 2. Coming up to the hole two-up she was on the green in three with a near-perfect approach shot, and sank a five-foot putt to win her first championship. Lindley had won previously in 1949.

Flight results follow:

MEN
First flight—Bill McColl, Victoria, defeated Al Olson, Mt. Vernon, 3 and 1.

Second flight—G. A. Mooney, Tacoma, defeated George Goodwin, Victoria, 5 and 4.

Third flight—R. S. Osgood, Pasaden, defeated K. B. Smith, Calgary, 5 and 4.

Fourth flight—A. D. Myers, Tacoma, defeated G. N. Ledger, Victoria, 2 and 1.

Fifth flight—D. C. Clay, Victoria, defeated D. B. MacDonald, Winnipeg, 1 up.

Sixth flight—F. E. Shaffer, Salem, defeated N. A. Atkinson, Vancouver, Wash., 4 and 3.

Seventh flight—R. Friedrich, Seattle, defeated H. Harkness, Victoria, 1 up.

WOMEN
First flight—Mrs. O. W. Smith, Seattle, defeated Mrs. V. S. Godfrey, Victoria, 5 and 3.

Second flight—Mrs. J. H. Graham, Bend, Ore., defeated Mrs. H. Veith, Seattle, 4 and 3.

Mixed foursomes competition—Mrs. and Mr. C. V. H. Bryan, Calgary.

Par competition, men—R. T. Alexander, Vancouver; women—Ann Cooke, Seattle.

JBAA Coach Charges Kats With Rough Play

JBAA rugby team fell before the rough play of Vancouver Kats Saturday at Vancouver, 16-8, in the B.C. senior English rugby Round-up Cup championship final.

"They took us by surprise," said JBAA's coach Alex MacDonald after the game. "They played pretty dirty. They scored 10 points on us in the first 15 minutes, but after we realized what we were up against, we played them on even terms."

Kats scored two tries and two goals to one try and one penalty goal for JBAA. They led at half-time, 10-3.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

At this time of year, the constituents are accustomed to receiving Our Very Own explanation of Daylight Saving Time.

However, as I have explained daylight saving time so often, I am sure all constituents must understand it by now. It is really very simple.

At 12.01 a.m. (or is it p.m.?) on April 29 (that's either Saturday night or Sunday morning, or possibly Monday has something to do with it) you set your clock 60 minutes back (I think) and voila! It is then either 1.01 a.m. or p.m. or 11.01 a.m. or p.m., as the case may be.

As you can plainly see, there is nothing confusing about daylight saving, and you should be able to adapt yourself to it easily, unless you are a transcontinental train or a cow. If you are a transcontinental train, you'd better continue to run four and one half minutes late on Atlantic, Eastern, Central, Mountain, and Pacific time, which are enough times to be late on. Or even on time on.

If you are a cow wishing to be milked, you will not bother trying to understand Daylight Saving Time. You will know dang well what time it is.

Therefore, I will not bother to explain Daylight Saving Time this year.

Instead, I shall open up a new field of time saving for your consideration.

It is all very well to save day time (which, I presume, is what Daylight Saving Time does).

But does anyone give a thought to saving night time? No. On the contrary, we go about squandering our night time, with never a thought for the future.

If all we save is day time, will we have any night time put by for when we really need it?

Obviously not. Mark my words, this present course of concentration on saving day time is sheer improvidence.

There will come a time when we will have something to do which we wish to do at night (such as sleep) and we will find we have let all our night time trickle through our fingers, and we will have no night time left.

The only solution is a dual system; in the summer, let us save day time; in winter, let us save night time.

Or (and this might be even simpler) we could institute Standard Saving Time.

Home for Aged Site Decision In Two Weeks

A decision will be made May 3 whether the Vancouver Island Presbytery of the United Church of Canada locates a senior citizens' home here or at Shawnigan lake.

Under consideration are sites on lower Washington avenue in the city and at the village of Shawnigan lake.

The decision will follow an inspection of both places by B. C. Bracewell, Graham McCall and W. T. Strath, QC, who represent the housing committee of the presbytery.

Mrs. F. H. Parsons, president of the survey committee, said the home will not be restricted to United Church members. Date of the decision was announced at the annual conference in Nanaimo of the Victoria Presbytery Women's Association.

The fall meeting of the presbytery will be held at Port Alberni Oct. 5.

New officers of the association are Mrs. C. W. Davies of Victoria, president; Mrs. R. Marshall of Shawnigan Lake, Mrs. J. E. Hess of Chemainus and Mrs. B. R. G. Radford of Comox, vice-presidents; Mrs. J. E. Gregory of Duncan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ray Macham of Chemainus, recording secretary; Mrs. W. G. Clarke of Lantzville, treasurer; Mrs. L. Walter Hitchcox Jr., 24, 613 Superior, was fined $50 or seven days in jail and suspended from driving as the result of a charge arising from an accident at Cook and Johnson on April 11. Hitchcox was driving north on Cook when he collided with a pedestrian. Police said the pedestrian suffered a fractured ankle, and another person had to jump back to avoid being struck.

Earl C. Stewart, 4209 Douglas, was fined $35 and restricted to driving for business purposes only for one month. He was involved in a two-car accident April 14 at Government and Pandora.

Also fined $35 was Louis M. Carey, 3238 Shelley, when convicted on a charge which arose from a car-bus accident March 28 at Menzies and Superior. His licence was suspended.

Court heard that Carey was driving south on Menzies and the bus was traveling on Superior when the crash occurred. Two witnesses testified that the accused didn't stop for a red flashing signal light.

Carey and a passenger in his auto were taken to hospital following the collision, and damages were $1,550.

Second in a series of four talks on home gardening will be given by Times garden columnist Hilda Beastall in the Victoria Public Library at 7.30 p.m. Tuesday.

She will discuss selection of plants for various locations, dividing, planting, improvement of blooms, and selecting plants for their perfume.

An horticultural film will be shown and the audience will be given book references available in the library pertaining to points discussed. The talk will be open to the public free of charge.

FUTURE BOUNDLESS

Aviation Picture 'Never Brighter'

Aviation may become Canada's largest industry within 25 years, E. H. Moncrieff, president of the Air Industries and Transport Association of Canada, said here today.

Mr. Moncrieff, president of Standard Aero Engines Ltd., Winnipeg, was addressing the AITA semi-annual convention here at the Empress hotel.

He termed Canada's aviation future "boundless" and said the civil aviation picture of today "has never been brighter."

In reviewing the aircraft industry he reported that between 1946 and 1954 the number of licensed aircraft rose from 911 to 2,800, and total mileage increased from 28 to 61 million. Passengers carried rose from 336,000 to 2,865,347 and freight and expression from 25 to 113 million tons.

He predicted tonnages for 1955 would be double those of 1954. Preliminary operating revenues in 1955 indicate an increase of nearly 50 per cent, from $108,864,289 to $154,412,450.

Mr. Moncrieff told representatives of the association that at present "manufacturers are almost entirely dependent on military work for their existence," denying that the aviation industry could readily convert to civilian production in the case of extensive cut-backs in military requirements.

He explained that hot days and cool nights now being experienced are clearing away lower level snow largely by evaporation, and that the cool nights hold down the rate of run-off.

"So far, we have had ideal run-off and melting conditions," he said.

"If it keeps up like it has the past two weeks, we will possibly get by with not too much trouble."

Government officials said today the current weather spell is easing the danger of floods in B.C.

"If it keeps up, we will be in the clear, and should get by with little difficulty," a government official said.

WOMAN HIT BY BURNING SNAG REPORTED 'POOR'

An East Saanich road woman who was struck Saturday night by a burning snag as it fell to the ground is still unconscious and in "poor" condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Mrs. H. G. Taylor had taken a stroll Saturday evening with her son while he inspected some land-clearing fires he had burning on his property. As they walked past a burning snag, estimated at 30 feet in height, it crashed and struck Mrs. Taylor, pinning her to the ground.

Her son and friends managed to pull her free, and medical aid was summoned. Mrs. Taylor was sent to hospital in the Rest Haven Hospital ambulance.

"If she had been a minute earlier or later she would not have been harmed," said Chief Fred Brownlee of Central Saanich police, who attended.

Mayor Expects $75,000 From B.C. Government

Victoria likely will receive a grant of $75,000 from the province for beautification this year, Mayor Percy Scurrell said today.

The grant will be administered by the capital improvement district commission as successor to the capital city grant committee.

No funds are expected to be allotted to other municipalities in Greater Victoria this year but a master plan for district beautification will be devised for implementation in 1957.

Tentative plans for use of the 1956 grant, discussed by the city council public works committee today, indicate about $72,000 will be spent for widening, curbing and paving of Douglas street where it adjoins Beacon Hill park. Viewpoint parking bays are planned overlooking the park. Government approval must be obtained.

The mayor said he was told by Premier Bennett a letter would arrive at city hall today or Tuesday asking the city to name delegates to the soon-to-be-formed capital improvement district commission.

The commission was born in the last session of the B.C. Legislature. It will have 11 persons, six appointed by the cabinet, two by the city, and one each by Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Saanich.

Cabinet-appointed members will sit for five years and the others for three. No mention was made of specific amounts of money the commission will have for beautification projects throughout Greater Victoria.

The mayor said it is expected the commission will spend this year compiling plans for projects which will then be submitted to the cabinet with detailed estimates, for approval.

Last year only Victoria received a grant for local beautification, under a six-man Capital City Grant Committee. In 1955 the grant of $50,000 was expended for construction of a model yacht pool (about $18,000) and the balance on road repairs, parking bay construction and other beautification projects along the Dallas Road waterfront.

Largest single project, which the city has planned and referred to the commission, is construction of a $200,000 promenade to front the Causeway. This will serve to reinforce the present structure and permit federal government dredging of the inner harbor.

It is hoped in some quarters construction of a civic auditorium for Greater Victoria also will gain approval of the new commission.

These are both matters which may be expected to be presented in estimate form to the beautification authority this year for implementation possibly in 1957.

Swim try Wednesday

Saanich swimmer Bill Muir's Wednesday morning swim try will be along a course followed by Juan de Fuca conqueror Bert Thomas on one of his earlier attempts.

Muir will take off from Macaulay Point about 8 a.m. and proceed directly south, outside Race Rocks.

The course then curves southeast toward Ediz Hook at Port Angeles.

Muir wants winds less than 10 miles an hour before he starts. If winds are too strong, the attempt will be postponed to Thursday morning.

Crews and vessels for the swim have been selected. Accompanying the swimmer will be George Polson in a 27-foot gillnetter, and Ray Sawyer's 16-foot launch Sharon Marie under navigation of Bud Phillips.

SIXTH TRY

Muir, who made five tries at swimming the strait last summer, said he has been training extensively.

"Last year I was a greenhorn," he said. "There were a lot of things I didn't know out there in the strait."

"I feel better now than I did last fall. My muscles are stretched and I've had no cramps this year."

He will eat soda crackers and drink a cup of hot oxa before setting out. During the swim he will drink orange juice mixed with syrup and dextrose.

Bright Foam Cut-Out Mats Will Amuse the Children

By PENNY SAVER

It's a picture, a puzzle, a sponge! Especially for the small fry are the 12 by 18-inch foam mats that have puzzle cut-outs of ducks, dogs, butterflies, circles and squares. Leave it as it is, wrapped in cellophane, and hang it in the children's room as a picture, or let them have fun piecing it together as a puzzle. When bathtime comes around, they'll love using the colorful sponge animals in the tub. An array of colors, brown, yellow, pink, blue, green and white, is used in each set. The price? It's $1.

Is it time to rebind your fluffy elderdown? The satin and comes packaged complete with white felt cover for board. The pad stays dry, for the moisture passes through the foam. The pad and cover will not slide, and are flame resistant. The foam comes in bright colors, and, with the cover, costs $2.49.

As I walked by a downtown delicatessen, I was fascinated by all the types of sausages and cold meats. What really took my eye was a little cellophane package. In it were two sticks of pepperoni, and at just 10 cents.

If you'd like to know where to find any of the items mentioned in the column, call me at 2-3131 and I'll give you the regulation sized 54-inch boards names of the stores.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Parties for Joan Cross

The office staff of Evans, Coleman and Johnson gathered at the home of Mrs. J. Bailey, Fort Street, to honor bride-elect, Miss Joan Cross with a grocery shower. A large pink and green parasol concealed the gifts. Pink carnations with green ribbons and small white bells were in Miss Cross' corsage, while her mother, Mrs. F. S. Cross, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. P. B. Herbertson, received white hydrangeas with pink and green bows, respectively. Buffet refreshments were served. Invited were Mrs. R. Orr, Mrs. S. Stout, Mrs. R. Lawrence, Mrs. C. Prior, Mrs. E. I. Robinson, Misses Margaret Bell, Carolyn Dawe, Carol Cross, Dorothy Herbertson, Flo Pickering, Elizabeth McGilivray, May McArthur, Helen Sinclair, Helen Shewchuk and Veronica Chapman.

A co-hostess luncheon was held by Miss Helen Sinclair and Mrs. J. Bailey at the home of Miss Sinclair, Monterey Ave. A presentation of a standard ashtray was made by the assembled guests. Pink rosebuds and a white gardenia were in Miss Cross' corsage, and white carnations in her mother's. Guests at the party were Mrs. M. Williams, Mrs. E. I. Robinson, Mrs. R. Sinclair, Misses Margery Ellis, Wendy Norris, Phyllis Rose, Sally Leary, Brenda Durrant, Maureen O'Shea, Elenore Straith, Mary Beckett, Heather Rogers, Lynn Williams and Vivien Ganguinetti.

Mrs. George Harris entertained at her home on Rose street with a miscellaneous shower to honor Miss Cross. Gifts were arranged in a wishing well and presented with an ice-box corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Frank Cross and Mrs. P. Herbertson, mothers of the affianced couple, received rosebuds. Refreshments were served from a table centred with carnations and white lilies flanked by pale green candles in silver candelabra. Guests included Mrs. A. Cross, Mrs. D. Wilson, Mrs. A. ## Miss Hall Honor Guest Miss Ruth Hall, April bride-elect, was honored recently at a shower given by her fellow office workers at the home of Miss Peggy Gonnason, 630 Dallas Road. The bride-elect, and her mother, Mrs. F. Hall, were presented with corsages of iris and pink carnations with hyacinths, respectively. Gifts were concealed in a holder designed to resemble the B.C. Hospital Insurance Building, where the bride-elect is employed. Refreshments were served on a lace-covered table, centred with daffodils flanked by little white candles. Guests included Mrs. C. S. Gonnason, Mrs. F. Hall, Mrs. J. Gavin, Mrs. Joan Jones, Mrs. Mary Stevnot, Mrs. E. McFadden, Mrs. Norah Long, Mrs. Margery Russell-Pavler, Mrs. Jean Gray, Mrs. Grace Graham, Mrs. May Hancock, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. M. Peterson, Mrs. R. ## WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Extra Pounds Add to Your Hot Weather Discomfort

It's time to get the anti-freeze out of your car and the extra pounds off of you! If warm weather is not already with you it is just around the corner.

Why not treat yourself as kindly as you do your car? Those extra pounds heat you up about as much as the anti-freeze would your car. Overweight is always uncomfortable but it is especially so in hot weather.

For one thing, your heart has to work harder in order to pump blood through the blood vessels in your extra pounds. Also, there are all sorts of summer discomforts such as prickly heat and chafing which harass the overweight woman.

In order to be comfortable in hot weather we wear lighter clothing; even less restricting lighter undergarments and foundations. It is sheer joy to wear the attractive play clothes and swim suits if you feel comfortable in them, and you won't if you do not think you look attractive in them. That's just the way we women are!

So your Aunt Josie is here with help. I always run my Nine-Day Reducing Diet about this time every year. You can lose from five to 10 pounds in nine days if you will stick with the diet which is appearing in this newspaper daily.

FIRST DAY MENU

Here are the menus for tomorrow so that you can shop for the essential items today:

Breakfast—Half grapefruit, one thin dry piece of whole wheat toast, black coffee.

Mid-morning—Glass of tomato juice.

Lunch—Green salad with lemon or reducing dressing, one slice lamb roast (don't eat the fat), one glass skimmed milk, one thin dry piece of whole wheat toast.

Mid-afternoon—Glass of tomato juice.

Dinner—One piece of lean meat, steak or roast (five or six ounces), one-half cup squash (yellow preferable), one-half cup string beans, one glass skimmed milk, one apple.

Even five pounds will make your belts tighter and 10 pounds can make the difference between an average figure and a truly lovely one. Why not get in there and pitch and get it over with?

If you would like to have my complete Nine-Day Reducing Diet in a convenient booklet, send 10 cents and a stamped self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Floods Worsened By Ice Jam

Winnipeggers Quit Low-Lying Homes

WINNIPEG (CP)—Piling ice on the Assiniboine river threatened further flooding today as dikes weakened and crumbled under the pressure of a floodtide of muddy water sweeping over southern Manitoba farmlands.

As the situation in the Portage la Prairie area, 35 miles west of here, grew worse, work crews Sunday night began building up the dikes protecting this city of 400,000. The Red river continued its slow rise in the city and residents of low-lying areas began moving out of their homes.

Latest trouble spot on the Assiniboine developed at the "Hoop 'n' Holler," a twisting bend in the river four miles east of Portage la Prairie. A six-foot thick ice jam piled up in the bend and Joseph Omichinsky, a member of the Portage rural council, said if it was not cleaned out, trapped floodwaters would sweep into the nearby town of Oakville.

40-FOOT SPLIT

An army officer from Winnipeg was to make an aerial survey of the jam today.

Mr. Omichinsky, himself marooned on a farm while conducting a survey of the area, said in a telephone interview water was pouring through a 40-foot break in a dike, submerging the Portage-Oakville highway. Water also was sweeping over a dike near West Curtis, a small settlement east of Portage la Prairie.

He urged that an airplane or helicopter be sent into the area to bomb the ice jam. Mayor H. L. Henderson of Portage la Prairie was considering the proposal.

A bridge spanning a drainage ditch on the trans-Canada highway near Portage still was standing early today despite the severe pounding it was taking from the flooding river. Only essential traffic was being allowed over the bridge.

While most farmers evacuated their homes in the Portage district during the weekend, several preferred to remain with their livestock.

CAN'T STAND STRAIN

Agriculture Minister R. D. Robertson said Saturday night the government did not see how it was possible to stop flooding at many places along the Assiniboine. Many dikes now protecting farm land are not capable of being raised because they would not stand the strain.

In Winnipeg residents on the river side of Wellington Crescent, the street of the city's wealthy, watched anxiously as the Assiniboine began creeping up their back yards, swamping docks and boat houses.

But the swollen Red posed the biggest threat to the city. At midnight Sunday the river had risen to 18.8 feet, eight-tenths of a foot above the initial flood stage.

Two hundred students at St. John's-Ravenscourt boys' school in suburban Fort Garry made plans to evacuate the school, situated between the river and a dike. The school was swamped in the 1959 flood.

PREPARE TO MOVE

Downstream, residents of suburban Elm Park, a narrow peninsula in a hairpin bend of the river, began moving out household belongings. Premier Campbell said the area, containing about 200 homes, can expect "major flooding" along with 60 other homes which were left outside the new dikes.

Spring floods still plagued Saskatchewan and Alberta. At Lumsden, Sask., flood fighters appeared to have won a four-day battle to keep the Qu'Appelle river from pouring into the town 25 miles northwest of Regina. The level of the river was holding steady.

In Alberta, the concrete spillway of a $7,000,000 unfinished power dam on the Battle River washed out Sunday.

209 IN RACE

36 Boats Get Lost In Fog

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A 27-hour air and sea search was called off Sunday night after the last of 36 outboard motorboats, missing in a race from the mainland to Santa Catalina Island, was accounted for.

The coast guard said 145 of the 209 boats entered in Saturday's race are safe in Avalon harbor on the island. Weather permitting, they will be escorted back today. Others returned to mainland ports.

Cmdr. Arthur M. Davidson of the coast guard said a thick fog turned the race into one of the largest air-sea rescues on record.

The coast guard used 17 ships, two airplanes and two naval reserve blimps in the search. An uncounted number of private craft and planes also participated.

Hard to Spot

PARIS (Reuters)—French army technicians have developed a weapons carrier so low it can take cover in a cornfield. The driver lies flat in the 30-inch-high vehicle which carries enough ammunition for a company of infantry.

SOGGY MAIN STREET—The main street of MacGregor, Man., 20 miles west of Portage la Prairie, is under a foot of water flowing into the town from the rampaging Beaver Creek. MacGregor was one of a number of western towns and villages flooded by the spring run-off. An estimated 200 farmers fled their homes in the Portage la Prairie area. In the MacGregor area schools were closed. All stores were surrounded with sandbags and closed.

SEVEN BRIDGES WASHED OUT — Ice jams against a bridge at Jarvie, Alta., on the Pembina River, 90 miles north of Edmonton, during the spring run-off. Seven bridges in areas north and northwest of Edmonton were washed out by spring floods and four schools near Edmonton were closed. A road west of Jarvie was cut as water swept around the end of this bridge.

Edmonton Theft Believed Solved

EDMONTON (CP)—George Soga, 25, former Canadian National Express employee, is expected to be returned to Edmonton from Vancouver Tuesday to face charges of theft in connection with the disappearance of $14,300 from a CNR express truck April 9.

Det. Sgt. Alex Stevenson of the city police flew to the coast city Saturday and is expected to return with the suspect Tuesday.

Soga was arrested by the RCMP at Surrey, B.C., Friday night and police said $22,400 of the stolen money was recovered.

Record First Cry

RAIN WORTH MILLIONS

PENTICTON — Rain-making operations in Washington, Oregon and California could be worth $20,000,000 to $50,000,000 in economic benefits, a researcher said here Saturday.

J. S. Barrows of Missoula, Mont., chief of Montana's fire research division, said that in December, 1955, results of seeding 5,000 storms with silver iodide showed increases of 9 to 17 per cent in precipitation in the three Pacific coast states.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Slide Stalls 8 CPR Trains

(From The Canadian Press)

SALMON ARM — Eight CPR trains, five of them passenger-carriers containing about 500 persons, were delayed up to 16 hours Sunday following a rock and dirt slide across the main line 13 miles east of here. Three of the trains were trans-continental.

CPR officials said the slide occurred when water from fast-melting snow piled up behind the Trans-Canada highway, knocking out a section of road about 40 feet wide and 40 feet deep. The rock and earth rolled 125 feet to cover the tracks.

Two coaches on the westbound Canadian—a dining car and a sleeping car—were derailed in another mishap. No one was injured. The incident occurred when the train was moving at three miles an hour in an area where two short slides had occurred earlier. The rail bed last gave way.

Work crews had to build a new culvert to drain off water before train operations could resume late Sunday afternoon.

40 FIGHT FIRE

GIBSONS — Forty men, who flocked to the scene in small boats, Sunday prevented the spread of a $2,500 blaze which destroyed a six-room cottage on Kent's island in Howe sound.

The men noticed the flames from Gibsons, half a mile away, and responded in all kinds of boats.

THREE SAVED FROM SEA
 VANCOUVER — The Miss Lynne, a cabin cruiser, was launched Sunday just in time to rescue three men and a dog, tossed into the Fraser river when their speedboat capsized. Rescued were Cliff Hewson, Mike Pruden and Butch Uno, all of Vancouver. The speedboat was recovered.

13th TRAFFIC VICTIM

VANCOUVER — Cecil H. Anderson, 74, Sunday became the city's 13th traffic victim this year when he died from injuries suffered in an accident last Wednesday.

Police said he was hurled

over the hood of a car and through the windshield while crossing a west end street.

Canada Insures Itself

THE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES tell the Gordon Commission that Canadians are the world's most highly insured people. We buy more life insurance per capita than even our richer American neighbors.

By the end of 1955 Canadian insurance in force reached the astounding figure of $26,532,000,000. This is an increase of nearly 11 per cent over the total for 1954 and it represents 128 per cent of the nation's entire income for one year. No other nation equals that record proportionately. American life insurance, for example, represents 111 per cent of national income. In Britain the figure is 49 per cent.

A surprisingly large proportion of Canadian families is covered by insurance one way or another. The living policy holders numbered 2,656,481 at the end of last year as against 2,413,352 a year earlier. Every policy, of course, affects not only the holder but the entire family. Probably more than half the entire population has a direct stake in life insurance.

Indirectly everybody has a stake in it. For the life insurance companies are huge holders and investors of capital. The savings collected by them are used to finance investments of many sorts. A man borrowing to build a house may not know it, but the money may have come from the premiums paid by policy holders.

The modern Canadian economy, indeed—not to mention the financial security of the Canadian family—would be unimaginable without life insurance. As the insurance companies tell the Gordon Commission, the market is by no means saturated. By 1980 insurance in force will be four times today's total.

It is typical of our thrifty national character that we should choose the safest sort of investment for the protection of our dependents or for the security of old age. We know that insurance benefits will be paid without fail when they are due.

We do not know, however, what those benefits will be worth when they are paid. This is a question beyond the control of the insurance companies because they do not fix the value of money. It is no fault of theirs that an insurance policy for $1,000 written before the last war is worth about $500 today, though paid in full. The policy holder has lost heavily simply because the dollar is not worth what it once was.

Unwise policies in government, in business management and in labor unions could easily reduce the value of the dollar still more and along with it the value of life insurance, like all other fixed investments, including the Government's own bonds.

When Canadians buy more life insurance than any other people in the world they have a special interest in the value of money. The citizen who owns an insurance policy should be the last man to favor public policies bound to end in inflation.

Wheat Moves Again

LAST AUTUMN MR. C. D. HOWE was confronted on one side by an avalanche of unsold wheat and, on the other, by almost irresistible pressure to sell the wheat at any price, or to give it away. Mr. Howe kept his head. His judgment, as often before, has been confirmed by a rapid increase in wheat sales for hard cash. If the surplus is still with us, the crisis of six months ago has passed.

The Winnipeg Free Press, published in the heart of the wheat country, has long attacked Mr. Howe on a wide variety of issues including wheat. It is the first to acknowledge that he has handled the surplus problem with skill and courage.

Three factors have combined to start our wheat moving massively into the world market. Hard weather destroyed much wheat in Europe and increased the demand for imports. The United States' giveaway program has been moderated, perhaps as a result of Canadian protests. Finally, the Wheat Board, which sells all export wheat, sharply reduced its price on lower grades and importing countries were encouraged to buy again in volume.

As a result, Mr. Howe is no longer under pressure to dump wheat at the cost of the farmer, the taxpayer or both. If his policy of pa-tiency has been vindicated, it is by no means certain that we shall not face a continued surplus a year from now. The crop soon to be planted may exceed our annual sales, depending of course on the weather here and in other wheat-producing countries. We have a wheat problem but no longer a crisis.

At the moment the future of our huge prairie farm industry is clouded by the uncertain future of the International Wheat Agreement, still under negotiation at Geneva. It seems unlikely that the agreement can survive on the terms demanded by Mr. Howe.

He says that it will be useless for Canada to continue the existing arrangements unless they cover some two-thirds of the world's wheat trade. This will be impossible unless Britain, the world's largest wheat importer, rejoins the agreement, and so far Britain has refused to do so. As an importer it is interested in securing the lowest possible price and evidently believes that it will soon be able to buy wheat at prices below those fixed by the agreement.

If the present system collapses Mr. Howe apparently thinks that he can still sell wheat satisfactorily but he may have to sell at a lower price. The law of supply and demand is still in operation. So, fortunately is Mr. Howe.

All Areas Are Affected

ALDERMAN AUSTIN CURTIS is right in suggesting that surrounding municipalities should match City Council contributions to the Community Chest of Greater Victoria. But it is to be hoped that the city's donation this year will not be made dependent on municipal participation. It will be better for the city to set an example of generous treatment of the Chest, rather than withhold needed aid on the grounds that other areas are not pulling their weight.

Victoria's civic donation was drastically cut last year. The effects were felt throughout the list of 17 Chest agencies. To the city's $2,000, Saanich added $450. Oak Bay and Esquimalt gave nothing, yet the agencies represented in the united appeal of the Community Chest cover all parts of Greater Victoria and Sidney; they are in no way restricted to Victoria. The work benefits the whole community.

There has been considerable comment on the local increase in juvenile delinquency and illegitimate births. This is a problem that comes under the jurisdiction of the Family and Children's Service—a Chest agency to which more than one-third of Chest collections go. Surely aid to such a group—to mention only one—is an important concern of elected civic and municipal bodies. It is "good business," economically as well as morally.

Glass Houses and Desegregation

WHILE THE SEGREGATION controversy rages throughout the United States, the editor of the Montgomery Advertiser, Mr. Grover C. Hall, Jr., has conducted an interesting and illuminating experiment.

Montgomery is the site of the original Negro bus boycott. As such it has been widely publicized.

Appreciating that fact and the heavy censure imposed upon it by many northerners, Mr. Hall has been making spot checks on racial issues in northern and western points.

He quotes the president of the South Deering Improvement Association in Chicago on the question of racial friction in that area. The association's protest against the residential influx of Negroes led to the allocation of 150 Chicago police officers to the locality to prevent feared outbreaks of violence.

Mr. Hall asked the New York Times, Herald Tribune and Journal American, the Chicago Tribune, Detroit Free Press, Los Angeles Times, St. Louis Post-Dispatch and Washington Post how they handled social news on Negroes. Society editors on the papers told him that the New York Times had printed the picture of one Negro bride, the Herald-Tribune four or five, and the remaining papers none at all.

The Montgomery editor found from the Milwaukee Journal's editorial staff that "Negroes moving into previously white areas are resented by white residents who fear that the influx will destroy their property values."

Further surveys revealed other instances of discrimination against colored people.

Mr. Hall may not have proved a great deal in relation to the differences toward desegregation in the northern and southern states. But he has made one point: people who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones, and the number of glass houses seems to be well distributed.

The Good-Will Boys

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

IT was suggested to me by a youngster that my youth must have been pretty bleak and monochromatic, with no two-tone cars to furnish me with a steady supply of pure beauty. Well... yes and no. It is true that in parts of my youth, we honestly thought that the greatest sign of wealth was to own a big BLACK car. In cheap fiction and the movies, and often in real life too, successful men (whether honest or gangsters) drove round in a thing which was invariably referred to as a Big Black Cadillac Sedan. As for bank robberies (which were a bit less frequent on this coast in those colorless days), even if the robbers drove away in a green Ford, the witnesses were apt to remember that they drove away in a Big Black Cadillac Sedan. It sounded more exciting.

Each brace of colors was based on two colors occurring naturally together in a gem stone and its matrix. I remember one lovely car in green and grey, representing emeralds and some grey mother-stone. I forget the rest, but there was a big choice. So that whether this innovation was popular or not, it did exist, and the two-colored car of today is not a completely new thing. The only thing new about it is that it is practically compulsory... or was, last year. The bubble-gum pink wasn't and isn't compulsory, though.

AND in one period of my youth, most cars carried their spare wheel at the back, with a metal jacket around it, and nobody said "Wow, wheel, look at that, wouldja? Wire wheels!" It was just a spare wheel in an obvious place. "Kit", by the way, was a word that didn't get half the airing it does today. It mostly meant what a soldier packed up in his Old Kit Bag, along with his troubles, though it could mean other collections as well.

I dare say we were just as childishly thrilled about wheels (spare and otherwise) as the children of today, though. I can remember our thinking nobody ever thought of wire wheels before our own time, and for a while we went round saying "Wow, wheel, look at that, wouldja? Wire wheels!" And then the fashion would change, and we would say "wow" and "wheel" about disc wheels instead, thinking them brand new also. Perhaps it was the other way round, disc first and then wire... it doesn't seem very important now, somehow.

MAYBE before and maybe after the two-tone Marmos, a movie was made from Robert Graves' novels about the Roman emperor Claudius. The film company found it impossible to give the ladies of the Roman court an authentic hair-do. Because the hair-do of the time of Claudius was made and everyone in the audience would snort. No audience could believe that its own hair-do had ever existed before.

So when I make a period movie in glorious Hacknicolor about the mad bad sad days of pre-war North America, I shall take jolly good care not to have any two-toned Marmos in it. This would play havoc with what is called the suspension of disbelief.

DISBELIEF AND talking of belief and disbelief of what happened in the past, you are all familiar with the types who imagine that nothing in the past was ever any good. Nothing in the past was worth keeping or restoring. Nothing good was ever made or done or thought until the speaker himself was born... his birth, in fact, was the world's first good deed. Such types are commonest in the arts, but they are common enough in every field.

Well, I was fascinated to find Dr. Jung referring to the more fanatical of these types as mental invalids. Yes, sir. He called them psychopathic pseudo-moderns. They have no real convictions but are merely anxious to be in the swim. But he did not mean that all pseudo-moderns are psychopathic... just some... quite a few.

BUT it gives us a useful lead. Next time anyone dismisses me as a living fossil because I have ten years more experience than he has, plus a different concept of those three little tragedies called the Past, the Present and the Future, I shall say to him: "Listen to me, you psychopathic pseudo-modern, your Mental Health is no good. You're off your hinge, boy. Why not voluntarily submit to treatment? I will take you to the nearest radio station, where they know all about Mental Health. Come with me, my poor little invalid."

He may not come quietly. But at least I will have tried the right approach. And I can tell you this, he will not begin to depend on me and make claims on me, which is one of the usual dangers of psychic treatment. He will positively avoid old Doc Brock. Suits me fine.

As Our Readers See It

Comparative Religions

At the recent course on comparative religions in Victoria College, obviously the crowd didn't come to criticize—to look for differences between leading religions but rather to find out what those beliefs had in common. The listeners themselves already had a common objective in attending the course—enlightenment.

Appropriately, that term and kindred ones, were used time and again by lecturers. To paraphrase Dante's legend over the door might well have read "abandon prejudice, all ye who enter here!"

As the course proceeded it was felt there would be general agreement with Krishna of the ancient East that "God was in all religions as the thread through a string of pearls," with some reservations as to the lustre and intrinsic worth of the respective pearls.

Observable in all religions, the principle of the oneness of mankind, fatherhood of God, brotherhood of man. Not so clearly indicated in some, the principle of social justice. Now looking in that direction, past tendencies have been to stress, more or less, the hereafter at the expense of the here.

To some present it was news to learn how, especially in the more Eastern religions, the spirit of tolerance, appreciation of the good in other religions, prevailed, as expressed in "deeds not creeds."

Only one religion, it appeared in answer to frequent questions, had copyright claims on Original Sin—others preferring a more acquired or introduced version, giving old Adam a clean bill of health in that respect. Punishment for sin varies all the way from eternal torment to the negatively agreeable "disappearance of the unfit." Some religions share the belief that "we are punished, not for our sins but by our sins."

Of course, other big differences occur, notably on the why and how of human conduct here—the where and what of the hereafter. It's a long way from Nirvana, merging into the infinite, to the positive delights of paradise or even the more sober ecstasies of the western heaven. But coming down to earth, many there must have felt that after all, the best religion is the one that

Christianity and Britain

There are things I have met with in my reading lately that I think should interest many. I hope you will be able to give them a corner in your correspondence column.

Robert Parsons, the Jesuit, admits that "the Christian religion began in Britain within five years of Jesus Christ's ascension" (via St. Joseph of Arimathea).

Cardinal Pole, addressing parliament in 1555 AD, affirmed that "Britain was the first of all countries to receive the Christian faith."

Cardinal Baronius says that Joseph of Arimathea and others left Palestine due to the persecution which took effect at the martyrdom of St. Stephen.

Thus Christianity came to Britain directly from Jerusalem—and she was declared a Christian nation before Rome became a Christian city.

True there were Christians in Rome—the Pudens family and other friends of St. Paul, but when they were martyred, Christianity for nearly 200 years lived in the catacombs. Their first church was the Palatium Britannicum, or as it was sometimes called, the Titulus.

According to Clement, the third Bishop of Rome, his two predecessors in that See were Linus, son of Caradoc, the British prince, who was consecrated by St. Paul, and secondly, Cletus. St. Paul was the Apostle to the heathen and St. Peter to the Jews (partly in Babylon). See Galatians ii.9 and Romans xv.16.

The Venerable Bede, one of the canonized saints in the Roman Calendar, expressly states that "the remains of the bodies of the Apostles Paul and Peter, St. Lawrence, St. John, St. Gregory and St. Pancras, were at the solicitation of King Oswy, for Pope Vitalian, removed from Rome to England, and deposited at Canterbury in AD 656. Pope Vitalian's letter to Oswy being extant."—Bede Hist. lib. 11. c. 29. Their remains, if any, repose in British soil.

FROM CAIRO

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Col. Nasser Faces a Choice

THE new leader of Egypt, the embodied symbol and acknowledged leader of the new surge of Arab nationalism, Gamal Abdel Nasser, is not an easy man to read. Certain of Nasser's qualities are obvious enough. He has the warm, natural charm that often goes with inexhaustible vitality. With all the charm he also has iron nerves, great boldness and solid strength of character. Furthermore, he is a dedicated patriot, a strict Mohammedan, and a man immune to all the ordinary temptations, who lives just about as simply as the virtual dictator of Egypt as he lived when he was an obscure colonel in the Egyptian army.

Alsop

But although I have been lucky enough to see Col. Nasser twice since I have been in Cairo, and although he has talked at length and with apparent freedom on both occasions, I cannot even dimly guess what his intentions really are.

The best guess I can hazard is that Col. Nasser himself is at a crucial turning point, considering different alternatives with all their fateful implications, and waiting to decide which course he will choose.

No Exclusive Alliance

One alternative he has already resoundingly rejected. He will not enter any exclusive alliance with the West such as he would have been forced to enter if he had accepted the invitation to join the Baghdad Pact.

The defence of the Arab lands, he said to me as he has said so many times before, should be "independently organized by the Arab peoples themselves."

That means, of course, that the defence of the Arab lands should be organized under Egyptian leadership. Although Col. Nasser stoutly denies any ambition to be the pan-Arab leader, it is hard to believe that he would reject the role. Yet I do not think that this is the real cause of his passionate opposition to the Baghdad Pact.

The real cause, I believe, is the conviction of Col. Nasser and almost every other Egyptian that an exclusive alliance with the West would once more reduce Egypt to a semi-colonial status of a new kind. On this point, his suspicion is constant, his fears are ineradicable.

"Britain," he says, "is always going out the door and then coming in the window."

There is a curious ambivalence in Col. Nasser's attitude towards the British, who are being sharply distinguished from the Americans in the present phase in Cairo. On the one hand, he is obviously alarmed as well as angered by the attacks on him and his regime that have recently been heard in London.

Honest Conviction

On the other hand, Col. Nasser is clearly voicing his honest conviction when he predicts (with great probable accuracy) that the semi-colonial positions Britain still holds in the Middle East are doomed in the long run.

"In the long run," he told me, "they cannot stand against the power of Arab nationalism. Today there is only one important Arab government supported by the British, the government of Iraq. Already in Jordan, nationalism has proved stronger than British. In Iraq it will happen, too, not today, but tomorrow. They say we Egyptians conspire to make the nationalists succeed, but I tell you Arab nationalism succeeds because it is strong in itself."

And to this he adds (again with great probable accuracy) that: "You in the West should remember that the real alternative to true nationalism in the Arab lands is almost sure to be Communism. Here in Egypt, until we of the army rose and took control, the Communists were gaining strength each year because the people thought they represented the national spirit. That is the choice for you in the West, between the Arab nationalism, and Communism disguised as nationalism. You must make the choice soon."

All these themes Col. Nasser developed at great length during my first call on him. I asked to see him a second time because I wished to ask him what the Western allies would have to do in order to come to terms with, in order to make friends with, the new Arab nationalism.

Minimum Requirement

Part of the answer was of course obvious. The minimum requirement, as for the United States to persuade Britain to liquidate the semi-colonial positions Britain still holds out here.

The minimum requirement for persuading Britain is for the United States to guarantee Britain, to reinsure Britain, as it were, against the losses that the British fear will result from concessions to Arab nationalism. This cannot be escaped.

But if nationalist aspirations were satisfied, would Col. Nasser guarantee the West the precious oil that the West needs for survival? Could the West be sure that triumphant Arab nationalists would not soon launch a revenge attack upon Israel?

And if the West insisted on these two vital conditions, would Col. Nasser incline towards an exclusive alliance with the Kremlin, which might open the door to a new form of colonialism even more rapidly than an exclusive alliance with the West?

To the first question, about oil, the Egyptian leader answered that he "recognized the West's vital interest" and that "good relations were the best guarantee of the oil." Yet his press and some of his subordinates have sometimes talked a rather different language.

Different Language

To the second question, about Israel, the Egyptian leader replied that "Egypt would never attack Israel unless Egypt were first attacked; in fact until Egypt was attacked on Feb. 28, 1955, we were neglecting our army and spending all our money on internal development. It was only after that that we began to look for arms and we bought them from the Russians because you would sell us none."

Yet on this subject too, Col. Nasser's press and some of his subordinates often talk a very different language; and Col. Nasser himself would not seriously discuss any positive settlement with Israel.

Finally, to the last question, accepting further aid from the Soviets, the Egyptian leader replied that the Soviets had always been "perfectly correct" with Egypt, and that "no Middle Easterner had any experience of Soviet imperialism."

Those answers quite obviously define the hard choice that lies ahead of Col. Nasser. Any Westerner is a fool who does not see why Nasser and Egypt are today in doubt about which road to take. And Western statesmanship will surely miss another last chance if Nasser and Egypt are not aided, by all means possible, to make the choice that best serves the long-run interests of Egypt and the West alike.

CURED

There are plenty of cases of relieved murderers who, after serving a "life" sentence, have become honored members of society. In fact, it is quite possible that the husband of your neighbors who have just moved in, and of whose antecedents your wife is very curious, is the man whose crime filled the newspapers ten or fifteen years ago. But you have no cause for alarm. Relieved murderers, when released, rarely, if ever, commit another crime.

Russians to Check on Secret Police

MOSCOW (AP)—The Presidium of the Supreme Soviet has set up a special committee to keep watch on the activities of Russia's security organs, including the secret police.

Slain Woman Found in Well

HAMILTON (CP)—Police reported today finding the body of a 48-year-old woman, bearing rope burns on her neck, immersed in an 11-foot well in the basement of her nearby Carlisle home.

Truce Commission Asked to Continue

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain and Russia today published a joint appeal to the three-power commission in Viet Nam to continue its work for an indefinite period.

The commission, composed of representatives from Canada, Poland and India, supervised the Indo-China armistice reached at the 1954 Far East conference in Geneva.

Faked Passports Said Flooding U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. attorney, Paul Williams, said today a "vicious ring" specializing in faked passports has flooded the country with thousands of Latin-Americans with criminal records.

The illegal immigrants have become "abject slaves" of the ring, Williams said as a special federal grand jury was set up to investigate the alleged conspiracy.

Chatham Forward Suspended

WINNIPEG (CP)—Jimmy Dunn, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, announced today that forward Ted Powers of the Chatham Maroons has been suspended for two games in their best-of-seven Allan Cup final against Vernon Canadians.

Powers was suspended for "deliberately injuring" defenceman Willie Schmidt of Vernon in the last three seconds of Saturday night's game at Vernon, won by Canadians, 6-2. The series now is tied 1-1.

Moore-Romero Fight for Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fight promoter Earle Kalani said today he will meet Tuesday with world light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore to make final arrangements for a non-title bout at Vancouver's Capilano Stadium late in July. Kalani said Moore will fly to Vancouver from Los Angeles for a two-hour meeting. The champion's proposed opponent is Edgardo Romero, a South American heavyweight who drew a record Vancouver crowd two years ago in an outdoor bout with Canadian heavyweight Earl Walls.

FLOOD THREAT GROWING

WINNIPEG RUSHING EMERGENCY DIKING

30 Miles of Lake
Swamping Farmland

(See Also Page 3)

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (CP)—A giant ice jam in the Assiniboine River east of here broke late today releasing a torrent of flood water over downstream banks.

WINNIPEG (BUP) — A $500,000 emergency dike construction job swung into action this morning to meet the threat of Red River flood waters which are expected to top present dike levels by May 7. Flood protection director, Carson Templeton, said contractors, 58 units of major earth-moving equipment, 100 laborers and 200 trucks were working on five major dikes and one secondary dike.

WINNIPEG (CP)—From 1,000 feet, the 30 miles between Headingley and Portage la Prairie appeared today as a huge lake studded with black fields, farm buildings and ribbons of roads and rails.

I flew over the area for a bird's eye view of a situation the flood experts call "critical."

In most spots water lies maybe a foot deep in fields where it can do little damage.

In others it creeps away from the swollen Assiniboine rivers at depths of one to 2½ feet with trouble in its wake.

FARMS CUT OFF

Farms are isolated, villages and bridges threatened, roads cut. Some stretches of the river can not be distinguished because of overflowing lakes.

And all because the most flood-prone area in Manitoba fell prey this year to an unpredictable combination—spring run-off along with ice jams.

Without the ice, the overflow would be nowhere near as great. Ice is not even concentrated for easy blasting; it is spread out in long packs of mushy snow fused together.

Ice jams the tortuous, meandering Assiniboine at five major points between Headingley and Portage.

CLOGGED FOR 600 FEET

East of Portage a 600-foot whopper forced the river to spill over among farms and toward nearby villages, road and rail lines.

Further east the same story, though not so serious. Water is over the banks to join run-offs in fields and creeks.

Warmer weather may need some man-made help to free the ice and start the river flowing smoothly, but water in the fields will have to find its way back by another way.

The major trouble spot is between Portage and Poplar Point where the overflow has endangered a Trans-Canada Highway bridge.

South of the river, villages along No. 2 Highway are mainly cut off.

Bookmaking
Network Said Centred Here

No Confirmation
By Police Here

Police in Everett, Wash., said today Victoria is the hub for an international bookmaking network.

Chief Deputy Bill Williamson said a direct telephone line to Victoria was uncovered following a raid Saturday on a back room of the El Rancho night club.

E. A. Peterson, 67, was charged with illegal possession of gambling equipment.

The deputy told the Times today: "I'm still working on an angle here, but when I questioned Peterson, he told me Victoria was the hub of a huge bookmaking network."

He was in touch by telephone at noon today with Police Chief John Blackstock. Chief Blackstock said a fuller report will be made when all the facts in the case have been assembled in Everett.

District commercial manager of the B.C. Telephone Co., J. A. Mackintosh, said: "I don't know of any leased lines we have with the United States. We have none to my knowledge."

Police chiefs in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt were emphatic no organized bookmaking existed in their municipalities.

Two years ago there were similar reports about racing information from here going to the U.S. but nothing was ever discovered.

Aerial H-Bomb
Tested by Reds

Khrushchev, Irate, Warns Nuclear Missiles to Hit Anywhere, Nearing

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (AP)—Communist Party boss, Nikita Khrushchev boasted today Russia soon will have guided missiles with H-bomb warheads which could "hit every point in the world." Khrushchev made this statement in warning those who jeered: "Never shake your fist at a Russian."

Khrushchev disclosed, too, that the Russians have already exploded an H-bomb from a plane. He claimed the Soviet Union was the first to do this.

Speaking in Russian without notes at a luncheon, he showed he was nettled by booing crowds who met him and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev here on the sixth day of their 10-day visit to Britain.

The full impact of Khrushchev's words seemed lost in the bustle of the luncheon, but an official translation by the Soviet news agency Tass underlined his implied threat.

"We shall have in the near future a guided missile with an H-bomb warhead which can hit every point in the world."

Premier Bulganin indicated last December the Russian's already have guided missiles capable of intercontinental flights. Khrushchev said he had seen people shaking fists at him and words seemed lost in the bustle of the luncheon, but an official translation by the Soviet news agency Tass underlined his implied threat.

"In spite of all that, you do not want to trade with us," he added. "The point I want to make is that these restrictions on trade do not prevent us in any way making advances in armaments. Therefore it is quite unreasonable."

The Communist party leader said that "only the development of widespread trade can smooth the road to really strong friendship" between Britain and Russia.

With a grin, he said Anglo-Soviet trade could hardly flourish when it is based on Russian car exports in exchange for British herring "although your herrings are wonderful—particularly with a drop of vodka."

Russia had been forced to build up its machine-tool industry, although it preferred to buy machine tools from Britain.

"They say there should be no trade in strategic goods because of the possibility of conflict," Khrushchev said. "But what are strategic goods? Butter can also be considered as strategic."

Earlier, jeering demonstrators carrying anti-Communist banners heckled Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin during a whirlwind tour of Birmingham.

Obviously excited, Khrushchev referred to the demonstrations and warned: "Never shake your fist at a Russian."

He told the luncheon that he and Bulganin, now on a 10-day visit to Britain and for high level talks, had seen placards "attacking us and Russia, and we have heard the cries of many people."

"We have seen fists shaken at us."

'Never Shake Fist at Russian'

"I would remind the man with foot-high sign in yellow paint on the castle walls: 'Keep the murderers out!—Don't entertain murderers!' A coat of grey paint was first at a Russian."

"Hitler tried to attack us with a clenched fist and now he is in his grave."

"Is it not time that we became more intelligent and not shake our fists at each other? We have come here not to create hostility. We have come on a friendly visit at Sir Anthony's Eden's invitation, and we are most grateful to him for that invitation."

The Russians' departure this morning from their headquarters at London's swank Claridge's Hotel was delayed for two hours at their request. After four days of intensive talks with British government leaders and numerous public appearances, aides said they were "feeling the strain of their work and are very tired."

After spending Saturday night at Chequers, the prime minister's country home, Khrushchev and Bulganin had tea Sunday with the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh at Windsor castle. While the Russians balanced their cups, young Prince Charles and Princess Anne were brought in to meet them.

The visitors lavished gifts on the Royal Family. There was a Russian sable wrap for the Queen and two sleek Russian horses for the Duke and Prince Charles. Princess Anne received a little brown bear.

A crowd of visitors gathered to watch as the Soviet leaders were whisked through the great gates of Windsor. Many cheered, and the Russians waved happily.

They missed one greeting their official hosts hadn't counted on. Police at daybreak discovered this

KHRUSHCHEV CHEERED, JEERED

Urged by Dulles

NEW YORK (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the United States is ready to join western European democracies in "exploring the possibilities" of converting the North Atlantic Treaty Organization into a closer union of free nations.

In a major policy address, Dulles said "the time has come to advance NATO" from its initial phase as a mutual defence pact "into the totality of its meaning."

"The peoples who make up the Atlantic community ought, in increased unity, to resume their greatness."

"The North Atlantic Treaty already serves as an indispensable and vital instrument of the Atlantic community. But the time has . . . come to consider whether its organization does not need to be further developed, if it is adequately to serve the needs of this and coming generations."

"If that be the common desire of the NATO member nations, the United States will join eagerly in exploring the possibilities which now beckon us forward."

Dulles made clear, however, that the United States does not envision complete federation of the NATO powers, but rather a system in which each nation would preserve a considerable measure of independence in foreign affairs as well as in its domestic affairs.

"The historic weakness of the West has been its disunity," Dulles asserted in his speech before the annual Associated Press luncheon held in connection with the American Newspaper Publishers Association meeting.

"A major task of postwar statesmanship was to find ways whereby the West can maintain its solidarity. Much has been done. But more can still be done."

He had told two schoolmates they could have his 25 pet chickens if he didn't come to school today.

His fishing kit, his bow and his knapsack were found labelled with the names of playmates he wanted to give them to because, he said, "I'll be sent to the reformatory."

Victims of the child's shooting spree were his father, Richard, 42, a dairy farmer contractor; his mother, Beatrice, 41, a nurse, and his brother, Richard, Jr., 14.

The boy was questioned Sunday and taken to Norwich mental hospital for 30 days.

"We love you so much," sez Mister Khrushchev, "we've made a big new H-bomb all for you."

monopolies are suffering defeat," the Soviet Communist party organ declares in an editorial. "The weakening of her economic position was bound to tell on Britain's political influence in this area."

"We recall these facts not in order to drive a wedge between the United States and Britain but merely to show how groundless is the talk of some British papers about Soviet intrigues in the Near and Middle East."

INVITES TRIPS TO RUSSIA

Also involved in the Russian-British discussions are East-West differences on how to achieve disarmament and ways to remove trade, cultural and tourist barriers between Britain and the Soviet Union.

Bulgarian told a reception at the London County Council Sunday night that Russia will "welcome visits to Moscow and other parts of our country by people from London or any other part of Britain."

Many parts of the Soviet Union now are closed to foreigners, and Moscow generally has chosen carefully when issuing entry visas.

Members of Bulgarian's audience, including aldermen, sheriffs and borough mayors, suggested there might be more visits if a more realistic ruble exchange rate were adopted.

"We are looking into this matter and hope to do something about it," Bulgarian said.

Russia arbitrarily pegs the ruble at four to the dollar and slightly under a dozen to the pound sterling ($2.80). Its purchasing rate for visitors at these rates is so low that the cost of touring Russia reaches fantastic heights. On free money markets in the West, the ruble sells at about 10 to the dollar, but import of these "black market" rubles into Russia is forbidden.

JEERED BY 300

At Birmingham jeering demonstrators with "Down with Moscow" banners heckled Bulgarian and Krushchev during their whirlwind tour of the Midlands industrial centre.

The derisive greeting for the Kremlin leaders came as Prime Minister Eden's chief lieutenant indicated cautious optimism that their talks in London will prove valuable.

"If we can judge from the talks up to date, and if deeds follow words, then we can say already that the visit has been well worthwhile," R. A. Butler, leader of the House of Commons, said in opening the British Industries Fair in London.

A crowd of about 300 gave the Russian leaders a hostile reception outside Birmingham's city hall where they were received after a flight from London.

Big banners in Russian and English urged Bulgarian and Krushchev to "Go Back to Moscow."

One group carried a large pennant "Keep Communism Out." Others read: "We Ask Freedom for Latvia." "Down with Moscow Imperialism." A giant banner in Ukrainian proclaimed "For an Independent Ukraine."

MOST HOSTILE RECEPTION

There were jeers and catcalls for the Russian leaders all along the nine-mile drive from the airport to the city centre.

It was the most hostile reception the Kremlin chieftains have received since they arrived in Britain six days ago for a 10-day visit. Thousands of exiled East Europeans live in the Birmingham area.

The Russians' itinerary for the rest of the day included a visit to the Midlands section of the industrial fair, a flight to the East Anglia RAF base at Marham, and finally a flight back to London for dinner at the House of Commons.

Before their takeoff from London, Bulgarian and Krushchev paused briefly at London airport to look over Britain's new Bristol Britannia, a four-engine turbo-prop plane designed to carry 120 passengers.

Famed Writer Shapiro Says More Canadian Reporters Needed Abroad

TORONTO (CP)—Author-reporter Lionel Shapiro of Montreal said Saturday that Canadian newspaper publishers ought to maintain more Canadian reporters abroad.

Writer of the best-selling The Sixth of June, soon to appear as a motion picture, and himself a veteran war and foreign correspondent, Mr. Shapiro addressed the Toronto Men's Press Club's annual dinner.

Mr. Shapiro said Canada has become the "wonder nation of the mid-20th century." Her accomplishments during the Second World War were the foundation for the "most vividly spectacular growth in modern economic history."

Canadian journalism, however, had not kept pace. "Our basic coverage of a Geneva conference still comes mainly from American and British sources."

As a start The Canadian Press should be enabled to maintain top-line Canadian reporters "wherever Canadian interests are involved—and that means reaching into all the policy-making capitals of the world."

The Second World War obliged Canadian publishers to organize their own coverage abroad. Canada had produced some of the best reporters in the field.

Canadians Proved Best of the Crop

Ross Munro, now editor of the Vancouver Province, "became the war correspondent's war correspondent."

"Then of The Canadian Press, he was by common consent the best war correspondent in the business."

Among radio reporters the CBC's Matt Halton "was right at the top of the heap."

"The war produced no more eloquent copy than the dispatches of Ralph Allen, then of the Globe and Mail (now editor of Maclean's Magazine) and of Fred Griffin and Greg Clark of the Toronto Star."

Mr. Griffin died shortly after the war, while Mr. Clark now is associate editor of Weekend magazine.

"And in the field of press facilities we produced two men recognized in every press camp, British, American or Canadian, as the best in the war—Dick Malone and Eric Gibbs."

Brig. Malone now is publisher of the Winnipeg Free Press, while Col. Gibbs, who died at Geneva in

May, 1954, headed several Time and Life magazine bureaus after the war.

As urgent a situation confronted publishers today.

The Western world was bleeding and handicapped by "second-class leadership."

President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles of the United States, Prime Minister Eden and Foreign Secretary Lloyd of Great Britain, and Premier Guy Mollet and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau of France, Mr. Shapiro said, are "men who lack the backbone and the vision to lead our world."

"With the world striking fire in the Far East, in Southeast Asia, the Middle East, in North Africa and Western Europe itself, these men represent the Big Three which, alas, is turning out to be the Very Small Three."

Canada ranked first among the lesser powers which, in such times, bore especially grave responsibility. Her foreign policy leadership was among the most highly respected.

Pearson Among Best Western Leaders

External Affairs Minister Pearson "is popularly regarded as the brightest, clearest, most effective mind in the gallery of our Western leadership." He had developed a fine diplomatic service for Canada.

3 Boys Face Hanging as Appeal Lost

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba Court of Appeal today unanimously dismissed the appeal of three Quebec youths against a conviction of murder in the pistol-slaying of a Roman Catholic priest near Brandon in January, 1955. The three are scheduled to be hanged May 29.

They are Guy Ferragne, 19, of Riviere des Prairies, Gerard Yvon de Tonnancourt, 18, and Claude Paquin, 18, both of Montreal.

They were found guilty of murdering Rev. Alfred Quirion 43-year-old priest of St. Edouard, Alta., in his automobile on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Evidence at the trial showed the three got a ride with the priest while hitch-hiking. The priest's bullet-punctured body was found on his ditched automobile east of Brandon.

The three were arrested several hours later in a Brandon railway station.

Singer Perry Como plays a song written by Irwin Luck (right), during a meeting at Como's New York office. Luck, an 18-year-old student from Miami, Fla., paid $850 to rent a huge billboard sign in the heart of Times Square to call Como's attention to his song-writing abilities. The advertising paid off and Luck was given a chance to show his wares to the famous entertainer.

Poland to Release 30,000 by Amnesty

LONDON (Reuters)—Communist Poland will release 30,000 prisoners immediately by amnesty under a new draft law and will reduce the sentences on 70,000 others, Warsaw radio said Sunday.

The radio said the draft was discussed by legal and administrative committees of the Polish parliament Sunday.

For the first time since the Second World War political crimes will be pardoned altogether or in some cases the terms of punishment mitigated, the radio said.

Spies and terrorists will have their sentences reduced while people who indulged in subversive propaganda, crossed ille-

Island VIPs Promise to Attend 'Bury-the-Hatchet' Ceremony

DUNCAN—A special committee of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce has completed details of "hatchet burying" to be held here Wednesday.

The ceremony will symbolize the end of "strife" between Victoria and Nanaimo, and the spirit of co-operation to be observed by all Island centres.

Mayor Dobson will officiate at the rites and the local chamber will provide the hatchet which will be buried by Mayor Percy Scurrell of Victoria and Nanaimo's Mayor Earl Westwood.

The city of Duncan will also provide the tombstone under which the emblematic hatchet will be entombed on the grounds adjoining the chamber's tourist information office on the Trans-Canada highway at Coronation Avenue.

Invited to the ceremony are Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Chetwynd, all Vancouver Island MPs and MLAs, the mayors of all Island cities, reeves of municipalities and chairmen of village commissions, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, Magistrate A. C. Sutton, Sgt. T. D. Brunton of Duncan's RCMP, deputy ministers of trade and commerce and municipal affairs, and presidents of all Island chambers of commerce.

LUNCHEON

This company will attend a "no-host" luncheon in the Emerald Room of the Troubadour Hotel at 12.30, with Maj. Gen. C. A. P. Murison, reeve of North Cowichan municipality and president of the Vancouver Island Municipal Association, presiding.

Speakers at the luncheon are to be Mayor Dobson, Mayor Scurrell and Mayor Westwood, who are expected to outline their plans for furthering promotional co-operation among Vancouver Island cities and communities.

Full press, radio and television coverage is assured.

After the luncheon the guests will be transported to the "cemetery" by V.I. Coach Lines buses donated for the occasion. Leaving the hotel at 2:15 p.m., the entourage will be escorted by RCMP.

The Queen's Own Rifles, Victoria, is providing a bugle band and a guard of honor for the ceremony, while Indians in costume will present dances and songs during the afternoon's program at the burial site.

Mayor Dobson will introduce the visiting mayors. Short addresses are scheduled by the Victoria and Nanaimo mayors and by Premier Bennett and Mr. Gagliardi.

Abel Joe has been asked to present the ceremonial hatchet on a velvet cushion to Miss Sjöberg, "Miss PNE," who will, in turn, present it to Mayor Dobson, who will officiate at the rites.

The hatchet will be entombed

in concrete and covered by a tombstone measuring 28 by 26 inches and 26 inches at its highest point.

After the participants return to the platform, the program will conclude with "The Queen."

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!

Soak your plates in Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath"

Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth—and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules:
1. Never use a brush on them! Your denture plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only... Polident! Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

around the yacht in small boats like respectful waterbugs.

Rest and relaxation restored her vivacity and she was beautiful when she entered the lobby of the Formentor hotel with Rainier.

Another report of Grace's illness came from Waldo de Mier, Mallorca correspondent for the Madrid newspaper Arriba.

"The only thing that one has been able to find out," he reported, "is that Grace was very seasick and that she wanted with all her heart and soul that the boat stay on a level keel—something it had not done until it entered the calm waters of the bay."

The Absolutely Top-Notch British Comedy
"HOBSON'S CHOICE"
Starring Charles Laughton, John Mills, Brenda De Banzie

Taken from the famous stage play of the same name, "Hobson's Choice" has become a household word throughout the North of England, and the film, one of the greatest movies ever produced. For its authenticity and sheer early humor, relished most by Lancashire and Yorkshire folk, "Hobson's Choice" is positively unbeatable. In fact, it's a "rare grade" do, if you know what we mean. Filmed at Salford, Manchester and played by characters entirely familiar with their surroundings, "Hobson's Choice" is a joy to behold. A "Must See" picture which we recommend unreservedly for the whole family. Receives critics' unanimous praise.

Rodgers and Hammerstein's hauntingly beautiful love song, "If I Loved You," expresses all the poignancy of the strange romance in their musical, "Carousel," now brought to the screen by Shirley Jones and Gordon MacRae. Filmed in Twentieth Century-Fox's new CinemaScope 55, the picture is now showing at the Royal Theatre.

Stock Market Whiz, 10, Wins $100,000

NEW YORK (UP)—A 10-year-old schoolboy expert on the stock market won $100,000 Saturday on a television quiz program.

Leonard Ross of Tujunga, Calif., answered a difficult five-part question about the New York stock exchange to become the fourth person to win the top prize on the NBC program, "The Big Surprise."

Leonard is the son of William Ross, a Los Angeles accountant, said in an interview: "There's no such thing as a genius in our family. Lennie has just worked and studied."

Ross said the boy reads the stock quotations like most kids study the baseball box scores.

The father admitted his own interest in the market probably started Lennie off. Last year Ross, Sr., was so impressed with the lad's knowledge that he let Lennie select some of his mother's stocks.

"They've earned at least 10 per cent," the elder Ross said.

Capitol Theatre To Close For Renovation

One of Victoria's largest motion picture houses, the Capitol Theatre, will close May 5 for extensive renovations.

When completed the Yates Street theatre is expected to boast a new marquee outside and a new sound system inside.

Plans, still incomplete, are expected to be known within the next ten days. Officials of Famous Players Ltd., Vancouver, intimated that cost and extent of the work to be done could not be determined at this time. The renovations, however, had been on the planning board "for some time."

MANITOBA

Ice jam on Assiniboine River breaks near Portage la Prairie, increased flood threat to town of Oakville. Army studies call for aerial bombing to break pile-up. . . . At Winnipeg work speeded to strengthen dikes. Residents of low-lying areas begin evacuating homes. . . . Preparations were made for evacuating 200 boys from St. John's-Ravenscourt school at Fort Garry. . . . Traffic impeded in southern Manitoba where bridges are weakening under thrust of run-off water.

ALBERTA

Vermilion River swept over four bridges in the Mannville area, 75 miles east of Edmonton. Some 250 children were ferried from district farms Sunday and billeted in Mannville. . . . At Vegreville life was returning to normal as waters receded after cutting off the town's hospital.

SASKATCHEWAN

Flood-fighters at Lumsden appeared to be winning their four-day battle to keep the Qu'Appelle River from invading the town 25 miles northwest of Regina. . . . At Tantallon residents were preparing to leave their homes. The river there rose three inches during the weekend.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Melting snow sparks torrents in Rockies, trigger slides and washouts. Eight CPR trains stalled 16 hours near Revelstoke until late Sunday. . . . Trans-Canada Highway blocked by washout near Sicamous. . . . Northern trans-provincial road under water 20 miles east of Burns Lake.

MAY SWAMP AREA

Portage residents fear the area around Oakville will be swamped unless the Assiniboine ice jam is cleared. Last year a record ice jam at the same spot sent water tumbling into Elie, 20 miles east.

The Assiniboine's banks along this 30-mile stretch are higher than the land on either side. Once the water is over the top, it's away.

Southeast of Portage, the flood water from the Assiniboine flows south into the La Salle, which joins the Red River at St. Norbert via Elie and Starbuck.

Flood waters over the north bank find their way back to the Assiniboine through creeks and drainage ditches—but only after the river level drops.

This drainage process may take a month, or six weeks, and not before the crest of the Assiniboine reaches Portage.

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain will spend nearly £1,000,000 in the next 10 years on reconstructing her coal industry, the national coal board announced today.

Mosher Threatens Walkout

TORONTO (CP)—A. R. Mosher, veteran president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, today threatened to walk out of the new Canadian Labor Congress convention if delegates persisted in protesting a leadership decision.

Mosher and several other leaders eventually quelled rebellious rank-and-file delegates who had been objecting to the blinding nature of some terms of the new C.L.C. constitution as laid before the Congress' founding convention by its leadership.

An hour-long uproar developed over the C.L.C.'s first item of business as more than a dozen delegates argued against a proposal from the officers that there could be no change in constitution sections agreed upon previously by the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor.

The two organizations are merging this week into the 1,000,000-member Canadian Labor Congress.

The 74-year-old Mosher angrily declared that any change in the fundamental merger terms could destroy the amalgamation itself.

"I for one won't stay at a convention that disregards the terms of this agreement," he shouted.

TLC president Claude Jodoin, co-chairman of the convention with Mosher, said the delegates must be faithful to the joint TLC-CCL pledges if the merger was to succeed.

Eventually, an overwhelming vote upheld the officers' recommendation that the disputed terms may not be debated.

Greeks Kill 2 Turks in Cyprus Riot

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Two Turkish Cypriots were killed today as this capital city of troubled Cyprus burst out in a wave of shooting and violence between Greeks and Turks.

A band of young club-wielding Turks marched through the narrow streets smashing Greek store windows and hurling stones at a Greek crowd.

One of the shooting victims, slain as he chased a fleeing gunman.

The other was shot to death in a tobacco factory two hours later after British troops cordoned off the heart of the city.

Eden Bid to Moscow

LONDON (AP)—Premier Nikolai Bulganin has invited Prime Minister Eden to pay a return visit to Russia as soon as he can find the time, a diplomatic official reported tonight.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O LORD help us to use good temper, courage and kindness today that others will find it easier to believe in Thee; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

ALBERTA FLOOD WRECKS BIG DAM'S SPILLWAY

EDMONTON (CP)—Rampaging waters of the Battle River Sunday washed away the concrete and steel spillway of an unfinished $7,000,000 power dam 10 miles south of Forestburg, Alta., and raised a threat to several bridges. Many acres of farmland were inundated.

The spillway gave way as the river rose to its highest level since 1948.

Damage to the Forestburg dam, 130 miles south-east of Edmonton, was estimated at more than $250,000. The power dam was due to open Sept. 4.

WIRE BRIEFS

Holocaust in Japan

FUKUKI, Japan (AP)—Some 4,000 persons lost their homes today in a fire which destroyed 600 of 2,700 houses in the town of Awaramachi, 11 miles north of here. One person was killed.

Roper Quits

Ban Jim Crow Buses

3 Drug Offenders Get 37 Years' Jail

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two men and a woman were sentenced today to a total of 37 years in prison after being found guilty by Magistrate Oscar Orr of possessing narcotics for the purpose of trafficking.

Victor Hansen, 25, was sentenced to 14 years. David Orne, 25, was given 13 years and 23-year-old Mrs. Carol Talbot was sentenced to 10 years.

Metchosin Girl Badly Bitten By Raccoon

A three-year-old girl was attacked and severely bitten by enraged raccoon in the Latoria Road, Metchosin area, this morning.

Donna Klatt, Latoria Road, was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital shortly after noon for severe bites to her left hand and ear.

It was the second attack by a raccoon in that area since last Wednesday when three members of one family were bitten by a "pet" raccoon.

The raccoon had been a pet of Mrs. Flewin, Glen Lake. It went on a rampage last Wednesday, sending Mrs. Flewin, a son, James, 9, and daughter, Sherry, 3, to hospital.

It was reported the attacking raccoon this morning was beaten off by an unidentified man when he saw the little girl on the ground, and the raccoon chewing on her hand and ear. It is believed to be the same animal.

Lost His Job, Too

CHICAGO (AP)—A bus driver who police said pistol-whipped and shot at a passenger who didn't have the exact fare, has been charged with intent to kill.

(The Chicago Transit Authority also fired the driver, Herman Lewis, 35.)
